American Wounded in Wild Fighting.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 29.—An open battle between communists and soldiers took place this afternoon in the center of Havana. Six persons are known to have been killed and 20 seriously wounded.

Among those wounded was Joseph E. Gibson, 46, an American cameraman for the Universal Newsreel service, which is controlled by the Chicago Daily News. He was shot in the legs while taking pictures from the Isla de Cuba hotel. Gibson is at the emergency hospital, where doctors are digging buckshot out of him.

Authorities began an investigation into the shooting of Gibson. Other American cameramen with Gibson at the time said the shots came from snipers hidden above them and not from soldiers, as had been reported. The cameramen were taken to the Plaza hotel, where soldiers and students destroyed their films, apparently under definite orders from some source.

Four Firemen Shot.

Four firemen were shot when they turned water on the mobs in Fraternity square. Snipers firing from the roof of the National theater killed one sailor in front of the national capitol. Capt. José Hernandez Roda of the army was one of those wounded. Little hope is held for his recovery.

Tonight the city is under redoubled military surveillance. Soldiers and civilians at 6 o'clock raided the headquarters of the National Confederation of Labor, which is said to be dominated by communists. The populace dismantled the place, set books and records afire, and threw the furniture into the street. Tonight chairs and tables were blazing in a bonfire in the Prado next to the Saratoga hotel.

The clash between the communists and the troops supporting the Grau San Martin government came as an accompaniment to a proposed Red demonstration over the interment of the ashes of Julio Mella, a communist student who was killed in Mexico two years ago. Radicals charge that Mella was killed by agents of former President Machado's Porra who had been sent to Mexico from Cuba. Mella's ashes were brought from Mexico a few days ago by the communist party, the Anti-Imperialist league, the student directorate and allied organizations.

Exploit Mella as Martyr.

The communists proposed to exploit Mella as a martyr and to make the funeral the occasion for a great Red parade and demonstration. In Fraternity park they put up a small stone monument a short distance from the ceiba tree which Calvin Coolidge planted in 1929 in earth brought from 21 pan-American republics. Here the Reds planned to bury the ashes.

President Grau this morning advised the student directorate to have no part in the Mella demonstration on the ground that it had become overwhelmingly communistic in tone and management.

On advice from the palace, Emilio Laurent, chief of police, served notice on the communists that the ashes of Mella, in two small cardboard boxes inside a coffin, must not be left in Fraternity park.

Army Bans Red Flags.

At the same time Col. Fulgencio Batista, chief of staff of the army, issued word that an ordinary funeral would be permitted and that a procession might march to Colon cemetery, but without its red flags and banners.

From the start trouble appeared to be brewing. Merchants were called upon to close their stores. They complied, fearing lootings by mobs. After the siesta, which is observed here even during a revolution, the streets began to fill with marching members of syndicates and radical labor organizations affiliated with the National Confederation of Labor, members of the left wing of the students' body, and members of the communist party.

On their arms they had red bands. They carried red flags and scarlet banners with captions reading "Viva Moscow," "Down with government," "Down with Grau San Martin," "Down with American Sailors," "Down with imperialism," and "Down with Roosevelt." As they marched they sang the hymn of the Third Internationale.

Fraternity square and nearby streets were filled with sightseers. Cavalry on black horses, infantrymen with machine guns in trucks and marines

3,000 STRIKING MINERS STORM STEEL PLANT

Clairton, Pa., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Three thousand striking coal miners poured into this smoky steel town today and picketed the local by-product plant of the Carnegie Steel company in an effort to persuade its employés to join them. The plant, employing 6,000 men, is the largest by-product coke installation in the world.

At the gates of the plant the strikers enveloped the men of the day shift as they went to work this morning. Many of the miners, who had marched or ridden all night without food to reach here, snatched the dinner pails of the workmen and wolfed down their contents.

Declare Mine Holiday.

The pickets are mostly employés of the H. C. Frick Coke company, who have declared a "mine holiday" in an effort to force their employers to recognize the United Mine Workers. The Frick company and Carnegie Steel are both subsidiaries of the United States Steel corporation.

Despite the presence of a small army of company police, and city, county, and state officers, provided with riot guns, rifles, and tear gas, the day passed without serious trouble. Late tonight, however, tear gas fired by company deputies, guarding the main entrance to the plant, dispersed miners in three trucks who had stopped and refused to move.

Nine of the miners were arrested by a deputy sheriff who said he found liquor in their possession. All of the local beer taverns were ordered to close for the day.

Third Invasion in Week.

This is the third miner invasion of Clairton this week. The miners charge that, due to the mining holiday in Fayette county, the company is importing its coal from the south.

The caravan of pickets gathered at 2 a. m. at Waltersburg, in Fayette county, and moved toward here in automobiles and trucks. Police met the men outside of town and told them they must leave their cars and trucks there, but permitted them to march in on foot.

The mill workers had to elbow their way through the crowds of pickets at the gate, but did so good naturedly. The strikers claimed that many of the local workers joined them, but other observers said that this did not appear to be true.

Men Sleep in Plant.

After the day shift had gone to work the miners withdrew to the streets of the town to wait for shifts to change at 4 p. m. They were disappointed in this, however, for company officials ordered cots and blankets brought to the plant and the 1,800 men on the day shift bedded down for the night inside the plant walls. Only two of them went home, to the jeers of the miners.

A sandbag barricade was erected at the entrance to the plant. It is separated from the rest of the town by a small creek, and company guards, armed with riot guns, took up a watch on the farther bank of the creek from the pickets.

The demonstration here today was the focal point of industrial unrest extending throughout the great tri-state industrial area of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Ohio surrounding Pittsburgh, which is the steel workshop of the eastern United States.

Campaign for Recruits.

The attempt to enlist the 6,000 Clairton workers in the strike was an incident in the campaign to gain recruits for the mining holiday in which 75,000 miners and 10,000 steel workers are already enrolled. The steel men are in the plants at Weirton and Clarksburg, W. Va., and Steubenville, O., of the Weirton Steel company, a subsidiary of the National Steel corporation.

They walked out Monday. E. T. Weir, head of the National Steel, one of the largest independent steel companies, denied yesterday that he has made any plans to confer with strike leaders. The strikers contend the company is violating the NRA code with respect to the work week.

The strike, or holiday, as they term it, of the miners spread today. From Mercer county, where they walked out yesterday, miner pickets moved into the Pone Hill section of southern Ve-

Pinchot Flies to President; Speeds Action

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Shortly after midnight President Roosevelt placed his signature upon a supplemental coal code counted on to bring peace to the Pennsylvania bituminous fields and to send 75,000 striking miners and 25,000 allied steel workers back to their jobs next Monday.

The code covers the so-called "captive mines," or mines owned by major steel corporations, where labor troubles during the last few days have caused anxiety lest they spread and destroy the none too steady structure built up in the iron and steel and the coal industries under the national recovery act.

Pinchot Calls on President.

Indicative of the gravity of the situation was the sudden journey by plane of Pennsylvania's governor, Gifford Pinchot, who flew to the summer White House this afternoon to plead for federal action in what he described to the President as an acutely serious crisis.

Even more dramatic was another airplane flight late tonight by Donald R. Richberg, general counsel of the NRA, who came to bring the agreed upon code from Washington. An unlighted local field near Hyde Park sent the army plane with the official hunting a safer landing 80 miles beyond at Albany.

The resultant delay caused the President to issue orders for an official search, which was called off only when word of the plane's safe arrival came to Hyde Park in answer to anxious telephone calls by Stephen T. Early, presidential secretary. Mr. Richberg finally arrived at Hyde Park with the agreement.

Signed by officials of 22 steel companies and mine companies owned by them, the supplemental coal code binds the operators to comply with the labor and wage scales required by the general coal code already signed by the other coal operators. As in the original coal code, the captive mine operators are bound by the section of the recovery act relating to labor representation and collective bargaining.

Statement from President.

An official statement from the summer White House declared:

"In approving the agreement the President has done so with the understanding that, under this agreement, hours, wages, and working conditions throughout these mines will be made as favorable to the employés as those prevailing in the district in which such mines are located.

"This condition imposed by the President means that the conditions of employment in the captive mines will be in all respects similar to the conditions in other mines throughout the country.

"Agreements relating to these conditions already have been entered into between the operators and the United Mine Workers in most of the coal producing areas."

Signs Two Executive Orders.

It was further announced that the President also had signed two executive orders, on completing the schedule of basic minimum rates, rounding out the rates previously approved on Sept. 18, the other appointing Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, temporarily to serve as a member of any code authority or to appoint an agent to act in his behalf.

"The machinery for putting the coal code in operation," the statement concluded, "is therefore completed so far as is at this moment necessary, so that the code may become effect next Monday, Oct. 2."

Sheriff Charles Neal of Harrison county, Ind., who was kidnaped Tuesday by four of the ten desperate convicts who escaped from the Indiana state prison at Michigan City, returned to the safety of law and order last night and told a strange story of his experiences.

While it was being related in the Gary hotel at Gary to an interested audience, one of the four convicts was captured by the police at Hammond on information given by an alert taxicab driver. This fugitive, James Clark, told a story somewhat at variance with that of the sheriff, and the latter, after pondering a while, said he guessed the convict was right.

Search for Others.

The two recitals convinced the investigating authorities that the other three who had been with Clark are still wandering about in the country between Gary and Michigan City. A new search of this stretch of territory, which had supposedly been thoroughly gone over a number of times, was ordered. The three fugitives are Walter Deitrich, John Burns and James Fox.

It was a strange story that the 52 year old sheriff, greatly resembling a scarecrow after three days without food and no bed but the damp ground, told originally. It was filled more with pathos and humor than with deep tragedy and remarkable for the seemingly aimless fumbling of all concerned. The corrections made after Clark had been taken only added to its strangeness.

Discrepancies in Story.

The discrepancy came in the sheriff's tale of what happened after 2:30 a. m. yesterday. At that hour, he first said, the four convicts, all in a stolen automobile, thrust him out at McCool, about fifteen miles east of Gary, and sent him away with their good wishes.

He went south, he said, until he had reached route 6, a concrete road. Along this he walked, trying to beg rides from passing motorists. None would give him a lift, he said, and he became exceedingly weary about 11 a. m. So he climbed a fence and went to sleep in a field.

"When I woke up," the sheriff added, "I went into Hobart, ate a good meal, and caught an interurban into Gary. I called my wife at home in Corydon and told her I was safe. Then I reported to the state police."

He displayed his watch and $30, which the convicts had not troubled to take from him.

Felon Goes with Sheriff.

But when Clark had been questioned the sheriff changed his version of his escape. Instead of the four leaving him riding in an automobile, three went away on foot, somewhere north of McCool. James Clark, ill with a stomach disorder, decided to cast in his lot with the peace officer.

Whether the sheriff liked this or not he had no choice but to stay with the convict. Clark, the sheriff explained later, had a pistol and he had none. Together the sheriff and the lone fugitive wandered through fields and along side roads until they reached Hobart, not far from Gary. There they ate and the sheriff paid the fare of both into the Steel city.

Arrived there, Clark bade the sheriff farewell, and, wearing his overcoat, departed for Hammond. Later he said he begged a ride to that town from a motorist. Early last evening Clark summoned a taxicab to the Savoy hotel in Hammond, and Vernon Moats, a driver for the Terminal cab system, responded.

He would like, Clark told the driver, to go to Joliet. Moats, who recognized him as one of the fugitives, demurred. He said he would have to go to headquarters and get permission to make an out of town trip; also to fill his tank. Clark, apparently too weary to be suspicious, assented.

Moats, in the main business section of Hammond, left his fare while he called the police. A few minutes later a squad car in which rode Policemen Kelly, Wilson, Dimitroff, and Mroz, drew up beside the cab and Clark surrendered without attempting resistance. He was still carrying the pistol. It was loaded only with tear gas bullets.

Presents Bill to Prisoner.

Sheriff Neal, like the convict, showing the effects of exposure and continual terror in which both had lived since Tuesday, met him a little later in the Hammond police station. Be-

OAK PARK-AUSTIN FOOTBALL FEUD; SCHOOLS DAUBED

More than sixty students at Austin and Oak Park High schools were seized by Oak Park police last night following a paint daubing and garbage throwing jamboree held in the vicinity of the Oak Park High school. Three co-eds were among those seized. All were released after they had been reprimanded.

The incident is the result of rivalry between the two schools, which is mainly vented on the gridiron. Their football teams will clash this afternoon at Oak Park. The affair was started last year, supposedly by the Austin students.

Oak Park police were asked to take a hand in the matter yesterday morning when school officials found the front steps, doors and windows of the high school had been daubed with red and black paint. Signs referring to the football game, scrawled in red, stated "Oak Park's chances are thin, Austin will win," and "Oak Park is easy meat." Last night police seized all the young people found loitering near the school, especially after they found that rotten eggs, tomatoes, cantaloupes, and other garbage had been thrown about the grounds.

Roosevelt Will Come, Legion Heads Believe

Legion officials continued to express the belief last night that President Roosevelt will come to Chicago for their national convention, which will begin Monday. National Commander Louis A. Johnson of the Legion said that convention officers were proceeding "on the assumption that the President would be here." Plans have been made for a great demonstration, he added.

The President is said to have assured Commander Johnson that he would come if he was able. No word of his final plans could be obtained last night at Hyde Park, N. Y., where the President is spending the week.

It was suggested in Washington, however, that if he is able to make the trip the President could leave Hyde Park tomorrow and arrive here Monday morning. After attending a session of the Legion he would be able to visit A Century of Progress and leave the same evening for the east, it was pointed out.

Big Push Starts Today.

The "big push" of thousands of war veterans to the convention is scheduled to start this morning. By Monday, when the sessions begin in the Chicago stadium, Legion officials expect some 300,000 veterans, many of them with their families, will be comfortably quartered in the Chicago metropolitan area.

More than 15,000 veterans had registered at Legion headquarters, 105 South Dearborn street, up to last night. The thousands who will arrive today and tomorrow are coming by special train, buses, private automobiles and by airplane. Many of those traveling by train will live aboard Pullman cars while they are in Chicago.

Legion Headquarters Busy.

Meanwhile, Legion headquarters buzzed with activity as state and national executives and members of important committees added finishing touches to resolutions and other matters to be voted on by the 2,800 veterans who are accredited delegates to the convention.

For the first time in years the cash payment of the bonus and repeal of the 18th amendment have dimmed as topics of discussion and rehabilitation of veterans has arisen in their stead. Another important topic which is expected to set off the fireworks of the convention is a move to oust Brig.

BABY BATTLES A BLACKSNAKE SIX FEET LONG

Sunbury, Pa., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The 2 year old daughter of Michael Underhill of Limestone township, Union county, fought with a big blacksnake today until her father, attracted by her cries, killed the reptile.

Mr. Underhill, running to an old cherry tree stump where his daughter had been playing, found that the snake had coiled itself tightly around the child's legs and was striking the victim's face with its head. The little girl was hitting back with her hands.

Seizing the snake back of the head, the father unwound it from the child and found, after killing it, that it measured 6 feet 3 inches. The girl bore marks about the head and face where she had been struck with the reptile's head, but she was otherwise uninjured.

WOMAN DRAWS SECOND PERFECT HAND AT BRIDGE

Mrs. Louise Rockwell, wife of a St. Charles lawyer, drew a perfect hand at bridge for the second time in her life last night and in addition got a chance to play the hand doubled. Thirteen clubs were in the hand, but the grand slam bid and double were not reached until after several rounds. The game was played at her home in St. Charles. Mrs. Rockwell's partner was C. K. Brigham of St. Charles. The players who doubled her were Mrs. Bruce Marshall and George B. Haas, also of St. Charles. A year ago Mrs. Rockwell drew a perfect hand in hearts. Experts say that the chance of drawing thirteen cards of the same suit is less than one in a million. To make this draw twice is said to be beyond mathematical reckoning.

ROOSEVELT WILL "PROTECT" DRYS: BISHOP CANNON

New York, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Bishop James Cannon of the Methodist Episcopal church returned from Europe today on the Berengaria. Of the possibility of repeal of the 18th amendment he said:

"President Roosevelt in his platform stated emphatically that he was for the protection of dry territory. We are expecting the President to hold fast to his promise."

fore they parted they shook hands and the sheriff presented his companion in hardship with $5. Then Clark was taken back to Michigan City to serve out his term.

Shortly before midnight Capt. Matt Leach of the state police announced there would be an investigation of the actions of Sheriff Neal. The latter, he said, waited an hour and a half after reaching Gary before telling any part of his story. For the night Sheriff Neal was taken to the home of Sheriff Frye of Porter county, ostensibly as a guest.

First Story by Neal.

The original story of Sheriff Neal, beginning with the prison break, follows:

"I was in the lobby of the prison and had finished turning over my prisoner that I had brought. All of a sudden there was a big commotion somewhere inside. I looked around and here came tearing out a lot of fellows.

"One had the warden by the arm and was pushing him. These fellows all ducked into the office and the people in there dropped behind counters. Somebody shot. Then a fellow came over to me and pushed a gun at me, right in my ribs.

"They took me outside and asked if I had a car and I said, 'Hell, yes.' Standing by the car when I led them to it was Dr. Lee B. Wolf, that had come from Corydon with me. They took the car keys from him and two sat with me in the rear seat and two more in front. We drove off.

"We drove west on route 12 two miles and then south on a dirt road and finally ran into a lake. We were near a farmhouse and two of the men went up and tried to get the farmer (this was Cecil Spanier) to help pull my car out. Well, he was tired and didn't want to do it, so they put guns on him and made him drive them in his own car.

"They told Spanier to drive to Gary, but to miss Chesterton and Valparaiso and stay on dirt roads."

The sheriff then related how he and the convicts had purchased gasoline at a Deep River filling station, he letting them have $20 by request. It was at this point that Spanier escaped.

Wheel of Auto Broken.

"A little later on we broke a wheel near a farmhouse. [This was the Fred Gustafson home, now well known as a result of a fake radio broadcast.] Two of the men went up there and then came back. We abandoned the car and started on foot.

"We walked all night through the rain. The convicts kept kidding me about how lucky they were to have a sheriff along. At sunup we hid in a clump of trees and stayed there all day. We talked and I said I hoped they wouldn't kill me.

"'Hell, no,' said one. 'We'll see you get through all right.' At dark Wednesday we started out again, trying to head for Gary through the fields. We were all lost. We didn't get anywhere and at sunup we went into the bushes again and stayed all day.

Felons Lose Their Nerve.

"Thursday night we started toward a tower we had seen. They thought it was in Gary. But it wasn't; it was an airplane field [the one at McCool].

"Two of the men went down to a shack where just one man was sitting. They all figured they could go in and take that fellow and seize his car. But it ended up with all of them cursing each other for not having nerve enough to do the job.

"Then we wandered on some more and came to a dairy farm. Well, there was a car in the yard, with the keys in it and the boys took that. We started in it, to route 6. Finally one of the fellows said they 'had better put dad out,' meaning me. One wanted to tie me, but the others said no, I had suffered enough and been a good fellow. So they put me out and said not to tell anybody where I had been or what I had done."

Seen in Brownstown.

Brownstown, Ind., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Six men, believed to have been part of the ten convicts who escaped from the Indiana state prison Tuesday, abandoned their automobile near here this evening, stole another car and headed towards Road 31, a main north and south highway.

Five pairs of prison uniform trousers were found in the car along with other clothing.

State police immediately were called to this area and they ordered the Ohio river bridges at Jeffersonville, New Albany and Madison blocked in the hope of being able to head off the car.

The abandoned car was found a short distance southeast of here by a farm woman. Other residents saw the other car headed toward Seymour.

Inasmuch as only five pairs of trousers were found and six men were reported to have been seen, Jackson county officers expressed the belief that the sixth man may have been Sheriff Charles Neal, kidnaped Harrison county sheriff.

Russell Clark Seen?

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Frank Ratcliffe 50, identified pictures of Russell Clark, one of the leaders of the recent prison break at the Indiana state prison, as one of three men who tonight forced him to drive them to the southeast corner of the city and then continued east in his car after releasing him.

Ratcliffe was seated in his car outside a community market when a man pointed a gun at him and ordered him to "move over." The three then climbed into the automobile and Ratcliffe was told to drive on. A watch was taken from him and he was searched for a weapon but the men took no money. When the edge of the city was reached the leader of the group ordered Ratcliffe to stop his car and get out. The trio continued in Ratcliffe's car.

Go to Indianapolis?

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Several police squads were sent to the western city limits tonight following a state policeman's report that he had sighted a car believed to be the one stolen earlier in the evening at Terre Haute by three of the prisoners who escaped last Tuesday from the Michigan City prison.

WARDEN SEEKS NEW IDEAS

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Michigan City, Ind., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Warden Louis E. Kunkel will attend the national convention of the Prison Wardens' association at Atlantic City next month to absorb the most modern ideas on prison management.

This was one of the recommendations of a report drafted this afternoon by the prison board of trustees after a two day investigation of the escape of ten prisoners from the state penitentiary on Tuesday. The report, to be submitted to Gov. Paul V. McNutt, also found that the institution is undermanned and structurally inadequate to the task of confining 1,900 criminals within its walls.

"In fact," commented Arthur Denniston, president of the board in discussing the report, "it is only the good nature of many of the inmates that keeps more of them from walking out. In general, they are a group of well meaning men. It is only the vicious characters that make trouble like this."

Warden Kunkel Praised.

With both Democratic and Republican factions in Indiana eyeing the escape as possible material for future political campaigns, the report was most circumspect in its comment upon the prison personnel. Warden Kunkel was hailed as a "sincere, hard working official" who, in the words of Mr. Denniston, will "make one of the country's greatest prison wardens in time."

The warden, a Michigan City attorney, took over the job last June.

The report found that the sixty-nine guards appointed last June to take the place of veteran guards were all capable men. A report here that four of these new men themselves had prison records was officially denied by Mr. Denniston, who said the life histories of the new guards had been carefully checked.

"The new men were recommended by their county chairmen and the appointments came direct from the governor," pointed out the chairman in explaining the procedure by which the guards were picked.

A reduction in the prison appropriation is most responsible for the prison escape, the report declared. Lack of money forced the discharge of ten guards, leaving the prison with approximately 120 active guards. This is an insufficient number, Mr. Denniston asserted.

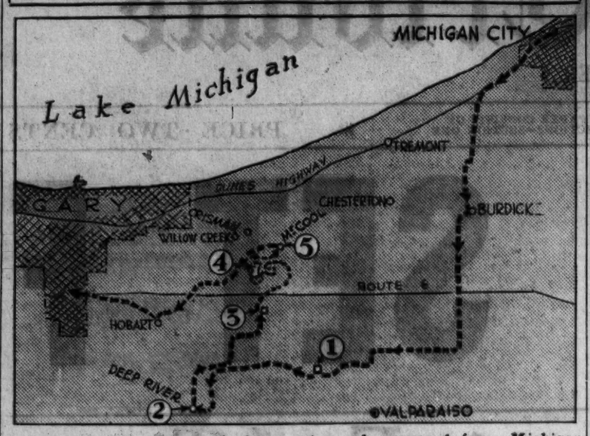
CONVICTS' TRAIL



Map indicates trail of the convicts who escaped from Michigan City prison Tuesday. In sheriff's car they went two miles west on route 12, then south to the home of Cecil Spanier (1). Forcing Spanier to drive, they proceeded to Deep River (2), where Spanier escaped. The convicts then went to the Gustafson home (3), near which they wrecked Spanier's car. Then, for two nights and a day they wandered in the woods (4) near McCool (5). At this point the party of five broke up yesterday morning, the sheriff and James Clark going to Hobart and then Gary, and the others supposedly moving north.

1,492 PENNSYLVANIA LONG TERM CONVICTS RIOT; BURN BEDDING

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Disorder flared anew tonight behind the 103 year old walls of the eastern penitentiary, scene of recent rioting among the 1492 "long term" convicts.

Fierce fights among the felons broke out during the late recreation period. The convicts were herded back to their cells almost immediately, but later started burning mattresses and yelling like madmen. The uproar could be heard for blocks.

Large throngs began gathering outside the prison, attracted by the clamor and confusion. Prison officials were too busy to make details known, though no help was immediately asked of city police.

Guards at the piked, steel gates stood with pistols drawn from holsters. State troopers meanwhile squatted at machine guns in the towers, training the guns on the prison yard. Little smoke from the flaming mattresses was visible.

Wife Burned by Acid Thrown by Her Husband

Mrs. Della Lombardi, 40 years old, of 2643 West Jackson boulevard, was burned last night when her husband, from whom she separated last August, threw acid over her face, arms, and legs in front of a church at 2413 West Congress street. Friends with whom the husband, Natalo, 42, had been living at 4307 Wilcox street, said he departed early in the evening, taking his belongings in two suitcases. Mrs. Lombardi was taken to the county hospital.

Indiana State Police Head Files Complaint.

The federal radio commission will investigate the broadcast last Wednesday night of a faked up description of a "desperate gun battle between Indiana police and escaped convicts," it was announced yesterday in Washington. The description was put on the air by the Columbia Broadcasting company. In the Chicago area the program was carried by stations WBBM, Chicago, and WIND, Gary.

A complaint against the broadcasting chain was made by Capt. Matt Leach of the Indiana state police, who termed the description of the battle as "almost entirely false and faked."

Yesterday, it was learned, the broadcasting chain discharged the executive who arranged the broadcast and the announcer who worked on it. At the same time officials of the chain asserted that the broadcast, "far from being a hoax, was substantially correct."

In a telegram to Eugene O. Sykes, a member of the radio commission, Capt. Leach said:

"I desire to file formal complaint in regard to the almost entirely false and fake broadcast by the Columbia Broadcasting company's news service over station WIND and other stations Wednesday night, Sept. 27, between 11 and 12 o'clock.

Interferes with Police Work.

"This broadcast seriously interfered with the work of the 65 state police under my command and a considerable number of other enforcement officers who were stationed in the neighborhood of where we thought some of the escaped convicts might be hiding. We wasted several hours of what at the time seemed precious time in, first, determining that there was no truth to substantiate the broadcast, and, second, making an inquiry into the hoax.

"There was no gun battle between any armed officers and the convicts, as the radio broadcast caused many of their listeners to believe. No shots have been fired to this date by any authorized officer in the pursuance of his duties in searching for the ten prisoners who escaped from Michigan City state prison Tuesday, Sept. 26.

"The telephone wires of the state police at their barracks at Chesterton, Ind., were tied up for several hours by persons who apparently had heard the broadcast and were calling for information. Many of the callers expressed their fright.

Rush to Scene of Broadcast.

"I heard part of the broadcast myself and as soon as I could reach the scene where the broadcast was being put on the air I questioned those in charge and held in custody one of their number for some time until I was convinced that there is no law under which I could hold him legally."

Capt. Leach's charges were denied in a statement by Leslie Atlass, vice president of the Columbia system in charge of its Chicago office, who said: "There is nothing to retract. We broadcast exactly what happened."

At the New York headquarters of the system another statement was issued regarding the broadcast, as follows:

"On Sept. 27 Columbia broadcast a man hunt for two escaped convicts who were supposed to be hiding in a patch of woods in Indiana.

"This broadcast was made with the approval and assistance of the authorities concerned in trying to capture these convicts. Intensive investigation which is not yet completed indicates that this broadcast, far from being a hoax, was substantially correct.

"The investigation does show, however, that a responsible and experienced Columbia man who was in charge at this broadcast, in spite of general instructions as well as specific cautions with regard to this particular broadcast, did connive at increasing the number of shots, although there were shots of spontaneous origin.

"Because this man was thoroughly aware of Columbia's rigid policy of accuracy and its unswerving rules against sensationalism maintained throughout the company's history, his connection with this organization has been terminated."

CHICAGO BAR TO AID U. S. DRIVE ON SHADY LAWYERS

The Chicago Bar association will cooperate with Attorney General Cummings in his campaign to disbar lawyers who are discovered to be unethically aiding gangsters and racketeers. This was announced yesterday by Attorney Stephen Love, chairman of the bar association grievance committee.

"The bar association is anxious to investigate fully the affairs of any of its members who may be accused of unethical practice for gangster clients," Mr. Love said, "and will not be content to be merely a spectator in this campaign. The bar association and all Chicago lawyers realize that they owe it to the public to clean house in their ranks. We will investigate all leads given to us."

The attorney general has stated that he can "put his finger on a good many lawyers who are under suspicion" of having gangster affiliations. Mr. Love indicated that the grievance committee would request the attorney general to furnish any information he might have against Chicago lawyers.

Gets 60 Day Term in Jail for Fraud in 1930 Election

Leo Graczybowski, 1411 Cleaver street, yesterday was sentenced to 60 days in the county jail by Judge Charles T. Allen of Woodstock, who is hearing election fraud cases in the County court. Graczybowski, who was a judge of election in the 20th precinct of the 33d ward in the election Nov. 4, 1930, was charged with contempt of court for returning a fraudulent count on ballots. Cisimir Rydwalski, 1437 Cleaver street, a judge in the same precinct, was also found guilty of contempt and was sentenced to 30 days in jail, but was freed on $2,500 bond.

FIREPROOF PLANE BURNS; 2 WHITE MICE UNHARMED

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Material said to make an airplane immune to fire was demonstrated in action at Heston airport today by Maj. R. Van Rolleghem, a Belgian officer. The inventor declined to disclose the nature or composition of the substance, which resembled asbestos in appearance and was covered on one side or both sides with a sheet of mica.

Supporting his claim that the material was an effective shield against flames, heat, and the fumes of burning fuel, Maj. Van Rolleghem carried out a number of experiments before air ministry officials. Two white mice, deputized as pilot and observer in the cockpit of a model fuselage made of this material, were unharmed by a fuel fire lighted in the nose of the machine.

Finally Maj. Van Rolleghem, himself, entered a cabinet intended to represent a cockpit. Quantities of fuel were lighted. The inventor emerged unhurt.

REACH VERDICT IN C. F. URSCHEL KIDNAPING CASE

Finding Will Be Read at 10 A. M. Today.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—A verdict in the trial of the nine men and one woman charged with the kidnaping for ransom of Charles F. Urschel, oil millionaire, was reached tonight after the jury had deliberated a little more than two hours, it was reported unofficially.

The verdict will not be reported to the court, however, before 10 o'clock tomorrow morning as Federal Judge Edgar S. Vaught left word he was not to be disturbed after 5:30 p. m.

The jury received the case at 4:10 p. m. and by 7:45 had returned to its hotel. Members of the panel lounged in several rooms. Bailiffs in charge said they had orders to divulge no information.

The defendants were tried under the new federal "Lindbergh" law which carries a penalty of life imprisonment.

The court has already set Oct. 9 as a tentative date for the trial of George [Machine Gun] Kelly and Mrs. Kathryn Kelly, also accused of participation in the kidnaping and who are under arrest in Memphis, Tenn.

Kelly Named as "Collector."

The Kellys figured prominently in this trial, Kelly having been identified as the man who received the $200,000 ransom, and having been named as one who brought Urschel to the Shannon farm in Texas, owned by Mrs. Kelly's mother and stepfather, who, with her stepbrother, are included in the defendants in the present trial.

Defendants awaiting the verdict are Harvey Bailey, notorious outlaw, and Albert Bates, accused of being the actual kidnapers; R. G. Shannon, Mrs. Ora Shannon, and Armon Shannon, their son, and Barney Berman, Clifford Skelly, Isadore Blumenfeld, Sam Kronick, and Sam Kozberg, all of St. Paul or Minneapolis, who passed, one to another, more than $5,000 in $20 bills identified as part of the $200,000 paid for Urschel's ransom.

Leaders Have No Hopes.

Harvey Bailey and Bates have no hopes of acquittal. Bailey was arrested on the Shannon farm. He and Bates each had $700 of the ransom money in their pockets when arrested.

The Shannon family's defense was that they acted as keepers of Urschel in fear of George "Machine Gun" Kelly, who is married to Mrs. Shannon's daughter, and who, with his wife, is a prisoner at Memphis, Tenn.

The Twin Cities quintet sought to explain possession of the money by saying it was paid for whisky sold to a southerner. They claimed never to have known any of the kidnap gang, which, besides those on trial, included Kelly, Verne Miller, who is at large, and others known as Oklahoma desperadoes. The gang is believed to have been responsible for the massacre of five men at Kansas City in an attempt to rescue Frank Nash, an escaped convict who had been recaptured and who was one of the five slain.

Makes Closing Arguments.

District Attorney Herbert K. Hyde, the 32 year old prosecutor, who is a native of Oklahoma and a descendant of the Choctaw Indians, concluded his closing arguments to the jury with the plea:

"I beg of you, in the name of my government, to return a verdict of guilty against these defendants.

"This is one of the most important cases ever tried. Precedents are being set that will guide the courts and the bar in all future trials that grow out of this determined effort of your government to stamp out this most damnable of crimes—kidnaping."

He reviewed the prosecution's evidence and of Urschel he said: "This fine citizen has gone through the tortures of hell." He ridiculed the "fear" plea of the Shannons, saying it was a subterfuge to conceal their guilt. Concerning Bailey and Bates, he said:

On Farm with Victim.

"This man Bailey was on the farm of the Shannons while Urschel was held a fettered prisoner—by the testimony of these defendants themselves. He was there when Bates and George Kelly went to Kansas City to meet the payoff man and get the ransom. He had to be on the farm because he was too 'hot' to go to Kansas City. He had just escaped from the Kansas state prison.

"Bates was a rider of the night, equipped with machine gun, surgeons' tape and other implements of kidnapers. He went right into the home of the kidnap victim, armed with his machine gun, and took Mr. Urschel out of his own home."

Will Fly Kelly to Trial.

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—George "Machine Gun" Kelly and his wife, Kathryn, are to be taken to Oklahoma City by airplane and with an escort of at least sixteen army planes, government officials said today. The Kellys are to be placed on trial for their part in the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil millionaire, on Oct. 9.

KELLY TO NAME SEYFERLICH FOR FIRE DEPT. HEAD

Mayor Kelly announced yesterday that he would submit the name of Arthur R. Seyferlich, former chief fire marshal, to the city council at the first fall meeting on Oct. 4 for the position of fire commissioner. The council is faced with necessity of appointing a fire commissioner to fill the position left vacant by the death of Daniel J. Carmody.

The appointment of Mr. Seyferlich has been urged by the leading German-American citizens. He had served on the force for 37 years when he resigned in 1927 rather than submit to demotion to his former rank of division marshal at the hands of a former Republican mayor.

Chief Seyferlich entered the fire department in 1891 as a truckman. He won various promotions and became chief fire marshal in 1922. He nearly lost his life twice in the line of duty when he was overcome by ammonia fumes. He was one of the members of the fire department who risked their lives in recovering the bodies of 22 firemen who lost their lives in the stockyards fire of Dec. 22, 1910.

LUER CASE JURORS RETIRE FOR SECOND NIGHT; NO VERDICT

Edwardsville, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The jury considering the case of five men and one woman accused of kidnaping August Luer, Alton banker, retired to bed at 10 o'clock tonight without reaching a decision. They had been debating a verdict since late yesterday afternoon — twenty-nine hours.

At 10 o'clock tonight the jurors sent word to Judge I. H. Mudge that they desired to take baths and wished to sleep. He granted the request. No information on their standing was announced. Any decision will not be made known until 9 a. m. tomorrow.

Nothing came from the jury room to indicate that the jurymen had decided the fate of any of the defendants.

Shortly after entering their private quarters on the fourth floor of the courthouse yesterday their voices could be heard on the street below. Within a short time, however, their discussion became quieter.

Yesterday the jury sent a request to Judge Mudge for ages of the defendants. Approximate ages were provided. Ages are not necessary in verdicts providing death penalties or acquittals.

The jury spent the entire day in discussing the case excepting two short periods when taken to meals by court bailiffs. Walks have been suspended.

FIND MUNITIONS USED BY MAIL HOLDUP KILLERS

A brief case bulging with ammunition identified as having belonged to the gangsters who killed Policeman Miles Cunningham after the daring robbery of four federal reserve bank messengers a week ago was found by the police yesterday. The evidence was discovered after the arrest of John Clayton, 20 years old, an odd job worker in a restaurant at 126 South Halsted street.

Clayton was seized in his room above the restaurant after an anonymous note had been received by the police. Capt. Patrick J. Collins of the Des Plaines street station and Lieut. Andrew Carroll of the detective bureau broke into the room.

The police were led by Clayton to the basement of the building, where he had secreted the brief case. He declared that he had taken the case from the wrecked automobile abandoned by the killers at Halsted and Adams streets as the five gunmen were fleeing from a police squad. The robbers had held up the reserve bank messengers to get mail they were carrying.

In the case the police found eleven boxes of revolver and rifle cartridges, two canvas bags filled with cartridges, nine loaded automatic pistol magazines, and a loaded clip for a submachine gun.

Capt. Collins said that it was apparent that Clayton had no connection with the gunmen, but had yielded to an impulse to take the brief case during the excitement. It was pointed out that the prisoner might be prosecuted for withholding government evidence. Clayton's brother, Jack, the manager of the restaurant, also was seized for questioning.

Purchasers of the ammunition may be traced through the seizure, Capt. Collins said.

Arrested Trying to Take Whisky Into Fair Grounds

Robert Reynolds, 1653 West 63d street, was arrested last night by the World's Fair police when he attempted to enter the Pershing road gate with a case of whisky. He was taken to the detective bureau, where he is being held for the federal government. He told the police he was to deliver the whisky to Old Mexico.

SAY MOSLEY TOLD HIS FASCISTS TO END WAR ON JEW

Kinship to Levi Leiter Raised at Trial.

LONDON, Sept. 29. — (AP) — Statements that Sir Oswald Mosley, British Fascist leader, has ordered his followers to drop their anti-Semitic stand, and that his late wife, Lady Cynthia Mosley, was a granddaughter of a Chicago merchant of Jewish blood, were made today at a court hearing into a controversy between two rival Fascist organizations.

Fascist Offices Wrecked.

The case involved two men, members of the British Union Fascists, who pleaded guilty to a charge of being among a party of fifty-two who wrecked the offices of the British Fascist, Ltd., which is Sir Oswald's group.

The two men were bound over for two years and ordered to keep the peace. Included in the testimony was a letter, allegedly written by them, reading as follows:

"As you may be aware, Lady Cynthia Mosley's grandfather was a Jew named Levi Leiter. It is known that a certain Jew known as Cohn is behind Sir Oswald so far as finance is concerned.

Says Rabbi Delivered Oration.

"Also, at the funeral of the late Lady Cynthia, although Christian rites were used, a certain well known Jewish rabbi made an oration. Anti-Semitism is one of the critical points of Fascism here, yet Mosley has distinctly ordered [his organization's] members, many of whom are anti-Semitics, to drop their anti-Semitic stand altogether."

FIREMEN TURN THEIR DRILL INTO A REAL BATTLE

The annual drill of three fire department companies at the training school at 720 Sebor street was interrupted yesterday when an oil tank exploded near the old Harrison street pumping station at 735 West Harrison street.

During the "dry" drill the men saw flames shoot into the air and for the first time within memory the apparatus in the drill yard of the school was used to quench a fire. At the direction of Capt. Arthur J. Brady and Lieut. Harry Wolf of the school staff a hose line was connected with the pump and led out to the scene of the first a half block away.

The fire was quickly subdued by members of Hook and Ladder No. 47, Engine company, No. 113, and Combination company, No. 47. As they were winding up the hose the regular engine company for the district clanged up in answer to an alarm.

Ten motor vehicles were wrecked, the driver of one was possibly fatally injured, the other drivers bruised and shaken and 100 hogs killed yesterday in an unusual series of smashups which all occurred in one place a half mile east of Aurora on the Ogden avenue highway. Elmer Reiser of Naperville was the man severely injured. He was hurled through the top of his car.

It all started when L. W. Talbot of Toulon, Ill., stopped his truckload of hogs, destined for the Chicago stockyards, in the roadway to allow a fog and smoke from peat fires to lift. A moment later another truck, driven by Ellis Johnson of Bradford, Ill., and loaded with hogs, smashed into Talbot's load. About 100 hogs from the two trucks were killed.

Eight Other Cars Hit Wreckage.

Then in rapid succession the wreckage of the trucks was struck by the vehicles of Walter Gohr, 1838 South Euclid avenue, Berwyn; Ralph Van De Marke of Atchison, Ill.; Nicholas Pauls of Aurora, William Neufeld, 117 West 58th street, and Ernest Costello, 912 South Halsted street. Reiser thought the wreckage a hijacking barrier and, in attempting to drive around it, rammed into the truck of Frank Wood of Hinckley, Ill., which had been halted in another lane. The Reiser car kept on rolling after its driver was thrown out and smashed into the truck of Roy Galloway of Lost Nation, Ia.

Mrs. Sarah Thurston, 60 years old, 5727 Lowe avenue, mother of Policeman Anthony Thurston of the Stockyards station, was fatally injured when she was struck by a truck while attempting to cross from the street curb to a safety zone to board a street car at South Halsted and 47th streets. She died in the Evangelical Deaconess hospital after surgeons had attempted to save her life by amputating her left leg, which had been crushed.

Driver Held for Inquest.

Christ Simmons, 32 years old, 250 West 51st street, incurred a fracture of the left arm when an automobile into which he was helping lift Mrs. Thurston was backed into the truck which struck her. The driver of the truck, Frank Rochwich, 30 years old, 5544 Newport avenue, was held by the police for the inquest.

That death and three others increased the motor death toll in Cook county to 770 since Jan. 1. The other victims were:

Jackson Miller, 80 years old, 5448 Iowa street. He was fatally injured when struck by the truck of George Krips, 6217 South Damen avenue, while attempting to cross the street in front of 637 North Cicero avenue.

Frank Andrews, 74 years old, and Frank Frymier, 72 years old, Negroes, died yesterday at the county hospital of injuries incurred Sept. 4 when they were struck by an automobile at 21st street and Prairie avenue. Both men lived at 2420 South La Salle street. The driver of the car fled after the accident and was never apprehended.

Five Hurt in Collision.

Five persons were injured, four of them severely, in a collision of two automobiles yesterday at Wilson and Ashland avenues. The injured are Carl Johnson, 31 years old, 1127 Jackson boulevard, and his wife, Anna, 21 years old, who were in one automobile, and Walter Mikkelsen, 26 years old, of St. Paul, Minn., and his two sisters, Mabel Mikkelsen, 26 years old, also of St. Paul, Minn., and Mrs. Henry Ronsow, 27 years old, 6549 Northwest highway, who were in the other car.

SHIP OWNER COX OFFERS REWARD TO FIND FAMILY

Fears Baby, Wife, Her Parents Kidnaped.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—George M. Cox, wealthy Chicago and New Orleans shipowner, was so alarmed today over his failure to find his wife, his 2 year old son, and Mrs. Cox's parents that he announced an offer of $25,000 for information that would lead to their safe return.

Cox returned to his home on Lake Pontchartrain Wednesday after a trip to Chicago and Cooperstown, Ill., which lasted five weeks. The family was not at home. From a watchman Cox learned that Mrs. Cox, with the baby and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Goertz, had left in an automobile last Saturday with the announcement they intended to spend the week-end somewhere on the Mississippi coast.

Carried Money and Jewels.

Although friends of the family continued to believe that this program had been carried out, Cox expressed the fear they may have been kidnaped. He had learned, he said, that Mrs. Cox drew $3,000 from their joint bank account on Friday and that she was wearing jewelry valued at $10,000.

None of the relatives and friends of Mrs. Cox has heard from her since she started on the vacation trip. The police have been unable to find any trace of the party. The message offering the reward was broadcast to several southern cities.

Cox is 55 years old. He made a considerable fortune in prohibition days manufacturing malt extracts here. On the return of beer he became interested in shipping and has been operating passenger lines here and on the great lakes. Mrs. Cox, formerly his secretary, is 27 years old.

OWNED WRECKED VESSEL.

George M. Cox, who offered a reward yesterday for the return of his missing wife and son in New Orleans, is the owner of the steamship Isle Royale. He also owned the George M. Cox, which was wrecked in Lake Superior in May.

A little more than two weeks ago 118 members of the crew of the Isle Royale filed a suit against Cox, alleging that their salaries were in arrears a total of $14,000. The ship was seized under federal court orders, but a settlement was arranged and the vessel was released a few days ago.

TWO KILLED IN CRASH.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Two persons were killed and two injured, one seriously, when their car, swerving to avoid two others it met on a curve, struck a tree and crashed into a power line pole near here early today.

ROOSEVELT, SPEAKING FROM PULPIT, ASKS FOR RELIEF SUPPORT

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Standing in the pulpit of the Hyde Park Methodist church, President Roosevelt tonight counseled his fellow countrymen not to forget community responsibility and not to lose sight of spiritual values while building back to economic stability.

The President spoke at the church's centennial celebration, and to the audience crowding the pews before him he appealed for continued support of local relief work.

"When I first went to Washington," he said, "I heard many people say we could just let the federal government assume the problems of the nation. But that is not the American way of doing things. I took the position that the government has a responsibility to take care of the people. But this responsibility should be exercised only when the local communities have done all they could and that has proved insufficient."

Then he continued: "In the task that we all face—in the so-called economic problems, the problems called monetary, in unemployment, industry, and agriculture—we shall not succeed unless the people of our country hold spiritual values just as high as they do material values."

ROOSEVELT WILL COME, LEGION HEADS BELIEVE

The main effort of the convention, officials said yesterday, will be to adopt a constructive program of veterans' relief which will regain some of the benefits lost under the Roosevelt administration's economy program, but will eliminate certain features of veteran aid that were objectional to the Legion as a whole. These objectionable features are blamed for the rigid curtailment of veterans' appropriations last spring.

Three States Demand Removal.

The rehabilitation fight is expected to center around Brig. Gen. Hines, who aroused the ire of three state departments of the Legion when he urged cuts in veterans' appropriations at the last session of congress. These state departments have passed resolutions asking for his removal. The subject of his ouster will be threshed out in the rehabilitation committee on Monday before it is brought to the convention floor.

The administrator of the veterans' bureau is appointed by the President and any action by the Legion will be in the nature of a recommendation to President Roosevelt. Brig. Gen. Hines was first appointed to head the bureau by President Harding in 1923. His last appointment came from President Hoover in 1930. He is a regular army officer and rose from the ranks. Gen. Hines will arrive on Monday ready to defend himself before the rehabilitation committee if he is called.

Four Point Relief Program.

John Thomas Taylor, vice chairman of the legislative committee, and Watson B. Miller, chairman of the rehabilitation committee, both of Washington, D. C., outlined a four point veterans' relief program which they said the convention would probably adopt as its policy on relief. The four points are:

1. That no war veteran disabled in the line of duty shall suffer any reduction of benefits granted such veterans under the world war veterans' act prior to March 20, 1933.

2. That hospitalization under government auspices be afforded all war veterans, not dishonorably discharged, who require hospital treatment and who are not able to pay for it.

3. That perpetuation of service connection for all veterans under laws in existence prior to March 20, 1933, be recommended as an item of Legion policy.

4. That the benefits provided for dependents of veterans as established in the world war veterans' act be resumed and maintained as the government's policy and that in no event shall widows or dependent children of deceased war veterans be without government protection.

Plan to Urge Bonus Payment.

Cash payment of the veterans' bonus to save $725,000,000 annually in interest will be advocated before the convention by Congressman Patman [Dem., Tex.], he announced yesterday. No mention has been made of the bonus in the many resolutions forwarded by state departments for consideration at the national meeting. Representative Patman is a delegate from Texas.

Other topics slated for consideration are nationl defense and the recognition of Russia by the United States, which will come up before the Americanism committee, and constructive child welfare work, before a committee of that name.

"40 AND 8" PLANS PARADE

Warnings that "the sidewalks had better be nailed down" when the Forty and Eight holds its promenade nationale in conjunction with the American Legion convention have not the slightest foundation in fact, it was declared yesterday by Charles W. Ardery of Indianapolis, correspondent nationale.

"We have been labeled the 'Bad Boys of the Legion,'" said Ardery, "but the voyageurs of the Forty and Eight have earned their way into the organization by hard work in the legion. The Forty and Eight has formed the spearhead in so many legion drives that it has come to be known as the legion's 'Shock troops.'

Lots of Noise and Fun.

"We make a lot of noise and have a lot of fun, but we are far from being the devils de luxe that we are sometimes painted."

The Forty and Eight brand of fun will begin Monday night with a parade [promenade nationale] in which will appear a hundred or more motorized imitations of the French freight trains in which American doughboys were transported. The cars carried 40 men or 8 horses, and usually moved at a slow pace.

The cars are now carrying the "voyageurs militaire" to Chicago from all parts of the country. During the parade they will be crowded with members clad in flowing smocks reminiscent of the French railway porters. They are, in the main, top ranking members of the legion.

200 Other Floats in Parade.

There will be 200 other floats in the parade, which will last nearly four hours, to accompanying martial airs by drum and bugle corps. The line of march will be from Balbo avenue [formerly 7th street], north in Michigan avenue to Ohio street, and east to the Chicago Riding club at McClurg court.

At the club there will be a "grand wreck," the initiation of 50 "P. G.'s" or prisoners of war, against a background of railroad scenery. This ceremony will be secret, according to the conducteur nationale, Frank B. Flannery of Chicago.

Business sessions of the "40 & 8" will begin tomorrow afternoon with a meeting of the national executive committee at the Medinah Michigan Avenue club.

Legion Notes

Edward Hayes, Decatur lawyer, tall, thin, with a so-called "golden voice" and ready handclasp, arrived yesterday and was greeted at convention headquarters, 105 South Dearborn street. Admirers were explaining to reporters why he is the Illinois favorite candidate for national commander. "He has four lovely daughters," said one, "and he always takes Mrs. Hayes with him wherever he goes." Another declared Ed Hayes did more for the disabled veterans than any one in Illinois.

Forty mounted policemen from Detroit, all Legion members, will arrive tomorrow by railway, accompanied by their mounts, which they will ride in the parade Tuesday. The first contingent of 1,000 policemen from New York arrived yesterday, the others to follow today and tomorrow. Five hundred policemen from California are expected. The Chicago Police post of the American Legion, with more than 1,000 members, commanded by Nicholas Reidy, has opened headquarters at 505 South State street, where open house will be held to receive visiting policemen.

From the 40 or more mounted policemen who are members of the Chicago Police post, 24 will be chosen as the mounted escort in Tuesday's parade. The men themselves will act as contestants and judges in a sort of beauty contest to pick the escort.

To A Century of Progress detail the following instruction is addressed by the service committee: "Appear neat and clean so that you will reflect credit on the committee and the Legion. Places for special attention where trouble may be anticipated are: Street of Paris, Old Mexico, Old Heidelberg, Blue Ribbon Casino, or any other place suggested by the Fair chief of police."

The full force of 500 members of the service committee, the official convention police, will go on duty this morning throughout the city wherever Legionnaires congregate, Matt Murphy, assistant to Sheriff William D. Meyering, committee chairman, announced.

Included in the typewritten instructions to the service committee is the following, for hotel details: "Familiarize yourself with the plan of the numbering of the hotel rooms from the outside of the hotel, so that if any articles or water are thrown out of the windows you will be able to detect which room it came from."

Fifty-five doctors, 70 nurses, 40 ambulance drivers and hospital orderlies, and 40 Boy Scouts will man a series of first aid stations during the parade Tuesday. They will be directed by Dr. Charles Schott, chairman of the first aid, hospitalization and sanitation committee, who also heads the American Legion child welfare department of the state. Six stations will be located in the loop, a permanent one will be in the Palmer house, and others wherever convention meetings are in progress.

Twenty doctors daily will inspect railroad cars in which men attending the convention will sleep and bathe during their stay here, Dr. Schott said. Official hospitals for the convention are St. Joseph's, Presbyterian, Michael Reese, and St. Luke's.

The veterans wearing caps and many medals who were seen in the loop stopping pedestrians to pin on tiny flags in their lapels for a price are not authorized to do so, according to attorneys for the American Legion 1933 corporation. Permits were issued to them by mistake and are being revoked and the men forbidden to sell the pin-on flags, he said. Sellers of canes are authorized, however.

Hundreds of ex-service women, most of whom were nurses in France, are expected to attend the convention, according to Mrs. E. M. Weisskopf of Chicago, general chairman of their activities. These women are real members of the American Legion, she said.

The convention liaison committee has its hands full trying to fill the requests of state delegations, according to the chairman, Fred Ashley. The California group wants a brown bear, a Massachusetts Legionnaire wants to find his sweetheart of 1920, the Arizona group wants a home for its collection of reptiles, North Carolina and Minnesota delegates want some automobiles to carry their bathing beauties, and New York's delegation wants big signs to hang in the hotel lobby saying they are here.

Ten thousand photographs made by the United States army signal corps during the war are being displayed on the ninth floor of Mandel Brothers' store. One of the pictures shows Company E of the 334th regiment of infantry, 84th division, drawn up at the side of a church awaiting its turn to entrain at St. Astiers, four miles away. The picture was taken Oct. 6, 1918.

REGISTRATION FEE WILL ADMIT LEGION MEN TO MANY EVENTS

Payment of the $2 registration fee by delegates to the Legion convention will entitle them to a coupon book bearing free admission to all Legion activities and bargain rates on other attractions, Legion officials announced yesterday.

The book carries with it free admission to the opening convention session, the drum and bugle corps contests, the military ball to be held on Tuesday night at the naval armory, and the Italian Grand opera concert tomorrow, and it entitles the bearer to free golf on 26 Chicago courses. The book also guarantees bargain rates in certain parking lots, at the Northwestern-Iowa game today, the Chicago Bears-Boston professional game tomorrow, the lake cruise on the steamer Roosevelt, and on certain sightseeing tours. The book, which may be obtained at the Legion headquarters at 105 South Dearborn street, also gives the delegate the right to purchase a cut rate book for admission to the World's Fair and certain concessions on the grounds.

TWITS GENERALS WHO PREPARE FOR WAR THAT'S OVER

Get Ready for Next One, Says Congressman.

Generals are always preparing for the war which has already been fought, Congressman Ross A. Collins [Dem., Miss.] told members of the National Guard association yesterday at their convention at the Drake hotel. He is a member of the house committee on military affairs.

"A leading authority," added the congressman, "goes further and says the general staff is preparing not for the last war, but the one before the last."

Collins made the quip a text for a plea for mechanization of the army. "The same old drill, the same system of musketry, based on the rifle; the same divisional organization of infantry troops, and the same insistence upon mere numbers is still with us," he said. "In fact, we are confronted by almost the whole prewar system in our present day army system.

Compares Germany and France.

"France has a vast number of men under its conscript system. Germany has a small army. Yet France fears attack from Germany. France argues, and rightly so, that it is not numbers, but the potential power of a nation that counts; that Germany, a scientific nation, is potentially stronger than the man power army of France.

"Yet we in the United States generally follow the French system. In developing our defensive military power we have neglected our potential strength. We have ignored the fact that we are the greatest scientific and industrial nation in the world. We are not planning for the use of armored fighting vehicles, but rather for the sending into battle of unprotected men fighting on foot or horseback.

"Military conservatism has too long been allowed to retain masses of slow moving, slow shooting, expensively massed troops."

The Functions of the Guard.

Collins urged that the National Guard, because the citizen soldier's mind is more easily adjusted to novelties than is that of the professional soldier, be used as a laboratory for testing the new mechanized system of combat.

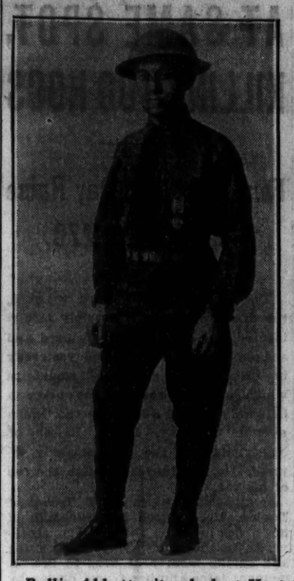
A spectacular military pageant was staged last night in the 124th Field Artillery armory, 5200 Cottage Grove avenue, by the 33d division as the final event of the National Guard association convention.

Fred Waring, Orchestra Leader, to Wed Here Today

Fred Waring, the orchestra conductor, announced here last night that he and Miss Evalyn Nair, stage and screen dancer, will be married "quietly" today.

Waring met his prospective bride at the airport where she alighted from a plane from Los Angeles, her home. They met two years ago while appearing in a New York musical comedy. Miss Nair was married in 1929 to Will Morgan, from whom she recently obtained her final divorce decree.

SMALLEST, TALLEST VETERANS



Rollin Abbott, city clerk at Hartford, Wis., and department historian for the Wisconsin American Legion, is reputed to be the smallest veteran of the world war. He served overseas and will march in the Chicago parade on Tuesday. He is 4 feet 8¾ inches tall.

Carl Sandell, a traffic policeman of Denver, Colo., is said to be the tallest veteran of the world war and saw service in France with the 147th field artillery. He is 7 feet 6 inches tall and weighs 309 pounds. He also will march in the Chicago legion parade.

ELECTION HOLDS CHIEF INTEREST FOR AUXILIARY

Legion Women Expect Busy Convention.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Their drums won't be so loud nor their drama as vivid as the sessions anticipated for the major organizations, yet the women of the American Legion auxiliary promise to make things hum in their own convention. Registration was well under way yesterday at the Auditorium hotel, and in the joint headquarters at 105 South Dearborn street the housing staff was operating full tilt.

The principal interest in the gathering, which will start Monday afternoon in the Auditorium theater, centers on the candidates for the presidency, to succeed Mrs. S. Alford Blackburn of Versailles, Ky. The election will be held at the final session on Thursday, with Mrs. J. J. Doyle of Toledo, O., national chaplain, and Mrs. William H. Biester Jr. of Philadelphia, chairman of the national rehabilitation committee, as the contenders.

Notables to Attend Convention.

Mrs. Guglielmo Marconi, who is accompanying her distinguished husband to Chicago; Princess Cantacuzene, who will arrive in Chicago tomorrow from Europe, where she has been traveling, and Mme. Schumann-Heink will be honored guests at the convention. The American born princess will give an address on national defense on Monday's program.

Accredited delegates to the convention will number 682, but auxiliary members attending without a vote are expected to swell the registration to about 50,000, making it the largest convocation of women to be held anywhere in the world this year. Panama, Alaska and Hawaii, as well as the District of Columbia and each of the forty-eight states, will be represented. Mrs. George Grant of Panama, formerly department president there, arrived yesterday. Another leader who arrived yesterday was Mrs. O. D. Oliphant of Trenton, N. J., chairman of national defense, who headed the auxiliary in 1925.

First President of Auxiliary.

Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart of Milford, O., who was the first president of the auxiliary, and who is also a past president general of the D. A. R., will reach the city today.

Gov. Paul McNutt of Indiana, past national commander of the Legion, will be the principal speaker Sunday noon at the Fidac breakfast at the Congress hotel. The Federation Interalliee des Anciens Combattants is that group which seeks to promote good will and better understanding between nations, to maintain the friendly contacts of world war days.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Stolen, 75; recovered, 60; stripped, 10 [from police records for twenty-four hours ending at midnight, Thursday].

YOUTH COMMITS SUICIDE.

Benton, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special]—Roy Cunningham, 18, local hotel clerk and student at Benton High school, committed suicide today by inhaling gas through a tube from a jet on a range.

Swears E. J. Stevens Clinched Transfers of Insurance Assets

Ernest J. Stevens, former president of the Stevens and La Salle hotels and vice president of the defunct Illinois Life Insurance company, was shown yesterday as having the deciding vote in two of the allegedly illegal transfers of funds from the insurance company to the hotel company in December, 1931, and January, 1932. Stevens is on trial in the Criminal court of Judge Michael Feinberg on charges of larceny and embezzlement of $1,500,000.

Steven's part in the transactions was told by Francis A. Widick, an employé of the life insurance company for ten years, who was called to the witness stand late in the day. Widick explained under questioning of Prosecutors John O'Hora and Earl Hurley, that he had worked in the treasury department of the company directly under James W. Stevens, father of Ernest Stevens and chairman of the board and treasurer of the insurance company.

Earlier in the day and during Thursday's testimony, the state showed that the Stevens Hotel company had been forced to borrow money from the insurance company to pay interest and principal coming due on a bond issue of $21,500,000. It was shown that the hotel had lost money at the rate of more than $1,000,000 a year every year from the time it opened in 1927.

Group of Three Loan Bonds.

On Dec. 3, 1931, Widick said, he prepared a memorandum authorizing the purchase of a corporate note from the hotel by the insurance company. This note was for $600,000, and was to be "bought" with that amount of Liberty bonds. In accordance with the business procedure of the insurance company officials, no directors' meeting was held to consider the matter, but it was put through on the signature of three of the directors.

Widick said that James W. Stevens, initialed the memorandum, and Raymond W. Stevens, brother of Ernest J. Stevens, who committed suicide soon after his indictment on the same charges as his brother, also signed. Widick said he took the memorandum to Bert J. Stookey, secretary of the finance committee of the insurance company, an officer of the company and a cousin of the defendant.

"Stookey refused to sign the memorandum," Widick said. He was not allowed to explain the reasons Stookey told him because of an objection by Defense Attorney Franklin J. Stransky.

Both Initialed by Defendant.

Widick then said he took the memorandum back to James W. Stevens and the following day saw it had also been signed by Ernest J. Stevens. Widick then gave the same testimony concerning the juggling of $711,000 between the hotel and the insurance company on Jan. 4, 1932. Stookey had refused to initial a memorandum approving the juggling, he said, but Ernest J. Stevens signed the paper.

Outside court Prosecutor O'Hora said the testimony definitely linked Ernest J. Stevens with the transfer of the funds, and also indicated that Stookey had rebelled against the "outrageous" transfers and retransfers of large amounts of cash and Liberty bonds between the two concerns.

Stookey will be the first witness to testify Monday morning, when the trial will be resumed. The adjournment yesterday followed the hearing of only Widick and John W. Dalton, former treasurer of the Stevens hotel. Dalton, a hostile witness called by the state, reluctantly admitted that Ernest J. Stevens drew an annual salary of $72,000 from the hotel company. He also admitted that the hotel's operations were so unprofitable that without the borrowings the company would have been unable to meet its interest payments.

Union League Luncheon Is Given for General Parker

Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, who has been transferred from command of the Sixth corps area, with headquarters in Chicago, to that of the army department of the Philippines, was given a farewell luncheon yesterday by the Union League club. Attorney Lester L. Falk, who presided, praised the activities of Maj. Gen. Parker during the four and a half years he has spent in Chicago, saying that he had "brought the army to the civilians and has made the civilian population understand the army."

STATE TO USE CONFESSIONS IN MURDER TRIAL

The prosecution scored several important points yesterday in the case against five youthful west side hoodlums, who are on trial before Judge Benjamin Epstein on charges of murdering Vito Pisciatta, 3152 5th avenue, a grocer, in a robbery on Feb. 4. Pisciatta and some friends were engaged in a poker game in his home when the bandits invaded the home.

Judge Epstein ruled that the confessions made by the five defendants could be introduced before the jury. The defendants had tried to have the confessions excluded on the ground that they were forced to confess by police brutality. After listening to the evidence with the jury out of the courtroom, the judge ruled that confessions were legally obtained by the police.

State Asks Death Penalty.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller is asking the death penalty for the defendants, who are James Palumbo, 23 years old, who is accused of having been the actual killer; Sam Mirabile, 25; Tony Venezia, 19; John Terracino, 20, and Frank Pascocciello, 19.

Mrs. Anna Pisciatta was among the first of the prosecution witnesses. Her son, Sylvester, 15 years old, and Mrs. Jennie Pennaci, 22 years old, identified the defendants as having taken part in the robbery and murder.

"I have waited a long time and I'll wait longer until justice is done to these killers," said the widow. She complained that it had taken seven months to bring the men to trial.

Only Murder Trial in Progress.

The trial of the five youths is the only important murder case in progress in the war against crime being conducted by the judges of the Criminal court. The campaign has shown signs of dying out except for periodical spurts. The campaign was originally started on Aug. 1 by Judge John Prystalski when he was chief justice of the court and a group of volunteer judges. During the August court term the judges sentenced 251 criminals to the penitentiary.

Chief Justice Philip L. Sullivan, who took charge of the court on Sept. 4, and the present group of judges have sentenced 100 criminals to the penitentiary in the same length of time. The September court term was virtually ended yesterday, although one judge will keep the court open today for bonds and writs, as is usual on Saturday.

The September grand jury, which made its final report yesterday, showed that body did not relax in its work. The jury returned 399 indictments and 138 no bills, according to Assistant State's Attorney Edwin J. Spiro. The clerk's records show the judges fell behind the grand jury.

Seven Sentences Imposed.

The seven sentences imposed yesterday to bring the total in the campaign against crime to 351, were as follows:

GEORGE DAVIS, 25 years old, of Los Angeles, sentenced to 1 year to life by Judge Francis Allegretti after a seven minute trial. On Sept. 1 he robbed two couples, World's Fair visitors, in front of 244 East Pearson street.

HARRY AUSTIN, 31, a barber, sentenced to 1 to 5 years by Judge Michael McKinley for bigamy. He had two wives, the second being Mildred Johnson, whom he married after a dance hall romance.

OLLIE BRADY, 28, and ARMAND JOBIN, 26, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each by Judge Walter Steffen for burglary of the garage of Floyd Norris, 2126 West 13th street, on July 15.

JOHN MIESCHKE, 26, sentenced to 1 to 10 years by Judge Harry Miller for burglary of the shop of Michael Proudin, 2741 Southport avenue, on Aug. 13.

WARREN ANDREWS, 28, and EARL BEAL, 19, both colored, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each by Judge Thomas J. Lynch for robbery of Marcek Porabski, 1717 West 21st place, on July 9.

Judge Charles P. Molthrop announced yesterday that James Catuara and William Palermo, alleged bombers of the Belcastro gang, must go to trial before him on Oct. 16. The judge overruled a motion to quash the indictment. The men were caught by the police some months ago with a dynamite bomb in their car. They are at liberty on bonds of $50,000 each.

ANNOUNCE TWO CHICAGO WEEK BAND CONCERTS

Musical festivities during Chicago week at the World's Fair were mapped out yesterday in a meeting held at the offices of James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians. Mr. Petrillo, who was appointed chairman of the music committee by Mayor Kelly, called the conference of representatives of radio and theatrical representatives.

A 100 piece brass band, under the baton of Mr. Petrillo, will open the first program on Friday night, Oct. 6, from 8 to 10 o'clock. The band will play in the Court of States at the Fair. A second program will be given on the afternoon of Oct. 9, from 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock.

Radio stars and comedians of the stage and screen will take part in the entertainment. Among the orchestra leaders participating will be Wayne King, Bernie Cummins, Jan Garber, Charles Agnew, Richard Cole, and Guy Lombardo.

HOLD MARRIED ESCORT OF GIRL HURT IN STREET

Peter Rinello, 39 years old, 5164 Homer street, an employé of Kosciusko park, was being held by Cragin police yesterday pending the outcome of injuries incurred by Miss Theresa Gardino, 22 years old, 2044 North Mason avenue. She was found unconscious in the street in the 6100 block in Fullerton avenue and she said Rinello threw her from an automobile.

Rinello is the father of her 1 year old son, she said, and her father was of the belief she was married to Rinello, who is married and lives with his wife and two sons. Rinello denies being the father of her child. He said she jumped from the automobile, according to Capt. Thomas Duffy, who questioned him.

Bishop Manning Speaks Here

10,000 Hear Bishop Manning Expound High Church Faith

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Rt. Rev. William T. Manning of New York, whose stormy career as Episcopal bishop of New York has aroused nation-wide attention, last night drew a throng of more than ten thousand persons from Chicagoland and many World's Fair visitors to the Chicago Stadium to hear him defend the position which caused the controversy surrounding his name.

The occasion was the Chicago diocese's celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the Oxford movement. This movement is more generally known in this country as the high church, or Anglo Catholic, party of the Episcopal church, and represents the most virile and highly organized group to be found in the Episcopal church in this country and in the Anglican church throughout the world.

Attacks Hitler, War, Sweatshops.

While the New York bishop leveled a shaft of criticism against Hitler's anti-Semitic campaign and read out the declaration that war, sweatshops, and economic injustice are incompatible with Christ's reign, yet the bulk of his sermon dealt with the meaning of Christianity as interpreted by the Oxford movement Bishop Manning divided the world sharply between those who are Christian and those who are not.

Bishop Manning denied that followers of the Oxford movement form an ecclesiastical group within the church. He asserted, to the contrary, that the word "Catholic" is not the possession of a minority or a party in the church, but is the term which designates "every man who accepts the teachings of the Book of Common Prayer as to the faith, the apostolic ministry, and the sacraments."

Ordains 16 From Other Faiths.

That this Catholic position is gaining strength throughout the world Bishop Manning offered as proof the fact that during the last year sixteen ministers of different Protestant communions had applied to him for Episcopal ordination, "all of them men of standing and responsibility, some of them holding positions of much importance in their own denominations."

Bishop George Craig Stewart introduced Bishop Manning. Combined choirs numbering 1,500 voices formed a processional at the west end of the Stadium and moved eastward in two columns, singing "The Church's One Foundation." Ninety-two crossbearers and eighty-four torchbearers accompanied the choirs, vested clergy numbering about 100, and six bishops. In addition to Bishops Manning and Stewart, Bishops John C. White of Springfield, Harwood Sturtevant of Fond du Lac, Campbell Gray of northern Indiana, and George Winchester of Arkansas were in the procession.

Soars for Stratosphere Next Week if Air Is Right

The second attempt of Lieutenant Commander T. G. W. Settle of the navy to ascend into the stratosphere will be made as soon after Monday as the proper atmospheric conditions prevail, backers of the flight announced yesterday. The ascent will be made at dawn, from the Goodyear air base in the Fair grounds. The bag has been repaired, the gondola refitted with scientific instruments, and 720 cylinders of 99.9 per cent pure hydrogen gas are on hand for the attempt. The first attempt ended a few minutes after Commander Settle left the ground two months ago, when he was forced to land in a railroad yard.

Eccentric Who Killed Self Left Estate of $337,271

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 29.—(AP)—The estate of Miss Margaret Keith, eccentric recluse who killed herself in Beverly Hills last April, is valued at $337,271 in an appraisal on file in Probate court.

SALTIS ESCAPES IN COURT BEFORE DOZEN POLICEMEN

Fails to Give $10,000 Bond in Vagrancy Case.

Joe Saltis, once a power in south side beer circles, appeared yesterday in the Felony court with two bondsmen and an attorney to surrender on one of the new vagrancy reputation warrants. After engaging court attachés and policemen in pleasant conversation for forty-five minutes, the hoodlum suddenly discovered that he could not make the $10,000 bond, and walked unmolested from the courtroom.

Court attachés recalled that just before his disappearance, Saltis had been engaged in animated discussion with one of his bondsmen. The bondsman, witnesses said, shook his head in a sad manner and hurried from the court.

Saltis Leaves Court.

He was followed shortly by Saltis, who had come from his Wisconsin farm. Still later the Saltis attorney gathered up his papers and went away. The disappearance was discovered when Judge Green glanced around the courtroom with the remark that he "understood Joe Saltis was here."

The error of the judge's statement was discovered and Judge Green asked if there were policemen in the courtroom. A dozen held up their hands.

"Saltis walked out of here," Judge Green told them, "and no one stopped him. I issued these vagrancy warrants at the request of the police department and I get no coöperation. It is a fine situation when a criminal can come in here, change his mind, and walk out."

The judge ordered the policemen to find Saltis and bring him into court, and added as an afterthought: "You policemen had better search yourselves and see if you have had your pockets picked."

In a Genial Mood.

Saltis had been in a genial mood during his short visit in the courtroom. He wore a green suit, and a gaudy tie, from which sparkled a diamond pin.

"I'm no vag," he told listeners. "I'm a gentleman farmer. The rumor that I'm going to sell my Wisconsin place is the bunk. I have just put in a new line of partridges."

The vagrancy drive received another setback during the day when the case against Ray [Bookie] Jones, alleged member of the old Capone gang, was dismissed by Judge Green. Assistant State's Attorney John Boyle told the court that he had no evidence against the defendant. Sergt. William Balswick, who arrived after the case had been dismissed, admitted that he had no evidence against Jones.

JAP ARMY ASKS FOR HIGHEST WAR CHEST IN HISTORY

TOKIO, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Military leaders today asked that an army appropriation of $171,740,000, the largest in Japanese history, be included in the 1934-'35 budget.

As if to meet possible opposition to the demands, the war office in a statement said the strengthening of the Russian army made "Japan unable to rest at ease concerning her defense in the direction of the Asiatic continent."

CHANGE OF VENUE PLEAS PROBLEM IN RACKET CASE

Defendants May Use Up Eligible Judges.

The possibility that defendants in the so-called business racket conspiracy case may use up all the judges in Cook county in their demands for changes of venue arose yesterday. All of the 24 defendants, with the exception of Al Capone, who is in federal prison, and Murray Humphries, public enemy No. 1, who has not been apprehended, appeared before Judge Walter P. Steffen in the Criminal court.

Marshall Rose, field secretary of the Hand Laundry Owners' association, opened the hearing with a demand for a change of venue. Judge Steffen then called the roll of the other 21 defendants and asked them if they would seek changes of venue.

Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, former czar of the cleaning and dyeing industry; Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th], and Aaron Sapiro, New York attorney, announced that they were ready to go to trial before any judge chosen to hear the case. The other eighteen said that they believed there are judges in Cook county who are prejudiced against them.

47 Judges Are Eligible.

It was pointed out that there are 47 judges in Cook county eligible to hear this case. Of this number twelve are in the Appellate court, the Juvenile court, and on other special assignments. In a plea for a change of venue Rose and the other 18 defendants are entitled to name two judges they believe are prejudiced.

If all the 19 defendants should pick out different judges as being prejudiced, court attachés pointed out that it might be necessary to go outside the county to find a judge to hear the case.

After the roll call Attorney Benedict Short, acting as spokesman for the battery of defense counsel, asked that the defendants be given until Monday to file their petitions for a change of venue. He pointed out that today is a Jewish holiday and that several of the defendants are of that faith.

Wants Statute Followed.

Assistant State's Attorney Edwin J. Raber argued that the statute be followed, which requires that an affidavit of prejudice be filed within 24 hours after the oral request for a change of venue. Judge Steffen then ordered the attorneys to file the petitions for a change of venue today with the understanding that no hearing would be held until Monday. The state charges in the indictment that the defendants joined together in a gigantic conspiracy to force extortionate dues out of employers' plants and union treasuries.

5,000 BOY SCOUTS TO TAKE PART IN RELIGIOUS RALLY

More than 5,000 Boy Scouts from Chicago and the vicinity will take part tomorrow afternoon in a religious rally at the Holy Name cathedral.

There will be a parade preceding the service. Ten bands and an equal number of drum and bugle corps, Eagle Scouts, and patrols of suburban and Chicago Scouts will take part.

The line of march will be south on the Lake Shore drive and west on Superior street to the reviewing stand at the cathedral where the Scouts will be welcomed by Cardinal Mundelein. After the cardinal's address taps will be sounded in memory of departed Scouts.

The service in the cathedral will be conducted by Bishop Bernard J. Sheil.

INDIAN ART comes to the front and we're up to our necks in it. Motifs on Indian relics now in the Museum of Natural History inspired the all-over designs you see in this smart group of ties taken from our new fall collection. Colors are deep, rich reds, copper reds, and bright reds, with the authentic Indian designs in dobby effects, interestingly accentuated by bright bits of contrasting color. So much for the patterns and colors. When it comes to being unusual, they have little on the rich quality of the material itself. It is seldom you come across its equal in ties priced as low as this.

Iowa and Scotland share honors today at the Fair, with special programs second to none so far given at the Exposition in color and pageantry. Highlight of the Iowa day celebration is the Iowa-Northwestern football game in the afternoon, while the Canadian Essex Scots regiment will participate in the Scots day program.

With good fall weather promised and an attractive program, plus the usual Saturday upturn, officials expect an attendance comparable to the large crowds of August and early September. With the Cicero day celebration as the leading attraction yesterday crowds again pushed the attendance curve upward. Admissions up to 11:30 p. m. totaled 121,812.

Salute for Gov. Herring.

The Iowa day ceremonies will open in the Court of Honor at the 14th street entrance at 10:40 a. m., when the governor's party arrives. Honor guests will be Gov. Clyde L. Herring, Lieut. Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel, the Iowa farm commissioners, and other state leaders. The party will be greeted with a governor's slute of nineteen guns and a review of the troops from Camp Whistler.

Only 32 More Days Remain in Which to See the Fair.

After the reception the party will parade to the Court of States to present the formal program. Among the speakers scheduled to appear are President Rufus C. Dawes of the Fair, Mayor Kelly, Gov. Herring, and Iowa leaders. The program in the Court of States will continue an hour, after which activities will be suspended to permit the party to attend the football game in the afternoon.

At 5 p. m. the state program will be resumed on the Floating theater, where a group of Iowa entertainers will perform. The concluding event of the day will be a musical program at 8 p. m. in the court of the Hall of Science.

Scottish Chorus to Sing.

The Scots assembly will be held at 2 p. m. in the Science court, where programs will be presented until 6 p. m. Robert Black, the chairman of the day, will introduce the speakers and musical units. Among the events scheduled are the appearance of the Canadian Essex Scots regiment, with its bagpipe band, the Kiltie band of Stockyards post of the American Legion, a highland fling by fifty dancers, and songs by a Scottish chorus of 250 voices. A sword dance will be a feature of the Scots regiment participation.

Miss Scotland, queen of the Scots day celebration, was announced last night. She is Margaret Balkie, 16 years old, a Chicago born girl whose parents were born in the highlands of Scotland. She was chosen by the executive committee.

The principal speaker will be Bishop George Craig Stewart. Other speakers will include Gilbert Alexander, president of the St. Andrew society of Illinois, and Alex MacKenzie, president of the United Scottish Societies of Illinois.

10,000 Watch Army Ceremony.

More than ten thousand people packed the Court of States and galleries, flowing over into the parade ground yesterday, to watch the Scots regiment troop the color before 450 officers of the National Guard. The guard officers are in Chicago to attend the annual convention at the Drake hotel.

Senior officers of the United States troops present included Maj. Gen. George E. Leach, chief of the National Guard bureau in Washington; Major General of Militia Roy D. Keehn, and Lieutenant General of Militia Milton J. Foreman, retired. Col. W. D. Robinson represented the British crown. The officers named received the salute of the regiment during the maneuver.

CICERO AT FAIR TELLS WORLD IT'S SUBURB OF HOMES

10,000 Attend Fete of Community.

Cicero celebrated its day at the Fair yesterday, presenting a program of music, speeches, entertainment features and children's drills, and telling the world the suburb is a good place to live in. With schools and business houses closed for the day, Cicero brought what was probably the largest crowd of any neighborhood day at the Fair.

"Cicero has united with Chicago and neighboring towns in welcoming friends from every nation and every clime," said Mayor Joseph Cerny in welcoming some ten thousand visitors who thronged the court of the Hall of States in the afternoon. "We are proud of Cicero, and invite all of the world to visit us, knowing they will be impressed on every hand with the evidence of the real home spirit of the community."

Give Musical Programs.

In general the program was musical in nature with the Cicero grade schol band presenting a concert in the states group in the afternoon and the Sterling Morton High school band serenading in the evening from the Floating theater.

During the afternoon Bernice Rakosnik, 1910 South 58th avenue, Cicero, was presented by the mayor as "Miss Cicero." Her two maids of honor were Eleanor Lasica, 5014 West 29th street, and Cecelia Metelee, 5424 West 22d place. The three were chosen in a contest sponsored by the Cicero Tribune, suburban newspaper.

Poor Children Attend.

The paper also sponsored the visit of two hundred poor children, and three thousand men and women from the charity rolls in the suburb. Other Cicero organizations coöperated in similar enterprises to swell the crowd of suburban visitors.

In the evening Fred Sommer, 1423 South 61st avenue, a student, received a gold medal for the best essay on "Why Cicero Is a Good Place in Which to Live." The theme of his essay was that Cicero presents good schools and homes, has good transportation and health conditions, and gives every one the chance to work.

Jury Absolves Playwright in Fatal Auto Accident

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 29.—(AP)—John Huston, playwright son of Walter Huston, film actor, was absolved from blame today by a coroner's jury for the accident in which his motor car struck and killed Tosca Roulien, comely young wife of Paul Roulien, Brazilian movie star, Wednesday night.

FINES SUBURBAN COP FOR ASSAULT ON AUTO PARTY

Charles Roach, Evergreen Park policeman, was found guilty of assaulting a party of motorists yesterday by Judge Walter P. Steffen in the Criminal court. He was fined $100 and costs by the judge who heard the evidence on a jury waiver. Herbert Drabandt, Roach's partner, was acquitted on the same charge.

The prosecution was at a disadvantage in the case because most of the witnesses, who at the time of the assault several months ago announced they would prosecute to the end, developed faulty memories. W. Don Lowrie, 6150 Greenwood avenue, who did not appear at the first hearing of the case last week, showed up yesterday and testified that he was assaulted by Roach with a blackjack in front of the village police station. Lowrie at the time was driving the automobile of Miss Elizabeth Scott, 8046 South Carpenter street, and Mrs. Marie Turek and her husband were passengers.

Emil Swanson, 7526 Dorchester avenue, was found guilty of driving away from the scene of an accident by a jury in Judge Michael L. McKinley's court and was sentenced to ninety days in the Bridewell. He struck Dorothy Thornton, colored, 4 years old, and did not stop after the accident.

South Suburbs Arrange Day at Fair on Oct. 27

Plans for a Southern Cook County day to be held at A Century of Progress on Oct. 27 were made yesterday at a meeting of representatives of the Illinois Central, the Southern Cook County Chamber of Commerce, and the Fair. Harris Dante, executive secretary of the chamber of commerce, said that all officials of southern Cook county towns would join in making the day a success. Prizes are to be given for the oldest person attending the Fair and for the largest family from southern Cook county.

FINED FOR AFFRAY ON CAR.

Charles J. Hartnett, 39 years old, 4951 Winthrop avenue, was fined $5 yesterday by Municipal Judge John J. Rooney after he had admitted he was intoxicated when he struck the conductor of a Broadway surface car on Thursday.

30,000 CANADIAN RAILMEN VOTE IN FAVOR OF STRIKE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 29.—A strike of men engaged in the running trades threatens a general tieup of both the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways. It was announced here today that a recent vote taken among the 30,000 members of the trades has resulted in authority being given the union leaders to declare a strike if the companies do not withdraw the second 10 per cent wage cut imposed by them. Members of the general council of five unions representing the railway running trades completed a tabulation of the strike vote and notified the railways. The union heads plan to give the railways a certain time in which to withdraw the second wage cut, failing which a strike seems certain.

FOUNTAIN SHOW CONTINUED A DAY FOR WAR VETS

Buckingham fountain in Grant park will be left in operation through tomorrow and perhaps longer for the benefit of visitors to the American Legion convention, it was announced yesterday by William I. Bell, electrical engineer for the south park board. The fountain was to have been closed down for the winter tonight. A full display will be given from 3 to 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and the lighted major display will be presented from 8 to 9 o'clock in the evening. Requests have been made that the usual closing date for the fountain displays be extended until the Legion convention ends Thursday night.

NEW X-RAY LETS A PATIENT READ WITH EYES SHUT

Inventor Demonstrates It at Radiology Meeting.

An X-ray machine that enables an individual to read with his eyes closed was one of the exhibits of interest yesterday at the American Congress of Radiology at the Palmer house. It was brought to Chicago by its inventor, Dr. A. H. Pirie of the Royal Victoria hospital at Montreal, who completed it only two weeks ago.

Even in its somewhat crude state the apparatus was entirely effective in demonstrations. It will be improved for commercial use in hospitals and physicians' offices, Dr. Pirie explained, and has already proved valuable in three separate fields. It enables a person to locate accurately the presence of a piece of steel or other foreign body in his eyes; it discloses the affected area of vision in cases of cataracts or brain tumors affecting the sight, and it shows whether a nerve in the eye is dead.

Place Patient in Dark.

The subject is left in complete darkness for twenty minutes before such tests are made. He is then placed in front of the portable apparatus, which is carried in a small leather case. The X-ray is set on a table or shelf so that the eyes of the patient are level with a small tube extending from the machine. The tube ends in a projection similar to an eyecup, against which the eyeball is placed, with the lid closed.

On a plate inserted farther back in the tube is a diagram of lead, a circle divided into four parts. The X-ray is then turned on, and if a foreign body is in the eye, the ray will reflect it in one of the four divisions of the diagram, which can be seen plainly and designated by the patient. The oculist then operates to remove the particle.

One patient was sent to Dr. Pirie with a cataract on one eye, which it was proposed to remove by an operation, to restore the sight. The test revealed that there was no vision left, the nerve being dead, so that the operation would have been useless.

Lead Letters on Retina.

Lead letters are used as a text on plates inserted in the tube and can be read without difficulty as they are reflected on the retina of the eyes, even through the closed lids.

Gold medals of the Radiological Society of America were presented last night at the society's annual convocation and installation of officers in the grand ballroom of the hotel. Dr. Eben J. Carey, dean of Marquette university medical school, was honored for his research work in visualization of bone structure, and Dr. Chevalier Jackson of the University of Pennsylvania for his bronchoscopic studies and skill in removing foreign bodies from the lungs of children and adults.

Dr. John T. Murphy of Toledo, O., will be succeeded as president of the American Roentgen Ray society one year from now by Dr. George Grier of Pittsburgh as the result of the election held yesterday.

Calles Accepts Post as Mexican Finance Minister

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Former President Plutarco Elias Calles today reëntered active political life for the second time since he left the presidency in 1928. He accepted appointment as minister of finance. He succeeds Alberto J. Pani, who resigned last night. Marte R. Gomez, minister of agriculture in 1929 and 1930 and a member of the Mexican delegation to the world economic conference, was named Calles' assistant.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

The Polish Women's alliance will present a program of speeches, music, and dances in honor of Mme. Marie Sklodowska-Curie, woman scientist and discoverer of radium, at 3 p. m. tomorrow in the Court of States. The principal address will be made by Dr. Tytus Zbyszewski, consul general of Poland in Chicago.

Bus and taxicab passengers wishing to enter the Roosevelt road and 14th street gates during the American Legion parade Tuesday will be unloaded at 11th street and Wabash avenue because of the barring of automobiles from Grant park. Otherwise traffic to the Fair will operate as usual. The outer drive will be open from 23d street south with buses operating as usual at all gates south of 23d street. Surface lines cars will continue to serve all gates. An extra foot bridge will be constructed to allow pedestrians to cross the line of march at Roosevelt road.

West Virginians in Chicago and Legionnaires from that state will coöperate with the West Virginia state exhibit at the Fair in honoring Col. Louis A. Johnson, national commander of the Legion, at ceremonies in the Court of States Tuesday at 8:30 p. m.

Registrations from every state in the Union and a score of foreign countries have been made in the exhibit of the Rock Island lines in the Travel and Transport building. Natural color motion pictures of the middle west, Arizona, California, and Colorado are shown in the "Little Theater of the Rail" in this exhibit. An average of more than 3,000 persons a day visit the theater, according to Leon M. Allen, vice president and passenger traffic manager of the railroad.

The Art institute and the art exhibit of A Century of Progress housed there will be open until 10 p. m. every day hereafter until the closing of the Fair, officials announced yesterday.

Ex-service men employed at the Pantheon de la Guerre have organized a reception committee to receive Legionnaires who visit the building on the Midway during convention week.

Welfare day was observed yesterday at the Illinois Host house as the seventh program of Illinois Achievement week. Graham Taylor of Chicago and Senator Florence Fifer Bohrer of Bloomington, Ill., made addresses during the afternoon program. A pageant depicting prominent Illinois women of the past century and the part they played in Illinois history was given in the evening. "Architecture and Allied Arts" is the subject for today, with a continuous program beginning at 11 a. m.

More than 1,000 Iowans will arrive in Chicago this morning over the Rock Island road for Iowa day at the Fair and the Iowa-Northwestern football game in Soldiers' field this afternoon.

Approximately 160,000 exhibits of canned and preserved foods will be displayed in space 1 of the Court of States tomorrow and throughout October in the International Canning contest. Two carloads of exhibits arrived yesterday, including California figs, New Hampshire blueberries, and corn from Maine. The foods entered in the contest will be distributed to Chicago charitable organizations at the close of the contest.

A party of 18 winners in a popularity contest sponsored by a business men's association of Madison, Wis., will arrive in Chicago at 8:25 a. m. today in special car over the Milwaukee road for a two day visit to the Fair.

Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York visited the Fair yesterday in company with his wife and a party of friends. Senator Copeland, who is a physician, was particularly impressed with the sanitary arrangements. "It is so clean, so spic and span," the senator said.

American Is Wounded in Wild Street Fighting.

A few blocks away, in Reina street, were the ashes of Mella, which had been lying in state in the home of Wilfredo Fernandez, former senator from Pinar del Rio province and now a prisoner in Cabanas fortress. Fernandez's home was confiscated by the communists recently and has been used by them as a headquarters.

Troops Fire on Snipers.

The parade began shortly after 2 p. m. Suddenly up the street shots rang out. The bullets came from rooftops.

The soldiers flopped to their knees in the street and, taking careful aim, shot at the roofs. Then came shots from the crowds in the streets and soldiers with small magazine guns began pumping at men in the crowd showing weapons.

The street at once was filled with a scrambling mob, screaming and yelling, while from corners machine guns shot over the heads of the crowds. Trolley wires were severed by bullets and live wires hissed and writhed in the street until the current was shut off.

Soldiers used gun butts to clear the streets. Ambulances rushed up and picked up six dead and 20 wounded. The street was littered with shoes, hats, and torn clothing.

Blame Foreign Reds.

Communists at Reina and Estobal streets, where the first melee occurred, insisted the sniping was done by foreign reds. Others insisted the sniping was started by revolutionary groups who desire American intervention.

Meanwhile, at Fraternity square, soldiers with picks were tearing down the small stone monument in which the communists had proposed to give the ashes of Mella "provisional sepulture" until such time as they might bury them in the capitol or elsewhere if they got control of the government.

The government tonight authorized the burial of Mella tomorrow at Colon cemetery. The funeral cortège will be escorted by the army. Red banners are forbidden.

The whereabouts of Mella's ashes, however, tonight were a mystery. Late tonight soldiers wrecked the headquarters of the Anti-Imperialistic League of Cuba in the old Fernandez home. The Reds say the ashes were smuggled away before the soldiers descended on them.

DUNHAM CHOSEN AS CHAIRMAN OF RELIEF BOARD

Robert J. Dunham of Chicago was elected chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission yesterday. Recently appointed to the commission by Gov. Horner, he wos chosen at the first meeting he attended to succeed Edward L. Ryerson Jr., who resigned because of the pressure of private business.

At the same meeting Charles Boeschenstein of Edwardsville, former Democratic national committeeman, took up his duties as a member of the commission. He succeeds Paul Abt of East St. Louis, an Emmerson appointee.

Chairman Dunham declined interviews on the work of the commission and his plans for future operations, explaining that he had not become familiar with all its affairs. He expects to go to Springfield during the special session of the legislature called for the primary purpose of providing funds for the continuation of relief work.

'BOMBERS' KING' AND FOUR PALS SEIZED BY POLICE

James Belcastro, known to police as "king of the bombers," and four companions, three of whom police said have reputations as bombers, were arrested by Sergt. Edward Waller and his detective bureau hoodlum squad late last night as they alighted from an automobile at Polk and Morgan streets.

Belcastro's companions were James Catura, 27 years old, 2540 Emerald avenue, and William Palermo, 27 years old, of 2817 Arthington street, who are awaiting trial on charges of transporting bombs; Mike Midera, 39, of 824 South California avenue, who police say has been convicted of a bombing in Waukegan, and Rocco Fanelli, 33, of 1011 Polk street, a hoodlum.

The five were seized as they stepped from Midera's expensive new automobile. All were taken to the detective bureau and held for investigation.

Restaurant Man Shoots Waiter; Pleads Accident

James Jarapas 47 years old, a waiter, was shot in a restaurant at 8555 Buffalo avenue and probably fatally wounded early today. Michael Karas, owner of the restaurant, told police he fired at a Mexican who had started a fight and shot Jarapas accidentally. Police said Karas had been drinking and locked him up at the South Chicago station. Jarapas was taken to the South Chicago hospital.

Woman Dies of Heart Attack in Church Pew

Mrs. Alma Morris, 67 years old, 744 North Racine avenue, died of a heart attack last night in the church at 6633 Normal boulevard. Mrs. Morris was standing in a pew beside her daughters, Mrs. James Ricco, also of 744 North Racine avenue, and Mrs. John Kelly, 836 Milwaukee avenue, when she collapsed.

RED RIOTERS IN CUBA DELIVER THE NEWS TO THE FRONT DOOR

HAVANA, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Front door deliveries of news stories seldom occur, but employés of the Associated Press in this city "enjoyed" that experience today.

In the midst of the fighting between soldiers and communists the scene of the most intense activity shifted twice to the front door of the Diario de la Marina newspaper building, in which the Associated Press office is situated.

The noise of the firing was deafening inside the building and it was almost impossible to carry on telephone conversation. Bullets peppered the stone walls with nerve shattering regularity.

Inside the employés moved about in a half stoop and when the fire became heavier reporters dropped to the floor, where they sprawled out and wrote their stories in longhand. Others crouched behind desks checking injured lists at hospitals over the telephone.

They were virtual prisoners in their offices because owners of the building had barred and locked all but one door, and it was in the very center of the battle.

LILIENTHAL JOB WITH U. S. BREAK FOR WISCONSIN

Harassed Utilities with Great Furor.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 29. — [Special.]—The administration's Tennessee valley scheme has become of special interest to the people of Wisconsin because through it Gov. Albert G. Schmedeman was able to unload on the federal government David E. Lilienthal, the radical former head of the state public service commission.

When Lilienthal was appointed to the Tennessee valley authority it was generally approved as being a break for Wisconsin. People expressed themselves as being willing to share with the nation Wisconsin's reputation as headquarters for political and sociological experiment at the taxpayers' expense.

Imported from Illinois.

Lilienthal was imported from Illinois by former Gov. Phil La Follette, it was commonly understood for the purpose of creating campaign thunder for the radicals. He was not too successful in this and was one of the important reasons Walter Kohler got so many more votes than La Follette in the primary a year ago.

Trained Under Richberg.

Before coming here Lilienthal obtained a corporation baiting training in the Chicago law office of Donald R. Richberg.

Mr. Lilienthal's chief accomplishment in Wisconsin was the establishment of the principle that guilty or innocent utilities must pay for their own disciplining. A law resulted which enables the commission to keep a large force digging into utility records and holding hearings at the expense of the company up to four-fifths of its gross revenues.

ASKS COURT TO RULE ON WILL OF W. MATTHIESEN

A bill seeking an interpretation of the will of Walter Matthiesen, an official of the National Tea company, who died May 1, 1933, was filed in the Circuit court yesterday. The bill was filed on behalf of the First National bank, as trustee of the estate, and asks a construction of a phrase in the will which bequeaths an annuity of $6,000 to a sister, Katherine Matthiesen of Skive, Denmark. The estate was valued at $170,000 at the time of Mr. Matthiesen's death. The bill was filed to determine whether the annuity shall be paid from the principal or income of a trust set up in the estate. The will made other bequests of $35,000 to charities and left the residuary estate to Mrs. Emma W. Rasmussen, 824 Castlewood terrace.

New York, Sept. 29.—[Special.]—After two days of indecision Joseph V. McKee, former president of the board of aldermen, announced today that he would run for mayor as an independent candidate. He promised a war against political "bossism," and, in the event of his election, pledged to the people of the city "what they now have in the nation—a new deal."

Mr. McKee's belated announcement came in the form of a statement made public by Charles E. Keegan, his former confidential aid. The announcement was made on the plaza in front of the city hall.

It was established definitely that Mr. McKee, who, the night before, had indicated a strong disinclination to enter the race, did not see either of his two principal sponsors today.

Farley and Flynn Leave Town.

Postmaster General James A. Farley, Democratic state and national chairman, went on to Washington after a few minutes here on his way from Rochester and Secretary of State Edward J. Flynn, Bronx leader, left town by noon.

There was little doubt, however, that Mr. McKee talked with friends of Mr. Farley and Mr. Flynn, who urged him to run. It was regarded as significant that Mr. McKee, when he appeared for an interview at the Biltmore hotel in the afternoon, was accompanied by Harry M. Durning, collector of the port, a Roosevelt delegate at the Democratic national convention, a close friend of Mr. Flynn and recipient of the most important federal appointment in New York so far made by President Roosevelt.

Means Three Cornered Fight.

With Mr. McKee definitely a candidate a three cornered fight is in prospect, with John P. O'Brien, Tammany nominee, Fiorello H. La Guardia, fusion candidate, the other leading candidates. Opinion differs as to whether Mr. McKee will draw more from O'Brien or from La Guardia.

McKee's statement assailed the leadership of Curry of Tammany and of John H. McCooey of Brooklyn as "an arrogant leadership of stupidity and corruption, unmatched since the days of Tweed."

Has Roosevelt Flavor.

Throughout his statement there smacked a decided flavor of Roosevelt-ism. He pounded Tammany for having opposed Gov. Herbert H. Lehman's nomination and Roosevelt led the battle for Lehman. He sympathized with those who have fought for Roosevelt and met with Tammany disfavor and he ended by setting up as his own ideal "a new deal," the slogan of the Roosevelt administration.

Answering his critics who have assailed him for not having gone into the primaries, Mr. McKee said.

"I refused to enter the Democratic primaries because I felt that to do so would mark me as a tool of the machine, and that would prevent my doing the job that must be done to restore our city government."

And in further refutation of the criticism that he had been offered the fusion nomination, he said:

"I was not offered the fusion nomination, but had it been offered I should have refused to accept it, because to do so would have implied an obligation to Samuel Koenig, whom the decent Republicans have just ejected from power."

Assails Fusion Candidate.

Of the fusion movement and the fusion candidate for mayor, Fioretta La Guardia, Mr. McKee said:

"There is no real fusion in this campaign. The so-called fusion standard bearer is as objectionable to the solid element of our Republican citizenry as he is to the vast army of Democrats who are disgusted with machine politics. The present standard bearer of the alleged fusion is a poor compromise by a faction of would-be bosses."

EXTRA SESSION SLATED TO AID NEW YORK CITY

Refinancing Laws Will Be Enacted.

New York, Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman announced tonight that he would convene the legislature in special session in a few days to enact new legislation permitting the city to carry out its part of the refinancing plan accepted by Mayor John P. O'Brien to avert municipal bankruptcy.

Arthur J. W. Hilly, corporation counsel, is preparing the city bills for submission to the legislature. They will set up two new funds through which the city will meet maturing city securities issued by the bankers against back and current taxes.

Assured of Support.

The governor was assured by Assemblyman Irwin Steingut and Senator John J. Dunnigan, Democratic legislative leaders, that they would support the city bills. The governor also holds an assurance of support from Speaker Joseph McGinnies, Republican leader.

Samuel Untermyer, financial adviser to the city, insisted today that the economy program already outlined would not be abandoned. He threatened to resign his position if the Tammany city administration did not cooperate in putting these economies through.

Pleads for Economies.

"While the word 'economies' is not used in the plan," Mr. Untermyer said, "it is the keystone of the arch and is plainly implied in every line. Without both large economies and new additional taxation—excluding real estate—the plan is not workable. How otherwise can the budget stand the addition of a reserve fund of $25,000,000 this year and $50,000,000 per year in succeeding years, for the purpose of putting the city out of debt in four years and supplying it with capital to meet future tax anticipations?

"Increase of real estate taxes has been wisely forbidden. It was high time.

"From what source, then, is the money to come to meet their heavy reserves and mandatory salary increases, except from economies and new taxes? That is the whole theory of the plan and the sooner we start the better for the city."

Divorces First Wife After Winning Decree from No. 2

Circuit Judge Walter J. La Buy yesterday granted Samuel C. Bennett, 14907 Main street, Harvey, an uncontested divorce from Mrs. Clora Bennett on grounds of desertion. They were married in 1915 and she left him in 1923, he testified. Two years later, after he had been told that she had divorced him, he married Mrs. Mattie Bennett. He divorced the second wife in August, and in investigating the first marriage in connection with those proceedings his attorney, Norman Becker, discovered that the first Mrs. Bennett had never divorced him, he said.

Ford Beset with Labor Trouble.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The Ford Motor company, for years immune to labor troubles, was beset with them today from coast to coast, and faced a threat by striking employés of its eastern plants to come to Detroit in a motorcade and picket the company's giant River Rouge plant.

The report that the company, if the labor troubles continue, intends to close all its plants was denied, however, from an authoritative source. While the company adhered to its policy of not replying officially to rumors regarding its business, it was stated informally that no authorized official of the company had made the shutdown statement.

It was disclosed today that all but 33 of the 330 complaints filed to date with the NRA compliance board for the Detroit district had been directed at the Ford company. Members of the board said, however, that none of the complaints, probably, would qualify for forwarding to Washington for investigation there.

The majority of them come from Ford workmen, many claiming to be war veterans, asserting that they were laid off to make room for the 5,000 jobs which the company last week offered to veterans.

Threaten to Picket Plant.

The threat to picket the River Rouge plant came from strikers at the Ford assembly plants at Chester, Pa., and Edgewater, N. J. The Chester plant, where the strike started, is completely shut down. Production at Edgewater is greatly reduced. Chester workmen are picketing that plant.

The workmen are organizing a motorcade which will first strike at Ford plants at Green Island and Buffalo, N. Y., and Somerville and Cambridge, Mass., before turning west toward Detroit.

Employés of the Edgewater plant conferred today with members of the New Jersey NRA compliance committee and announced that they will submit their difficulties with the company to Washington.

This action followed the dismissal of 511 Edgewater workers who failed to report for work today. Their checks were mailed to them and the employment office was opened to hire substitutes.

MOOSE ARTICLE SAYS DAVIS ORIGINATED CHARITY BALL IDEA

New York, Sept. 29.—(AP)—An article in the Loyal Order of Moose magazine, saying that the charity ball in 1930 "originated in the mind" of Senator James J. Davis, was entered today in his trial on charges of violating federal lottery laws.

While the indictment against the Pennsylvania senator, the director general of the Moose, was based on the order's 1931 charity ball, Federal Judge Johnson J. Hayes allowed the account of the previous year's affair into evidence as a means of showing a motive for the alleged lottery violations in 1931.

Judge Hayes informed the jury that the article was not to be considered as substantive evidence but merely something which the defendant might be presumed to have read. Assistant United States Attorney Louis Treadwell introduced evidence designed to show Senator Davis exercised complete jurisdiction over the magazine.

P. A. Shanor, head of a New York Moose lodge, testified that the Moose-heart drawing, in January, 1932, was participated in by Knights of Columbus, Masonic and Elk chapters, in which Senator Davis holds no offices.

In Brandon's examination the chief defense counsel, Charles J. Margiotti, brought out Davis' senatorial activities in the fall of 1930, during the time of the charity affairs mentioned in the magazine.

The senator, Brandon testified, was engaged in the Nye investigation. This line of defense, Margiotti told the court, was to show that Davis' attention was drawn away from the Moose order.

FISH LOVER GETS MERMAID AND HIS WIFE A DIVORCE

The goldfish and guppies were bad enough, Mrs. Marie Janousek told Judge Rudolph F. Desort yesterday in the Superior court, but her husband, James, of 5433 South Lincoln street, passed the limit of her forbearance when he brought home a woman whom he introduced as his mermaid.

Judge Desort instructed her attorney, Victor Frohlich, to draw up a divorce decree for signature, allowing her $40 a month alimony. Mrs. Janousek charged cruelty.

She asserted that her husband, a traveling salesman, first brought ten tanks of goldfish home from one of his trips, and struck her when she remonstrated. They had a reconciliation, but shortly thereafter he bought twenty tanks of guppies, tropical fish, which he installed about their home, and then brought home the "mermaid."

LISTS 45 MILLION IN U. S. SUBSIDIES GIVEN SHIP LINES

Senator Says 23 Vessels Are Sold for Million.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—(AP)—A list of subsidies totaling $45,230,151 awarded the Export Steamship corporation during the Coolidge and Hoover administrations was placed in the record of the senate committee investigating ocean mail contracts today by Senator Black [Dem., Ala.], chairman.

Concluding the investigation into the first of fifty steamship lines that have ocean mail contracts, Senator Black, chairman of the committee, also put figures in the record to show the Export line bought 23 Shipping board vessels for $1,351,307 that had cost the government $42,114,117.

Line Owes U. S. $1,246,188.

E. V. Nevin of New York, treasurer of the Export corporation, under examination, said the line owed the government $1,246,188 and that it was indebted to the Central Hanover bank in New York and the Philadelphia National bank to the amount of $1,100,000. He said the New York Shipbuilding company, which was awarded the contract for the construction of four $2,000,000 ships, had guaranteed payment to the banks of $400,000 of the notes.

Questioned by Black, the witness testified the company was in a worse financial condition than in 1930 when, he said, former Secretary Lamont approved an extension of a loan to the line over the objections of legal and financial advisers of the Shipping board that Henry Herberman, president, had withdrawn funds from the treasury "illegally."

The line was awarded a mail contract by the postoffice department in 1928 which called for the payment by the department of $1,044,000 a year.

Names Some Subsidies.

Naming some of the subsidies, Black said under the ten year contract awarded in the previous administration the Export line would receive $18,397,000 in ocean mail subsidies; that the ships were sold to the company for $3,564,694 less than the world market value; that about $7,000,000 was loaned for construction of the four new ships, with $2,853,000 being granted as the difference in interest rates on the loans, and that the Shipping board paid $467,457 for insurance for the line's vessels.

In addition, Senator Black said, the Shipping board spent $1,351,000 in repairing ships sold to the Export corporation while, he added, the sale price was but $1,351,307.

Nevin said despite the depression the company was paying 50 per cent of its construction loan payments as they came due.

7,000 MORE YOUNG MEN WILL GET FORESTRY JOBS

Jobs in the "forest army," the Civilian Conservation corps, will be open some time next week to about 7,000 young men in Illinois, Michigan, and Ohio, it was announced yesterday by Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the Sixth Corps area.

The new men will take the places of present members of the corps who declined the opportunity to reënlist for another six months period. About three in every four of the corps members have reënlisted.

About 4,200 men are returning from the corps to civilian life in Illinois. The larger number of them have been working in national forests in the northwest. The first group was dismissed yesterday at Fort Sheridan.

CONSUMER GETS HEARING OCT. 9 ON FOOD CODE

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—How the consumer is to fare at the grocery store and meat market under the new deal is to be determined following hearings on the master code for the food industry which George Peek, agricultural adjustment administrator, announced today will begin Oct. 9.

Whether the code may be expected to establish fair competition and reasonable profits or to enable manufacturers and wholesalers, freed of anti-trust law restraint, to connive to mulct the consumer will be the major question at issue.

Authorizes Mark-ups.

The code, as submitted provides for government price fixing to the extent of authorizing an aggregate minimum mark-up of more than 10 per cent above producers' prices—2½ per cent to be added by wholesalers and 7½ per cent by retailers.

The disposition of this grocery and meat market code is likely to influence profoundly the formulation of the code for the entire retail trade which is hanging fire at the NRA. Consumers' objections to the retail code have been pretty effectually suppressed at the NRA but Mr. Peek has decreed that the consumers shall be given full opportunity to shoot at the food industry code.

"We are concerned primarily in establishing minimum prices to producers and maximum prices to consumers," he said.

Wholesale Provision.

The provision concerning wholesale markups reads:

"No wholesale grocer shall offer for sale or supply any merchandise at prices less than the prevailing market cost f. o. b. point for wholesale distribution, within 10 days prior to date of sale [which cost shall not take into consideration the cash discount which has been customarily received for prompt payment] plus a reasonable markup to at least partially cover expense of doing business. This mark up shall in no event be less than 2½ per cent net. Provided that any wholesale grocer may meet the price lawful under this code, or any other code under the aforesoid act of any other dealer at wholesale.

"The foregoing shall not apply on accommodation sales between dealers at wholesale, nor shall it apply to any sale made in closing out in good faith the owner's stock or any port thereof for the purpose of discontinuing his trade in any stock or commodity, or in disposing of seasonal or damaged goods and merchandise requiring immediate movement into consumption to prevent loss."

Retail Mark Up Section.

Following is the provision for retail mark ups:

"No retail grocery shall offer for sale any merchandise at or below its delivered cost to him within 10 days prior to date of sale, plus a reasonable mark up to at least partially cover expense of doing business, which shall in no event, be less than a minimum mark up of 7½ per cent."

Strong demand for the mark up provisions has come from some branches of the wholesale and retail grocery trades, while others are opposed. Those who favor the provisions maintain that they would eliminate the use of "loss leaders," which are held to be destructively competitive, and that they would bring about a more wholesome condition in the industry.

Economists and food distribution specialists in the agricultural adjustment administration who have studied these provisions are not convinced, however, that they would have the effect desired by the members of the trade, or that they would be workable and enforceable.

Fear for Small Merchants.

One possible result of these provisions which these experts foresee is the crowding out of many small independent merchants. They are inclined to believe that the minimum markup provided for would, in effect, become the maximum. Furthermore, large organizations which have the benefit of quantity buying would be able to undersell their small competitors and still keep within the provisions of the code, they point out.

The tendency would be for prices on staples which have a rapid turnover, such as sugar, flour, butter, canned milk, and others, to be increased to the consumer, they believe.

They regard the task of enforcement as so huge as to be almost impossible. An army of accountants and police officials would be required to check up on the dealings of each individual grocer, to make certain that he is not evading the provisions of the code by some indirect means, they contend.

Howe Makes Report.

Fred C. Howe, consumers' counsel, is one of the agricultural adjustment administration executives who opposed the markup provision. In a report to Administrator Peek, Dr. Howe said:

"The distributors of food and groceries appearing before the agricultural adjustment administration have stated that the total volume of their industry in 1932 was approximately 9 billion dollars. In that year the farmer received slightly more than 5 billion dollars for everything that he produced, including cotton, tobacco, and other commodities not covered by this industry. This suggests the spread which marketing involves, as it indicates how much it costs the farmer to market his produce.

"The industry is now demanding a fixed markup of approximately 10 per cent as a base figure on which to establish prices. This obviously makes an additional burden to the consumer. It makes an additional burden to the farmer, for the farmer is also a consumer. He consumes the very things he sells, and there are 40 million such farm consumers, or one-third of the population of the country.

"Quite obviously, this markup means an additional burden to the 80 million other consumers. Congress refused to fix the price of food on the farm, and it would be the height of absurdity for the agricultural adjustment administration to guarantee a markup to the processors such as they are demanding."

TESTS GOLD RULE

SISTERS OF SLAIN WOMAN TESTIFY FOR THE KILLER

Husband on Trial for Murder of Wife.

Two women took the witness stand in Judge Donald S. McKinlay's court yesterday and testified in defense of the man who shot and killed their sister, Mrs. Myrtle Luetz. The defendant is Otto Luetz, an embalmer, who is on trial for the murder of his wife in a family quarrel in their home at 3400 North Irving avenue on April 18.

The witnesses were Mrs. Alice Porch of Aurora and Mrs. Mamie Tripp of Earlville, Ill. Called to the witness stand by Defense Attorney James M. Burke, Mrs. Porch said that she had known Luetz for 16 years.

"What was his reputation?" the attorney asked.

Reputation Good, She Says.

"He had a very splendid reputation," the witness answered.

Q.—How did he treat his wife? A.—With the utmost respect, I would say he was a splendid husband.

Q.—Do you bear Mr. Luetz any ill will since he shot your sister? A.—No. I am still friendly with Otto.

Mrs. Tripp followed her sister to the stand and also testified that Luetz had an excellent reputation.

"He was a devoted husband and father," she told the jury.

The two sisters were followed to the stand by Mrs. Jeannette Koch, 7026 Overhill avenue, who said she had bee nthe closest friend of the dead woman. She testified that Luetz was a "most devoted husband."

Daughter to Testify.

Attorney Burke said yesterday that he would call Luetz' daughter, Doris, 14 years old, to testify in behalf of her father today. He also said that he planned to produce medical testimony that Luetz had been drinking for three weeks before the shooting and did not know what he was doing.

Policemen had testified for the state that they were called to the Luetz home on the night of the shooting and found Luetz and his daughter at the door. Luetz tried to keep them from entering, they said, with the remark that "he had not called the police."

"I called the police," they quoted Doris as saying, "I shot mama." The policemen said they took Luetz to the station where he confessed that he had shot his wife.

SALLY, EX-BOSS DROP MUTUAL ASSAULT CASE

Sally Rand, fan dancer, and Sam Balkin, manager of the Paramount club at 16 East Huron street, dropped their complaints of assault and battery against each other yesterday before Judge Erwin J. Hasten in the Woman's court. Judge Hasten dismissed the complaints, which arose from a dispute over Sally's wages at the club.

Charges of resisting a policeman against Harold Rand, Sally's brother; Mattie Wheeler, her colored maid, and Edwin Gall, an actor, resulting from their attempt to block the arrest of the fan dancer at a loop theater, were continued to Oct. 18. Sally is appealing a sentence of one year in the House of Correction and a fine of $200 imposed by Judge Joseph H. McGarry after she had been found guilty of performing an indecent dance by a jury in the Municipal court.

Rosita Carmen, 22 years old, of 102 East Chestnut street, another fan dancer in Judge Hasten's court on a charge of indecent exposure, received a postponement of her case until Oct. 13. She had been arrested recently while dancing in a night club at 4737 Broadway.

Mrs. William J. McCauley Is Granted a Divorce

Mrs. Adelaide Smith McCauley, 942 Michigan avenue, Evanston, was granted an uncontested divorce yesterday by Circuit Judge Walter J. La Buy from William J. McCauley, former advertising manager of Montgomery Ward & Co. She charged that he slapped her in the presence of company on one occasion and on another struck her with a glass candelabrum. She was granted $100 a month alimony and the custody of two children, Betty, 15 years old, and Jean, 8.

FAR WEST GETS 20 MILLION MORE U. S. EASY MONEY

$6,000 to Chicago Area Out of $3,500,000 Total

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The far west, recipient of many millions of the public works easy money, was given another handsome present today, when Secretary Ickes announced an allotment of 20 million for building a dam and power plant at Bonneville, Ore.

Other grants announced today totaled $3,529,100, of which Illinois drew, as is almost always the case, zero. The five Chicagoland states came away with one allotment—a grant of $6,000 for building a storm sewer in Tama, Ia.

While the first allotment on the dam at Bonneville is $20,000,000, before the work is done Uncle Sam will have poured $31,000,000 of general tax funds into the project, it was stated.

Doubtful as "Relief."

That the work cannot be classified strictly as a public works relief measure was indicated in a previous allotment, made just six days ago, by which $250,000 was appropriated to the war department engineers for completing a study to determine "whether a suitable dam can be built at Bonneville without serious construction difficulties and whether sufficient power and navigation facilities can be developed."

At the time of this announcement the total cost of the project was estimated by the public works department at $43,900,000.

Since the actual construction giving employment to idle men as the public works act intended, cannot begin until the engineers have decided whether the project is feasible, it is doubted that work will commence before a year. Prospects are it will be several years before the dam is completed.

Criticized for "Inaction."

The public works administration has come under criticism from those who shouted for public works expenditures action. A number of other projects, particularly in California and the northwest, and in New York, have been authorized on which work cannot be completed during several years. To date the public works administration, although having allotted more than half of the 3 billion 300 million dollars, has drawn only $65,000,000 in actual cash from the treasury.

The states of Oregon and Washington will profit also by Secretary Ickes' allotment of 63 million for building the Grand Coulee dam, also on the Columbia river.

The other allotments to day included $1,290,000 for a housing project in Philadelphia; $44,000 for insect control in California, Montana and Wyoming; $1,650,000 for a toll bridge across the Missouri river between Council Bluffs, Ia., and South Omaha, Neb., and $545,100 for various projects in ten other states.

ILLINOIS BEGINS FEDERALAIDROAD PROGRAM OCT. 16

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Illinois' initial step in the construction of federal aid road work under the national recovery act is to be taken Monday Oct. 16, with the award of contracts for the first seven highway projects, it was announced today by Gov. Henry Horner, after a conference with Chief Highway Engineer Ernst Lieberman.

Gov. Horner further announced that plans for a number of major projects in the state NRA highway program were either before the U. S. bureau of public roads for approval, or were in transit. Additional plans are being completed daily, and over 10 per cent of the state's program will have been included in the first two lettings, on Oct. 16 and Oct. 24.

Following these lettings awards will be made at approximately ten day intervals throughout the year and into 1934. The first projects to be awarded will be railroad grade separations and other structures which can be worked on during the winter and thus afford the greatest immediate relief.

BIGAMIST FOUND GUILTY; GETS 1 TO 5 YEAR SENTENCE

Harry J. Austin, 21 years old, 5728 North Austin avenue, was sentenced to one to five years in the penitentiary yesterday following his conviction of bigamy before Judge Michael L. McKinley in the county building branch of the Criminal court.

Austin, under the name of William A. Schmoldt, married Mrs. Clara B. Schmoldt in November, 1931. She now has a child six months old. Last May, she testified before Judge McKinley, her husband told her that he had to go to Washington "for an important conference."

A few days later she saw him cutting hair in a barber shop, and followed him to an apartment at 721 Melrose street, where she found him living with another wife, Mrs. Mildred Johnson Austin. Mrs. Austin said that he married her May 5 after they had met in a dance hall.

Michigan Brewers Warned by State to Cut Prices

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Michigan breweries must reduce their prices by Oct. 2 or a minimum price will be placed on beer produced in the state, according to an ultimatum issued today by the state liquor control commission. William G. Lewis, executive secretary of the commission, said there will be no effort to fix prices on beer imported from other states, but it is anticipated that competition from Michigan brewers will automatically force outside rivals to adjust their prices also.

CHICAGO AS A FINANCIAL CENTER.

An invitation to list their securities on Chicago exchanges has been sent to 52 important corporations doing business in the central states. A long look ahead will justify acceptance. A growth in the stock and bond market here will stimulate a wider distribution of securities in this area and serve, therefore, as a stimulant to sales of the things the listed corporations have to sell. The shifting of a substantial share of the securities business to Chicago must result, also, in an enhancement of the city's position as a financial center and accordingly increase the facilities of Chicago for serving the financial needs of enterprises throughout the central valleys.

The effort to increase the business of our exchanges is, of course, part of a larger effort to raise Chicago's standing as a money and investment market. Chicago ought, for example, to be one of the most important insurance centers in the world. If it is not, the reasons should be ascertained and the faults, if any, corrected.

There are many sound reasons why Chicago should be the financial capital of the United States. For one thing, the city is secure from invasion. For another, it is directly in contact with the sources of the nation's wealth. Financial markets established here should be less subject to false rumor and hysteria.

INDIANA POLITICS IN THE PRISONS.

The prison break at Michigan City brings the criticism that Gov. McNutt demoralized the penitentiary staff by firing the old and experienced guards because they were Republicans and filling their places with inexperienced men because they were Democrats. The criticism is political and comes from Gov. McNutt's opponents, but that does not take away its sting or prove it false. Mr. McNutt is not one of the most sagacious governors Indiana has had, nor has he displayed any particular consideration for public service. He is a magnetic glad-hander, but undistinguished for any acts of executive wisdom or even good purpose.

Institution appointments below the rank of superintendent are not prized in politics, either for the pay or the conditions of employment. A man seeking a chance to gain something by a crooked act might want a place which would give him opportunity, but it requires careful selection to get honest, competent men, and it requires discipline and good administration to keep the employés up to standard. When politics makes a holiday of the pay roll in a penitentiary, the way is being prepared for prison disorders and outbreaks. The whole region around Michigan City has suffered from the negligence which permitted these tough criminals to break out and Gov. McNutt will have to answer the criticism which attaches responsibility to him, even if the criticism comes from his political opponents.

QUEER STREET FOR THE BUSES.

The Illinois commerce commission has issued an order, a wholly unexpected one so far as the public is concerned, stipulating that bus speed shall be limited to 10 miles in business districts, 15 miles in residential streets, and not more than 20 anywhere within city limits or 25 on country highways. The purpose of the order is at least not self-evident and is apparently not candid. Any reason which can be assumed in public interest becomes ridiculous when it is examined.

Highway safety is not promoted, because if a bus were restricted to the required speed it would become even more of a highway nuisance and would compel every other driver to pass it. Each bus would be in effect a dead obstacle on the road, contributing to the delay, annoyance and insecurity of all other traffic.

It is not the duty of the Illinois commerce commission to destroy bus transportation and make operation and public use of it impossible and yet that would be the probable consequence of the enforcement of such a rule. The order does not indicate in what interest it was issued, and certainly no public interest appears of itself. Competing lines of transportation might find the new rules profitable to them in that they drove all the passengers away from the bus lines. Representatives of the companies say that this would be the only effect. The rule is not one of regulation but of extinction, and its purposes need considerable explanation.

AFTER REPEAL.

One of the Idaho drys, complaining that the state had been rushed over to the repeal side by high pressure political work, predicted that as soon as the people had returned to their normal poise Idaho would go back to its prohibition principles. This complaint that undue political pressure, presumably from Washington, and the mood of abnormal times both work to the disadvantage of prohibition has been made in many of the states, now numbering thirty-one for repeal. It is also a common prediction that there will soon be a reaction against the recklessness of the sentiment against the 18th amendment.

With five more states voting for repeal national prohibition will be out of the constitution, but the defeated drys in the various states should realize that the only thing determined by the repeal is that the United States as a government shall not interfere with the states themselves in whatever measures each state may decide to adopt for control of alcoholic beverages. If Idaho is a dry state by conviction and sentiment, expressed by majorities, Idaho will have prohibition laws and certainly no other state will either object or interfere. The same is true of Maine, Washington, Texas, Michigan, etc. The states which were prohibition before the Volstead act have no strings attached to them when the Volstead act no longer is effective.

Even with the repeal of the 18th amendment, prohibitionists have all the consolation they should desire to seek. There are forty-eight states and certainly the enforcement of prohibition in any one of them is all that any prohibitionist should require for satisfaction in a life's work. What is being ended is the unfortunate régime in which Idaho and Kansas and others tried to tell New York, Illinois, and others what their people should do, whether their people would tolerate it or not. With the repeal of the 18th amendment no sane or conservative regulation or prohibition of liquor is impeded, but reason and practical working are put back in the theory of legislation and control.

MR. MALOY'S SNUG HARBOR.

Another affair of muscle at the headquarters of the moving picture operators' union seems to have been thoroughly misunderstood. The operator who went there to complain that his pay was being nicked out of all reason by one of the collectors was not slugged by a gentleman using the butt end of a pistol. He was merely patted on the back by way of encouragement and asked to keep on seeing the beauties of Mr. Maloy's régime as business agent. Mr. Maloy's headquarters are all sweetness and light.

An informed citizen, writing to the Voice of the People, says that an explanation of Mr. Maloy's notable reputation for the humanities, as exposed in numerous episodes with the police and in court, could be found in the well wired political connections of his firm of lawyers, who specialize in Democratic ward committeemen. That could be a foundation for a reputation for charity, humanity, and good works.

Thus a bomb dropped in the entrance of a theater is nothing more harmful than Christmas greetings and kisses. A stink bomb in the aisles of a theater is mistaken by the patrons. It was a whiff of perfume to sweeten the theater. The operator who seems to have been killed when he called at the headquarters died of a weak heart in the arms of kindness. Some one tried to pin a rose on him; it turned out to be a lily.

Mr. Maloy and his associates might have been misunderstood in the community, so persistent has been malicious rumor regarding them, if it were not that virtue will always raise its shining face, even above the cloud of deceitful appearances. Mr. Maloy is filled with the spirit of the times. He constantly does his part.

CITY TRANSPORTATION BY RAILROAD.

The city of New York is to get rid of its surface street car lines within a year and a half under present plans. Point-to-point traffic will be handled by two bus systems, one running longitudinally and the other "cross-town." The streets in the congested area downtown will be free for motor traffic—certainly a highly desirable condition.

Buses could readily take care of the point-to-point traffic on Chicago streets, thus opening arteries from the loop to all parts of the city for motor traffic now closed because of the congestion of street cars, parked automobiles, and standing trucks. But New York has a fairly complete system of rapid transit through its subways to carry its workers from out of town districts to Manhattan Island, while Chicago has a single comparable transportation artery, the Illinois Central. If the city is to progress other arteries extending to the southwest, the west, the northwest and the north must be devised. Subways have been a dream for a generation, but nothing has been accomplished.

Under present circumstances relief is possible through greater use of the railway lines. Electrification work should be started at once to make the service of the C. & N. W. and other lines comparable to that of the Illinois Central. Money is being offered by the government for self-liquidating projects. Why not proceed at once?

Editorial of the Day

[Birmingham Age-Herald.]

President Roosevelt has made it plain that he does not object to criticism, but one gathers that he has not been able to impress that point of view on all his subordinates. Dick Thompson, editor of the Tallassee Tribune, for example, has just gone through an unhappy experience with a representative of the department of labor. The Tribune had spoken out against the unionization of a cotton mill in its community. Its editor was thereupon threatened by the federal agent, named Dunnegan, who held that the Tribune has violated the provisions of the NRA, forbade any further publications of such opinions, and indicated that the United States attorney at Montgomery might be called on for action. Mr. Thompson's resentment was expressed in an editorial, part of which runs as follows:

"No bureaucratic appointee can, with authority, tell any newspaper editor, from the biggest daily paper down to the smallest weekly paper, that which he can say and that which he cannot say. Mr. Dunnegan came to Tallassee as a representative of the United States department of labor, and his actions here are understood by this paper to be official actions, backed up by the department which he represents. We say that the United States constitution has not been changed and that it is more important than the empty threats of Mr. Dunnegan. . . . The editor of this paper will express his views and opinions through this paper as long as the constitution of the United States grants a free press and a free speech. . . . Now, Mr. Dunnegan, it is your move."

The position taken by the Tribune is so impregnable that one understands why the Montgomery Advertiser should say, "There is not a respectable newspaper in this country which will not applaud its declaration of principle and purpose, however sharply many newspapers may disagree as to whether the Tallassee mills should be unionized. But something even dearer than unionism is being involved. The last refuge of human dignity in this country is in the principle that conscience must be free."

JOSEPH V. McKEE, who was mayor of New York for a few months after Jimmie Walker faded from the picture, bobbed up yesterday as a candidate again. "I now dedicate myself to the service of the voters of this city who want bossism, both Democrat and Republican, ended for all time; who want honesty and intelligence to replace corruption in public office and who want the city's credit restored." Hey, Joe, you left out "I will have crime on the run within three days" and "Shoulder to shoulder we will march forward to a glorious victory." You ought not to have left those two things out, Joe. They're always relied on as sure fire stuff.

A KIND HEARTED Chicago motorist stopped his car and graciously took in two lady hitch hikers. They sat on the back seat and afterwards they placed what he thought were razors (he didn't look around to see) against his neck and said they would carve his heart out if he didn't dig up, so he handed over twenty-three dollars. Lady hitch hikers should never employ the term "dig up" as meaning a forced contribution. Mr. Webster says that "to dig up" means to discover as if by digging out something buried. A kind hearted motorist's money is not buried deep in the ground; oh, no, he has it in his pants pocket, and hence "dig up" does not apply in asking him for his gold. Lady bandits should endeavor to be more careful in their speech. Good English is one of the first attributes of a perfect lady.

BUT WHAT ABOUT the free lunch? In all the plans that are being made for the return of likker we haven't heard one word about the free lunch that used to be such an important thing in the days gone by. At the free lunch table you could pick up a long fork that looked like a whaling harpoon and you could reach around and spear potatoes, Bologna sausage, sardines, pickles, cabbage, cheese, hard boiled eggs, and all sorts of things. And all you had to do to get the privilege was to buy a five cent glass of beer. And you could stand there with your harpoon and stab it into things to eat until the bartender said, "Hey, youse! How much grub you think you're goin' to get fer five cents?" This was a subtle hint for you to buy another glass of beer or put down the harpoon. And often you got a bowl of soup, turtle, tomato, beef, chicken or whatnot, with your glass of beer. Welcome back beer and the rest of it, but what about the free lunch? Jumping cats! free lunch is a more important thing today than it was in the long ago. Oh, much more so, much more.

SYSTOLIC HEART MURMUR.

HUNDREDS of inquiries come from persons who have been told they have systolic heart murmurs. They want to know what that means.

It has not been many years since physicians were telling their patients a systolic heart murmur means trouble—if not present, then around the corner. In more recent years they have followed a different policy. Perhaps the majority of people who have such murmurs and have asked their physicians about them have been told they were of no importance. We are now in the third stage. The pendulum having swung to both extremes, it now stays for a while in a position about midway between the other two.

A heart murmur is an unnatural sound made by the blood passing through the gates between the heart cavities. A systolic murmur is a soft blowing sound heard at a certain stage of the heart beat. It is heard best on the left side about the fifth rib, and some four inches from the breastbone.

The murmur is caused by blood leaking back through the closed mitral valve. It is caused by a stiffening, scarring, or narrowing of the valve itself, and by an acute inflammation of the valve. When these are the causes of the murmur the warning of trouble is justified. But in addition it is caused by anemia of various kinds, by nervous heart, and by tobacco heart. When any one of this group is responsible the possibility of serious trouble is far less. Possibly some people have systolic heart murmur who have nothing wrong with them, who are in good health, and who have a good chance of remaining so for many years.

In spite of this a systolic murmur is not to be dismissed as of no consequence. As a symptom it is of great importance in acute rheumatic fever. In that disease the heart should be examined at frequent intervals. To do so is quite as necessary as taking the temperature, counting the pulse, and examining the inflamed joint. A systolic murmur heard in the course of an attack of acute articular rheumatism usually means that the heart is involved.

When such a murmur is heard in a person who is apparently well and is free from other symptoms, the case should be studied. Furthermore, there should be periodic health examinations for a few years, at least. In other words, the symptom, systolic murmur, may precede other symptoms by several years. An opinion based on an examination or on several examinations all made within a few weeks may lead to error. Observation over a longer period may show that the symptom was due to an anemia which was cured by iron or other blood tonics, or to thyroid poisoning, or tobacco poisoning, or to some other controllable cause. Or it may mean some condition of the heart which promised to get worse in time. In that case some change in habits might at least postpone the onset of other symptoms for years.

CONSULT A PHYSICIAN.

Mrs. E. J. writes: My 6 year old daughter weighs only 33 pounds. She is skinny and has lumps back of her ears. She eats well. Has she mastoid trouble? What should I do?

REPLY.

The lumps are not caused by an infected mastoid. Her low weight indicates that she has some important disorder. Have a physician find out what it is.

BAD BREATH.

H. S. writes: I have a coating on my tongue which causes me to have bad breath. Could you suggest a remedy?

REPLY.

A heavily coated tongue is one cause of bad breath, though not an important one. The coat can be scraped off with fair success. Use the back of a table knife for the purpose. Chewing gum has value as a tongue cleaning procedure.

A coated tongue is caused by constipation. It is made foul by sleeping with the mouth open. Overcome the first by diet and by training in regularity; the second, by sleeping on the side and by keeping the mouth closed.

OWNER USES FOR STORAGE.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—[Friend of the People.]—Next door is an empty lot owned by some baker. This lot is all filled with bricks and it's nothing but a rat harbor. I have a boy of two and it is very dangerous to let him play on the porch, for the rats come right up on our porch. Could the owner be compelled to put the bricks somewhere else? M. M.

Report is made that vacant lot has a large pile of common brick about 30 feet east of the alley line. There is no objectionable refuse of any kind on lot. Owner is privileged to use lot for storing this brick if he so desires. We regret that there is nothing we can do.

PROBATE PROCEEDINGS.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Would it be necessary to probate a will in Cook county under the following conditions: A man dies who made a will seven years ago in which a large bank was named executor. At that time the man was wealthy. He owned valuable real estate, had a substantial bank account, had a large number of listed bonds and several brokerage accounts. Since that time everything has been wiped out. No doubt the bank would now decline to act. Would the widow have to go to the expense of employing an attorney and incur expense of probate? L. F. H.

If both the bank and the widow prefer not to probate, then it seems probable that probate proceedings could be dispensed with. We assume that there is no real estate and that the widow can obtain possession of the assets.

NOT PERMITED.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Could I use the name of "Red Cross Shoe Repair Shop" for my place of business, or must a permit be secured from the Red Cross association? Is a state permit necessary? R. C.

Section 4 of Title 36 of the United States code is in part as follows: "It shall be unlawful for any person . . . for any business or charitable purpose to use . . . the emblem of the Greek red cross on a white ground, or any sign or insignia made or colored in imitation thereof or of the words 'Red Cross.'"

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FRIEND OF THE FARMER

[Inquiries on farm management, financing or governmental regulations addressed to this department must be accompanied by stamped, addressed envelope for reply.]

J. K. asks: I have an opportunity to buy a farm, but because of unemployment lack enough for the entire purchase price. [A] How much can be borrowed from the government? [B] What is length of time given for return of such loans? [C] Where must one write or go to make a loan?

Answer—[A] The federal land banks loan up to $50,000 on first mortgages, up to half the appraised value of the farm and one-fifth the value of buildings. [B] For as long as forty years, at 5 per cent; in most cases, shorter maturity period. [C] To the agent of the farm credit administration in St. Louis, for Illinois land, or to St. Paul for Wisconsin land.

Mrs. R. L. H. asks: What are the pre-war prices on wheat, corn and oats that they talk about fixing for farmers, and how are they fixed?

Answer—The agricultural adjustment act seeks to legalize means by which the secretary of agriculture can raise basic farm crop prices to a level that will enable the farmer to buy the items he requires on the same relationship as he enjoyed in the pre-war period, 1909-'14. On this basis, the farmer would be paid about $1.08 a bushel for wheat and other prices in proportion. The administration is seeking to reach these levels, but thus far any rise in farm prices has been offset by rises in costs of things farmers buy.

P. T. asks: Is this a good time to buy a supply of apples and potatoes to store for use during the winter?

Answer—As a general rule the most plentiful supplies and lowest prices on these crops come shortly after frosts. There is likelihood of somewhat lower prices on these commodities in the next two weeks.

NRA Question Box

Following are typical questions occasioned by the national recovery act and their answers, as given by Paul Kunning, secretary of the Chicago Recovery council, which is aiding President Roosevelt's economic rehabilitation movement here. Other questions and their answers will be given daily.

Question—I am a clerk in a store. Before the NRA went into effect I worked on a commission basis. When the owner signed up under the Blue Eagle he gave me a minimum guarantee, but recently he discontinued this. Is this a violation?

Answer—Since the retail code has not yet been signed by the President you come under the President's reemployment agreement which your employer signed in order to fly the Blue Eagle. The ruling is as follows: "Clerks solely on a commission basis do not come under the provisions of the PRA as to hours and wages provided they were so employed prior to June 16, 1933." If your commission arrangement was in force before that date your employer is correct.

Question—What are the hours for gas station attendants?

Answer—Under substitute provisions of the oil code, attendants at gas stations are permitted to work 48 hours a week.

Question—I work in a garage as a mechanic. Should we be paid on a basis of actual time spent in productive work or according to the number of hours spent on duty in the garage?

Answer—Under the President's reemployment agreement you are entitled to be paid on the basis of number of hours spent on duty, although such hours may be considerably longer than those in which you are actually engaged in work.

COMMUNISTS AS RELIEF WORKERS.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—The communist party and its affiliated organizations have tried to sabotage relief work. They have terrorized relief workers, aroused discontent among relief clients, and interrupted the orderly handling of relief work. They have sought to increase the relief burden by encouraging people not in need of relief to apply for it, by fighting all self-help programs, and by persuading clients not to seek reëmployment.

This program of sabotage has been carried out in the belief that if the cost of relief could be sufficiently increased our financially embarrassed governments would break down and the starving unemployed would revolt, thereby bringing about the millennium. The communists have made no secret of this program; it has been broadcast by every means at their disposal.

Since this program is more or less common knowledge, I am at a loss to understand how the tax supported relief agencies justify the hiring and continued employment of persons known to be active in communist organizations. Believers in communism as case workers are in a particularly advantageous position to forward the work of sabotage.

A considerable number of persons active in communist organizations are employed by the tax supported relief agencies. My own acquaintance includes six employés of relief agencies. Four of these are exceedingly active as communists. I do not believe that two-thirds of all case workers are communists, but I am certain that I do not know all communists who are case workers. Police records should provide some information as to the number of public relief employés who have been arrested for communist activities.

I do not believe these people hold their positions through political influence. They have either been hired because they were communists or the persons in charge of hiring them have been negligent.

When persons possessing no particular training for relief work, having unsavory previous records as employés and citizens, and who in the pursuit of communist activities become sufficiently obnoxious to necessitate arrest, are hired and retained as case workers, one cannot help wondering what standards, if any, are used in judging relief employés and what action, if any, is being taken by the persons responsible to remedy what appears to be criminal negligence in selecting employés. A TAXPAYER.

THE FUTURE OF THE SALOON.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Representatives of the hotel owners and tavern owners, two groups that were largely responsible for the "noble experiment," testified before the liquor control commission that hard liquor should be sold over the bar. To put the thought in other words, the people who were responsible for the old saloon now want the old saloon back so prohibition will come back. What swell thinking greed provokes.

THANK YOU.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Every member of congress and every voter should read today's editorial "Republican Opposition in the Next Session" and reflect on it. If congress and citizens are to abdicate their rights and duties we shall soon be living in a Russianized America.

Such editorials confirm me in an opinion—long held—that two cents spent for THE TRIBUNE is the world's premier investment. HENRY S. HENSCHEN.

FROM THE PRESIDENT OF THE AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION.

Wichita, Kas., Sept. 25.—The editorials, "A Jeffersonian Speaks Out" and "Our Neglected Civil Liberties," in my humble opinion, make your Sept. 4 issue a noteworthy contribution to the cause of American citizenship for which I am profoundly thankful.

We just must find some means now, before it is too late, to effectively promote the type of citizenship that our form of government and constitution provides. That, it seems to me, is just what you are doing by means of these editorials, and I sincerely hope that the efforts of the American Bar association in that regard may merit your approval.

EARLE W. EVANS.

PARADOX.

Pontiac, Ill., Sept. 26.—Via THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE we are informed that the United States Conference of Mayors declared that there was more than a possibility of starvation in all sections of America this coming winter, but that they were strong for the presidential program.

Mr. Wallace, a presidential hired man, tells the people that what is the matter with them is that they have too much to wear and to eat, and the only cure for their present and more than probable future plight is to destroy 50 per cent of cotton, millions of swine, and decrease future production of clothing and foodstuffs by at least one-third.

Mr. Harry Hopkins, another presidential hired man, declares that "it is perfectly indefensible to have milk poured into ditches and to allow fruit and other agricultural products to rot on the ground because there is a lower price level than the producer cares to sell for."

As the declarations of both Mr. Wallace and Mr. Hopkins may be regarded as that of their employer, we wonder how the wise guys of the Conference of Mayors determined what is the President's program for recovery in which they expressed their faith. F. V.

BELLS FOR INDIANS.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—In F. A. Belsey's article in the Voice of the People he states that the majority of the Indians in their village at A Century of Progress are wearing bells on their ankles and around their knees, and that he was not aware Indians in their native element were so well acquainted with bells of modern type.

If Mr. Belsey would take the time to drop down to the Chicago Historical society he would find Columbus brought bells of the modern type over to this country in or around the year 1492 and gave them to the Indians as gifts.

GENEVA AWAITS 'SERIOUS' ARMS OFFER BY HITLER

Showdown Scheduled for Next Week.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 29.—That real progress has been made toward the adoption of a disarmament convention, but that that convention—unless negotiations take a new trend—will be very different from what the world is hoping for, was confirmed today by an authoritative witness to the disarmament drama now going on here.

On the optimistic side, those really in the know are able to reveal that the Franco-German deadlock is only apparent and that despite some pessimistic rumors, Foreign Minister Baron Konstantin von Neurath, who left for Berlin today, is coming back next week to submit a serious offer from Chancellor Hitler's government. The present pause in negotiations may really prove decisive.

Showdown Due Next Week.

During this breathing spell the Germans will thresh out among themselves what is the irreducible minimum of rearmament they will accept as a bribe for signing a disarmament convention. At the same time the French, through a conversation between Premier Daladier and Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain at Beauvais, France, next Sunday, will have a showdown on the issue of security. Thus, when the various foreign ministers reassemble here about the middle of next week, they may be ready to talk turkey.

But while all this justifies continued, if restrained, optimism in an eventual accord being reached here, the following points illustrate the true nature of the accord:

FIRST—All the statesmen gathered here are convinced that their labors will not prevent another war and that the best hope is to keep that war from getting out of hand when it does occur and in the meantime to alleviate the universal burden of taxation caused by the armaments race.

Abandon Wilsonian Ideal.

SECOND — The European powers seem to have abandoned the Wilsonian ideal of universal coöperation to return to the traditional old world conception of organization of peace by balancing alliances and dividing spheres of influence—theories of Metternich in the days of the Holy Alliance. While the American delegation is strenuously opposing these principles, which find expression in the Mussolini four power pact, they are obliged to admit that the Europeans are incorrigible in a tendency to gang up on each other. Consequently, it is feared that if there is any convention at all it will have to take into account a division of Europe into evenly balanced and hostile blocs.

THIRD — All powers except the French are agreed the Germans should be allowed to increase armaments along "defensive lines" — meaning pursuit planes, anti-aircraft guns, possibly light tanks, and some artillery. The French apparently are going to be forced to accept a measure of German rearmament in return for a measure of security.

Demand Right to Declare War.

FOURTH—The only form of sanction for violation of the disarmament convention now envisaged is the age old one of a menaced power declaring war on the violator of agreements. This right is all the French hope to get, but they are insistent upon this.

FIFTH—No real attempt to solve the problem of naval armaments will be made in this first convention.

SIXTH—One of the leading military powers, Japan, refuses to take any part in the discussions and reserves the right to accept or reject the convention as a whole. According to those familiar with Japanese policy, the Nipponese are unwilling to envisage any disarmament at this moment.

Britain and France Clash.

The issue of security was prominent in lobby conversations today. The French desire now to see included in the disarmament convention a clause declaring that any flagrant violation of the convention would be considered an act of aggression toward all the other signatories and that these, accordingly, would be able to take any defensive measures they saw fit without violating the league covenant and the Kellogg pact. The British are opposed to such sweeping terms and the French are due to have a battle.

Likewise, the French desire reaffirmation of the Locarno obligations by some similar undertaking which will guarantee frontiers and the demilitarized zone of the Rhineland.

Young Dutchman Confesses Setting Reichstag on Fire

LEIPZIG, Sept. 29.—Marinus van der Lubbe, pyromaniacal enigma of the Leipzig treason trial, put his neck in the hands of the axman today. He confessed before the German Supreme court that on the night of Feb. 27 he flung 27 firebrands into the German reichstag building, thereby helping precipitate the greatest political upheaval in recent German history.

The confession, read by the presiding judge and affirmed by Van der Lubbe with his usual monosyllables, marked the climax so far of the trial conducted by a judge with the dramatic instincts of a serial novelist. Tense silence reigned in the courtroom, and the other four defendants leaned forward with strained faces as the judge, Dr. Wilhelm Buenger, put this question:

"Do you confess that you are guilty of setting the fire in the reichstag building?"

Question Is Repeated.

Van der Lubbe, standing before the court, merely kept his head bowed and said nothing.

"Did you set fire to the reichstag building?" the judge repeated, eliminating the world guilt.

"Yes," Van der Lubbe replied in a loud and clear voice.

"I had no intention of committing the act when I awoke that day," the accused continued. "The idea came to me as I walked past the reichstag at 3 o'clock. I spent the afternoon in a suburb, returning to the city at 8 o'clock."

After Van der Lubbe's brief admission of guilt he relapsed into apathy to such an extent the judge gave up the attempt to make him repeat his confession orally as had been promised. He left the detailed story of Van der Lubbe's part in the fire as reconstructed from his many previous statements at the scene of the crime.

Trace Course of Dutchman.

Large maps which hung in the courtroom illustrated the course of the alleged incendiary maniac. At the end of the reading of the confession the judge asked whether the defendant had understood everything. Van der Lubbe again kept silence, but the interpreter testified that the defendant had followed the description carefully and had asked that some of the more difficult expressions be translated to him in Dutch.

Thereupon the judge asked again: "Is there anything in what I have read that you object to? Does it correspond to what you testified to before?"

Again Van der Lubbe replied, "Yes."

"Then, is that to which you testified before correct?"

Van der Lubbe said, "Yes."

The confession traced in great detail the entire course the 24 year old bricklayer had taken in the mad fifteen to twenty minutes that he was in the building dropping kindling coal about him, lighting curtains and table cloths and finally tearing up his own clothes to make firebrands of them until caught before a locked door.

Observers Still Quizzical.

Nevertheless, when the confession had been finished and the court adjourned the question still remained in everybody's mind.

"Who burned the German reichstag building?"

For from the testimony itself, interspersed with remarks by the judge of the actual results of Van der Lubbe's activities, it had become apparent that his work was as amateurish as in the three previous cases of arson he attempted.

Moreover, to observers it is now certain that the actual fire did not really get under way till some time after Van der Lubbe was already being quizzed by the police.

Sentence Reds as Traitors.

LEIPZIG, Germany, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Four young communists of Kettwig were sentenced in Supreme court today to penitentiary sentences of 18 to 36 months for preparing high treason and breaking the explosives law.

Thy were convicted of receiving expert training in bomb-making and throwing on the information supplied by persons they had attempted to enlist as members of the Red front.

PRUSSIA SEEKS TO PUNISH GERMANS WHO WED JEWS

Brands Such Unions as Treason Against Race.

BERLIN, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Marrying a non-Aryan will be punishable by law if a proposal made today by the Prussian ministry of justice prevails.

"The principle of the past egotistic age to the effect that everybody who wears a human face is equal destroys the race and, thereby, the ability of a people to live," a ministry official said.

On this basis he declared that no "Jew, Negro, or other colored person may mingle with German blood."

Admixture of Germans with non-Aryans would constitute treason against the race, according to this official's view, as would dancing with a Negro in a public place. Should Germans marry non-Aryans despite this pronouncement, such marriages may be annulled, the ministry official said.

Berlin Protests Expulsion.

BERLIN, Sept. 29.—The German foreign office today dispatched a strong note to the soviet embassy concerning the expulsion of German correspondents from Moscow. The protest said the expulsion was a "reprisal which heavily burdens the amicable relations of both countries for which the soviets are solely responsible."

The Berlin government also protested against the "strong attacks on German people, the German government, and leading statesmen" by Russian correspondents in Germany. Moscow ordered German correspondents to leave the soviet capital after two Russian reporters had been expelled from Leipzig, where they were covering the reichstag arson trial.

Tomorrow has been set as the deadline for the departure of both the Russian and German correspondents from Berlin and Moscow.

Asks League to Aid Jews.

GENEVA, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The suggestion that the Jewish question be referred by the league of nations assembly to a committee for discussion was broached today by a Swedish delegate, Richard Sandler, who insisted the league should stand for the equality of men.

A resolution asking the formation of plans for the assistance of refugees, but not mentioning Jews by name, was introduced by Dr. A. de Graeff, Dutch foreign minister. The Dutchman, intentionally refraining from using the word Jews, said the refugees had become an economic and financial problem which can be solved only through international coöperation.

Reports to the assembly revealed that Americans interested in the Jewish problem had approached Herbert Hoover to learn if he would accept the leadership of a commission to handle the German Jewish situation if one were created. The former President's reply was said to be discouraging but not absolutely negative.

HEAR ARCHITECT AGAIN IN MALONE INCOME TAX QUIZ

Promises to Tell Jury the "Whole Truth."

William F. McCaughey Jr., Park Ridge architect, went before the federal grand jury yesterday to tell "the whole truth" to the jurors investigating alleged income tax frauds of William H. Malone, former head of the state tax commission.

McCaughey appeared in the morning before Federal Judge John P. Barnes to show why he should not be jailed for contempt of court. The contempt citation was issued on the charge that McCaughey had given false and evasive testimony on a previous appearance before the grand jury.

Through his attorney, Walter E. Wiles, McCaughey announced that he had experienced a change of heart.

"Your honor," Attorney Wiles told the court, "my client is asking for the grace of the court to permit him to go again before the grand jury. He admits that his testimony so far has not been the whole truth and is now willing to tell the whole truth."

Continue Contempt Case.

McCaughey was sent before the grand jury and United States Attorney Dwight H. Green appeared before Judge Barnes later in the day and obtained a continuance in the contempt case until Oct. 27. The continuance was seen as an indication that the government was satisfied with the changed testimony.

McCaughey had been questioned concerning $50,000 involved in the Malone tax investigation. The government had sought to show that McCaughey had been given the money by Malone so that the latter might not be held responsible for it.

Discovery of two additional fees of $15,000 each received during the years 1929 and 1930 by Attorney Frank L. Tuttle from the Pullman company yesterday brought a new contempt citation against him. Judge Barnes set Tuesday for ruling on a previous contempt citation against Attorney Tuttle. The original citation against Tuttle was made because of his alleged evasions in testifying concerning two fees of $15,000 each paid to him in 1927 and 1928.

Charge Splitting of Fees.

The government showed that all these large fees had been paid to Tuttle, a close friend of Malone, for tax adjustment work before the state commission during the Malone régime. The federal prosecutors sought to prove that these fees had been split with Malone. In bringing a new citation the government charged that Tuttle had been evasive in his answers concerning the fees paid to him in 1929 and 1930.

He was ordered by Judge Barnes to go back before the grand jury yesterday afternoon and give full, true, and complete answers to questions. During the hearing Judge Barnes asked Tuttle if he had anything to say.

"Nothing except that the district attorney's office is using third degree methods on me," Tuttle answered. "They are treating me the same way hoodlums are treated except I haven't been larruped with a hose."

"You don't mean that you have been treated discourteously?" Attorney Green asked him.

"O, no," Tuttle replied.

Tuttle also was questioned concerning fees of $2,500 each paid to him by the North Shore Gas company for tax work before the state commission. He admitted that he had retained only $500 of each fee, but denied that the remainder had been split with Malone.

A transcript of his testimony on his latest appearance before the grand jury showed that Tuttle had said that he had distributed the remainder of the $2,500 fees among officials of towns in which the gas company did business. Some of the questions were as follows:

Q.—Can you mention the names of the men who got the money? A.—Well, they were mayors, chiefs of police, commissioners of streets, and members of town committees.

Q.—How did you go about it? A.—O, I would go into their offices and say "Here is a present for you for Christmas. Buy yourself a suit of clothes or something.

Q.—Can you mention the names of these people? A.—The names didn't mean anything to me. It was the titles that counted.

FOUND DEAD IN ASH HEAP.

The body of a woman was found yesterday under a heap of ashes in the basement of a building at 123 East 31st street. Apparently it had lain there for several months and the police were unable to determine the cause of death or to discover any clews to the woman's identity.

Two Rail Vets Retiring After 51 Years' Service

Two veteran employes of the North Western railroad met yesterday in the Chicago station on their final runs before they retire after a combined service of 102 years in the company's employ. Each of them, Frank L. James, 29 Quincy street, a passenger conductor, and William L. Rowe, 4024 Maypole street, a locomotive engineer, has been with the railroad fifty-one years. Al Taylor, conductor on the Michigan Central railroad, also made his final run yesterday—out of the Illinois Central station—before retiring after fifty years' service.

DOLLFUSS CLAIMS WORLD IS BACK OF FREE AUSTRIA

Chancellor Returns from Geneva.

VIENNA, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss returned from Geneva today with the assertion he believed the ovation he received before the assembly of the league of nations amounted to an international agreement to uphold his reiteration of Austria's desire and duty to remain an independent nation.

(The chancellor was applauded when he reasserted this stand in an address before the assembly. The German delegates did not join in the applause.)

Dollfuss set forth his view in a speech at the railroad station upon his arrival from the Swiss city. He described the agreement as one "that whoever attempts actively to oppose the fundamentals of the policy I outlined there must understand he is attacking not only Austria but the conviction and conscience of the world."

Confers with Foreign Chiefs.

En route home the chancellor stopped at Woergl for a breakfast conference with Eduard Benes and Nicholas Titulescu, foreign ministers respectively of Czechoslovakia and Rumania. Benes and Titulescu were en route to Geneva. Dollfuss also broke his trip at Salzburg to confer with party leaders.

The chancellor returned to his capital to find politics still boiling, with the Socialists opposing both the government itself and the Fascist heimwehr, which recently pledged its allegiance to the Dollfuss "patriotic front."

See Opposition to Heimwehr.

Evidences also were seen of opposition to the heimwehr even in pro-Dollfuss quarters.

The lower Austrian peasant council, with Dr. Karl Buresch, finance minister, attending, passed a resolution to the effect the organization long had advocated a change in the existing forms of democracy, but not the abolition of democracy itself.

The council was determined, it said, to prevent meddling with the "Christ sponsored human rights of the creating and working classes."

BERLIN, Sept. 29.—The pillory of medieval times has come back to Germany following restoration of the ax and block for capital crime. Bavaria, which under Nazi rules is doing some rigorous house cleaning, has adopted the pillory.

The first one has been erected in the Palatinate at Albertsweiller on Market square. It is to be employed as punishment for those who steal grapes from vineyards. A placard will be hung around the thief's neck and he will be put into the pillory for twenty-four hours. After that he will be taken to a concentration camp.

Rigorous measures are also being taken in Bavaria against begging, which has become a serious public nuisance. At Landshut in Lower Bavaria 130 beggars and hobos have been rounded up. Men under 25 will be put to work in labor detachments.

PARIS, Sept. 29.—Leading members of the American colony here gathered and clinked glasses today for the inauguration of an important adjunct of the American embassy which is not on the official list of embassy features, but is, nevertheless, a part destined to be high in rank of popularity.

It is a bar, not in the embassy itself, of course, but so close that it amounts to the same thing. It is two jumps from a side door of the embassy across the very narrow Rue Boissy-d'Anglas. A high embassy official who refused to be quoted recommended a secret tunnel to the bar in case of rain.

The opening of the bar was the big event of today's Paris social calendar and was attended by a host of officials, including the American chargé d'affaires, J. Theodore Marriner, half a dozen attachés, a score of consuls, and leading American social lights.

CROAT LEADER WHO URGED VOTE BOYCOTT JAILED

BELGRADE, Sept. 29.—Dr. Trumbitch, one of the authors of the Jugo-Slav independence, who is well known abroad for the part he played in organizing Jugo-Slav resistance to Austria and Hungary during the war, today was sentenced to one month's imprisonment in Zagreb for issuing a circular urging the Croats to take no part in the forthcoming municipal elections under the dictatorial system.

Dr. Trumbitch was designated as temporary leader of the Croats by the chief of the Croat peasant party, Dr. Matchek, when the latter was sentenced two months ago to ten years' imprisonment by one of the special courts instituted under the dictatorship.

10 Prisoners and Cop Slain; Mexican Jailbreak Foiled

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Dispatches from Puebla today said ten prisoners and a policeman were killed yesterday in Zacatlan in a battle with police and soldiers. The prisoners were discovered escaping from jail through a hole made in the wall.

CHICAGO JEWRY BEGINS SERVICES OF YOM KIPPUR

The solemnities of Yom Kippur, the Jewish day of Atonement, began last night at sundown for more than 300,000 members of that race in Chicago. Today the temples of the city will be thronged with worshippers who will sing the ancient hymns and prayers of Judaism. Yom Kippur is also observed as a day of fasting, which ends at sundown tonight. The significance of the rites is heightened this year by conditions imposed upon 600,000 Jews of Germany by the Hitler régime. Services began last night in all Chicago with the singing of the ancient hymn Kol Nidre, which gives a motif to the penitential feeling of Jews.

U. S. Authorizes Envoy to Aid League in Opium Vote

GENEVA, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The United States informed the league of nations today that Hugh R. Wilson, American minister to Switzerland, has been authorized to sit with the league council for the election of a central opium board. The notification specified that Wilson might sit with the council "for no other purpose."

ESTONIA IS HOST TO LINDBERGHS; NORWAY TODAY

TALLINN, Estonia, Sept. 29.—(AP)—This republic on the Gulf of Finland was host today to Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, who arrived from Moscow by airplane. After four days in the Russian capital they departed without announcing their destination, arriving here this afternoon. The couple plan to leave for Oslo, Norway, early tomorrow.

Tallinn, capital of Estonia, is a city of 127,000 persons on the Gulf of Finland. On Estonia's southern border is Latvia, on the west the Baltic sea, on the north the Gulf of Finland, and on the east, Russia.

The country has a small army and navy and an air force, organized as an air regiment of the regular army, including a land service aviation group, a seaplane group, and a training section.

Argentine Deputy, 2 Others Slain by Fascist Gunmen

Producers Determined to "Shrink" Area.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Eighteen thousand producers of the Chicago Pure Milk association have dedicated themselves to shrinking their milk shed area.

Because distributors are now buying milk and cream from producers over a region reaching from Iowa almost to Ohio, and from northern Wisconsin to central Illinois, the Chicago dairymen are determined that the producing area be cut to a radius of 100 miles.

Thinks Plan Is Legal.

Geyer's organization proposes to bring this shrinkage about in an "orderly, legal" fashion. An amendment to the Chicago milk shed agreement is now before the agricultural adjustment administration which, if adopted, would require Chicago distributors to buy all of their milk from members of the Chicago Pure Milk association or that organization's independent affiliates.

Mr. Geyer believes the shrinkage would be "legal." The administration has long boomed the base and surplus plan.

There has been little opposition to the proposal other than that offered by Wisconsin dairy interests, it is asserted. But the northern Wisconsin dairymen, who had contented themselves with selling whatever cream Chicago producers needed, declare that such an amendment would wreck the Wisconsin dairy industry.

"Will Go Back to 14 Cents."

If the administration permits an amendment to the Chicago milkshed agreement, bringing about an increase from 10 to 11 cents per quart in the retail price, so that producers' revenues will be raised to $2.10 per hundredweight, it will be only the opening shot in a battle to put the price per quart back to 14 cents, it was admitted by Mr. Geyer.

The present agreement, adopted in August, calls for a retail price of 10 cents per quart. It raised the tariff from nine.

"There is no reason," said Geyer, "why the price paid producers should not keep abreast with the cost of living."

Many producers, he said, have been forced to buy their cattle feed because of hailstorms and droughts.

Blames A. A. A.

"It's time the agricultural administration began to function," Geyer said, "for the purpose congress intended. If it gives our producers $2.10 per hundredweight by Monday that may stave off trouble for a little while—but we will have to come back here again."

The price of milk stands in danger of being boosted for other reasons. Distributing dairymen have already said the rising labor costs, plus higher taxes, are steadily decreasing their profit. Wagon drivers and "inside" dairy workers have served notice that they intend to demand increased wages.

TAMPICO HIT BY NEW FLOOD; 5,000 FACING DEATH

TAMPICO, Mexico, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Flood swollen waters of the Panuco river swept again over the city today, vastly complicating relief work and threatening new peril to thousands made destitute by Sunday's hurricane. Heavy rains in the interior have caused both the Panuco and the Tamesi to reach flood stage.

Dispatches from regions adjacent to the Tamesi described a desperate situation. Hundreds were forced to exist as best they could in neck deep water. Few of them have had food since Sunday. Five thousand were said to be in danger of dying.

An airplane flew over the zone yesterday, dropping food in packages, but most of it was lost because it fell out of reach due to the speed of the plane. It was said the people were too weak to swim after it.

In Tampico low lying sections of the city were under water. People of the poorer class fled to the center of the city panic stricken as rising water forced them out of their already ruined homes. Heavy rain continued to fall.

COURT CITES J. P. FOR CONTEMPT IN TRUCK SEIZURE

Circuit Judge John R. Caverly yesterday ordered contempt of court charges filed against A. F. Heintz, Blue Island justice of the peace; William Kreis, an automobile dealer in that town, and Otto Wielgorecki, attorney for Kreis. He issued attachments for their arrest.

In June Kreis filed suit for $127 against James Mercede, 12750 Francisco avenue, Blue Island, and obtained a judgment before Justice Heintz, on which he attached a truck belonging to Mercede. Mercede, however, appealed the case to the Circuit court, and on Sept. 18 Judge Caverly set aside the judgment and ordered Kreis to return the truck.

The contempt action was started yesterday when Attorney Paul Broccole, representing Mercede, informed Judge Caverly that Kreis had returned the truck, got a receipt from Mercede, and then obtained it again on a new order obtained by Attorney Wielgorecki from Justice Heintz.

SEE CHINCH BUG BIGGER MENACE TO CORN, BARLEY

Experts Fear Losses Will Increase.

BY PAUL POTTER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Corn belt farmers may well look for even more severe losses of barley and corn crops in 1934 than occurred this summer if present conditions outlined on a farm tour of board of trade members from Chicago continue through the fall and winter.

W. P. Flint, Illinois entomologist and national authority on chinch bugs, corn borers, and the like joined with Dr. James R. Holbert of the federal department of agriculture in outlining the serious menace of chinch bugs and what might be done to check losses that might well affect millions of bushels of corn, barley, and other grains next year. The delegation gathered at the Funk brothers farm, where experiments visualized the damage the tiny bugs did in recent weeks.

Going Into Winter Quarters.

According to Flint's latest surveys the chinch bugs are going into winter quarters at a great rate, 300 per cent greater than at this time last year. Fully one-third of the bugs already are harboring in fence rows, stubble, and other grassy or weedy areas. Nothing short of widespread burning of these harboring places, plowing of stubble ground, coupled with heavy rains next May and June when the bugs hatch out will prevent heavy damage, he said.

Not only are the bugs infesting large areas of Illinois, but are a menace to areas of Missouri, Kansas, southern Iowa, parts of Indiana and Ohio.

Fields on the historic Funk farms were viewed yesterday. There hordes of bugs had flown over man-made barriers to settle in cornfields and annihilate some kinds of corn in two weeks. Right in these cornfields were certain breeds of corn still standing intact, resistant to the bugs. The seed from these standing and unharmed hills is being carefully saved.

Some Varieties Escape.

Dr. Holbert also showed mammoth hills of corn in an area which had practically no rains between mid-May and September, still producing large ears and green where most of the fields have been injured by temperatures down to 35 degrees in recent nights.

"We still are looking for the ideal breed of corn, just as others are seeking the ideal man," declared Dr. Holbert. "It is difficult to obtain one kind of corn resistant to all attacks of weather, disease, and insects, yet with a high yield. But we are getting closer to this millenium from a research standpoint each year."

STATE EXPLAINS FAILURE TO PUSH SANITARY WORKS

Cornelius Lynde, special assistant to Attorney General Kerner in the Illinois water diversion case, left for Washington yesterday to file before the United States Supreme court the report which the court has required on what Illinois has done to finance the Chicago sanitary district's sewage treatment works. The court has ordered the report filed on Monday.

While Mr. Lynde declined to discuss the report in advance of its submission to the court, others who shared in its preparation gave a general outline of its substance. Having failed to comply with the court's order that "all necessary steps be taken to raise money for the sewage works," the state, it was pointed out, is under obligation to offer explanations and excuses.

Legislature Fails to Act.

So far as the state administration is concerned, it is said, the explanation is that Gov. Horner did all he could within constitutional limits when he outlined the court's requirements in a message at the last regular session of the legislature. That the legislature was not induced to appropriate money for the project cannot be held against the governor, the report points out.

A reasonable explanation for the legislature's failure to act is also offered. The report cites the fact that by direct and indirect taxation the legislature had been compelled to raise the unprecedented sum of $60,000,000 for unemployment relief in the last two years—this during a period when the delinquency rate on taxes was exceeding 50 per cent.

While the report does not endeavor to interpret the intentions of the legislature, it is said, the suggestion is advanced that in refraining from imposing the additional tax necessary for the sewage works the legislators felt that such a tax would be impractical and impossible, because it would be uncollectible.

Gives Hope of Progress.

By way of inspiring hopes that the sewage works may yet be begun as the court has ordered, the report is said to allude to the recent visit here of Lloyd H. Landau, general solicitor for the federal public works administration, who gave Illinois officials reason to believe the PWA would advance funds for the sewage works provided the federal government were permitted to have full supervision of the job.

In view of the allusion to the anticipated federal grant state officials were somewhat disturbed yesterday to read Washington dispatches quoting the PWA administrator, Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, as saying that the prospects of the grant had faded because of local opposition to government supervision.

According to the dispatches Secretary Ickes is now considering only a loan of $8,000,000, a sum sufficient to complete sewage projects already half finished. Edward F. McClennen, special master for the Supreme court, had fixed $34,000,000 as the sum Illinois should appropriate for this year to carry on the project.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 29.—The student council of the University of Porto Rico today cabled a message to President Roosevelt through the bureau of insular affairs charging that Gov. Robert H. Gore's refusal twice to receive a student commission has created a serious situation, threatening a general student strike.

The student commission carried a protest of the student body against Gov. Gore's appointment of Rafael Alonzo Torres, a Socialist, to the board of university trustees. Students assert that the opposition to Alonzo is not based on political grounds. They list several Socialists of adequate cultural attainments to qualify under the law for the trusteeship.

The students, resenting what they consider the governor's discourtesy, have started a 1 cent subscription to purchase him a copy of Carrenos' "Manual of Manners," which is the Spanish equivalent of Emily Post. Gov. Gore, who is a former Chicagoan, announced today that the incident is closed and that the Alonzo appointment stands.

START SUITS TO OBTAIN BRIDGE SITE AT MORRIS

Present Span Blocks New Waterway.

Morris, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Circuit Judge Frank H. Hayes is expected to enter judgments Monday in the last four of 17 condemnation suits entered by Attorney General Kerner to obtain right of way for the approach to the new bridge over the Illinois river here.

Completion of the condemnation actions will clear the way for actual construction on the bridge, to be built by the state, and permit the demolition of the present bridge over the river. Barge operators and Col. Dan I. Sultan, United States army engineer, have complained that the present bridge restricts the Illinois waterway to a small proportion of its potential usefulness. The piers are too close to permit the passage of two barges abreast, the manner in which the waterway tows are made up.

Controversy Over Site.

The bridge is to cross the river at Division street, the site recommended by the state highway department. There was considerable local controversy over the bridge site.

H. E. Clayton, who was mayor of Morris until he was defeated for reelection in April of this year, was one of the proponents of a site at Fulton street.

County Asks State to Act.

In September, 1932, the Grundy county board of supervisors passed a resolution urging Attorney General Carlstrom to start condemnation suits for the Division street right of way. Oscar Carlstrom took no action during the remainder of his term of office, local officials say, to obtain the right of way. When Attorney General Kerner took office the condemnation suits were started in his name and one of his assistants sent to Morris to push their trial as rapidly as possible.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $610,216, making a total of $74,385,707 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act was started on April 22. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follow:

Sept. 29	$ 14,913	$ 35,461
Uncollected	17,285,548	45,818,966
	1930.	1931.
Sept. 29	$ 150,625	$ 409,917

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $2,366.

County Treasurer McDonough was appointed receiver for 40 more income bearing properties yesterday by County Judge Jarecki. The properties, which owe a total of $108,000 in back taxes, were ordered into receivership under the Kerner-Skarda act to enable the treasurer to collect the taxes. Attorneys for other properties paid $80,000 in court to avoid receiverships.

The treasurer yesterday distributed $5,521,653 to 23 taxing bodies. Among those receiving funds were the following:

City of Chicago	3,528,133
County of Cook	495,532
Sanitary district	468,790
South park commissioners	238,950
West park commissioners	139,680
Lincoln park commissioners	105,968

The distribution was made from collections of delinquent taxes. The taxing bodies will use the money for retiring bonds and warrants and meeting pay rolls.

GOV. H. H. LEHMAN IMPROVES; MAY NOT OPERATE

New York, Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The condition of Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, who suffered an attack of appendicitis on Wednesday, has so greatly improved that no operation will be necessary at this time, his physicians announced today.

PREDICTS BOARD WILL RELAX BUS SPEED LIMITS

I. C. C. Order Oversight, Attorney Says.

BY HAL FOUST.

An Illinois commerce commission rule placing severe speed limitations upon motor buses will be amended at a meeting of the commissioners with bus operators in Springfield on Tuesday. This prediction was made yesterday by Irvin Rooks, attorney for the commission after he had received protests from operators that enforcement of the rule would cripple bus transportation.

"The commissioners have no intention that these ridiculously low speed limits should be enforced," said the attorney. "It was an oversight on the part of the commission that the new regulations covering motor bus operation should have included the 25 mile an hour maximum for rural highways and the 10 and 15 mile an hour maximum for business and residential districts.

Explanation of Order.

"The commission recently revised the general rule applying to common carriers of passengers. Changes were made regarding bonds and insurance. Then, without any consideration of this feature, the speed regulations of the 1925 commission were incorporated in the order issued to become effective Oct. 1.

"I hope that no police department will try to enforce these speed regulations before we have a chance to modernize them next Tuesday. It's likely that the commission's rule, applying solely to common carriers, will be made to conform with the Illinois motor vehicle code, which limits motor buses to 40 miles an hour."

Chester Moore, president of the Illinois Bus Operators' association, representing the intercity carriers, will present statistics at Tuesday's meeting to show the low accident record of the highway buses. W. J. Sherwood, general manager of the Chicago Motor Coach company, said his company would be represented at the hearing, because the city buses could not function under the 10 and 15 mile an hour limits.

Drive on Outlaw Buses.

Elimination of "outlaw" or unauthorized motor buses from Illinois highways of the state and better supervision and regulation of duly licensed vehicles is planned by the commerce commission, it was announced late yesterday. The statement issued by the commission said:

"Adoption of a rule requiring all motor carriers used for the transportation of passengers to display on the windshield a sticker issued by the commerce commission and painting on each vehicle and trailer the following legend, "Authorized by Illinois Commerce Commission,' giving the number of the certificate, is expected to bring the desired result."

CHILD KILLED BY FLOWER BOX.

Grace Marie Fulton, 4 years old, was fatally injured yesterday when she pulled a heavy flower box over on herself on the rear porch of her home at 1701 North Moody avenue.

CITY'S FILTER PLANT STOPS TYPHOID DEATHS

The construction of a modern filtration plant under municipal management has eliminated deaths from typhoid in Kansas City, Kas., it was declared yesterday by James D. Donovan, manager of the citys' public utilities in an address before the Public Ownership League of America in convention at the Morrison hotel. In 1909 the typhoid death rate in Kansas City was 42.4 per 100,000 of population. The sanitary filtration plant was then built after the city took over the electric light and water plants, and the death rate from the disease decreased annually until for the last three years there has not been a fatality from the malady, Mr. Donovan declared.

BANKER KILLS SELF; HELPED TO OPEN U. S. BANKS

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 30 [Saturday].—[Special.]—Frank H. Schrenk, chairman of the National Depositors' committee, president of the North City Trust company of Germantown and a prominent attorney here, committed suicide by shooting himself in his offices shortly before midnight last night.

Mr. Schrenk's desk at the time his body was discovered was strewn with correspondence, telegrams, and communications relating to closed banks throughout the country. A number of the communications are said to have been from President Roosevelt and Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, head of the national recovery administration.

Mrs. Harry E. Talbott of Dayton Entertains 96 Guests for Fair

BY JUDITH CASS.

To Mrs. Harry E. Talbott should go the prize—if prize there were—for having the most visitors during A Century of Progress, we are certain, for that distinguished grande dame from Dayton, who has been here since June 15, has had 96 house guests so far. Think of it, almost a hundred guests, all of whom have had more than a casual look at the Fair. Twenty-five of the 96 were her grandchildren, of whom she has 31, the sons and daughters of her nine children.

The other day Mrs. Talbott purchased certificates of attendance at the World's Fair to send to the grandchildren who have been here. These certificates, by the way, were published by the Association of Arts and Industries and are on sale throughout the Fair for the benefit of the association's work for its industrial art school. It was designed by William Welsh and written by Thornton Wilder.

Mrs. Talbott, who has the Bruce Thorne apartment at 1130 Lake Shore drive until Oct. 15, is expecting more guests, among them Maj. Edward D. and Lady Alexandra Metcalfe, who now are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Talbott in New York. Lady Alexandra is a daughter of the late Lord Curzon and the former Mary Leiter and a granddaughter of Levi Z. Leiter, pioneer Chicagoan. The Metcalfes will arrive in Chicago on Oct. 9.

A recent letter from London brought the news that ground had been broken for the final resting place for the remains of Lady Cynthia Moseley, wife of Sir Oswald Moseley and sister of Lady Alexandra, who died last May. In the heart of a wood on her old home, Savehay farm, Denham, there is being constructed, under the direction of Sir Edward Luytens, a beautiful sunken garden with walls of golden travertine stone in the center of which the sarcophagus, also of golden travertine stone, will stand.

The sunken garden, of green grass, will be about 100 feet in circumference, falling in three gentle terraces to the small central circle in which the sarcophagus will stand. Lady Cynthia's body has been lying in a private chapel on the grounds of Cliveden, Lady Astor's home. Lady Cynthia's friends are establishing a day nursery as a memorial to her.

Makes 50 Visits to See the Fair.

Mrs. Talbott came to Chicago this past summer not only to visit the Fair—she has been there about 50 times so far—but at the solicitation of Frederick Stock to try and arrange for the Westminster choir to sing at the Exposition. She was unsuccessful in that, but there is a strong probability that she has arranged for the choir to broadcast this coming winter. Mrs. Talbott has sponsored the choir since it was started about ten years ago, and four years ago she took it on a successful tour of Europe. She is leaving tomorrow for Princeton, N. J., where the choir school is located, to be there for the opening on Monday. There are 125 boys in the school and 45 in the choir, which was heard here in concert several years ago and probably will be again this winter. The receipts go to the scholarship fund.

Mrs. Talbott will be back from Princeton the middle of next week in time to make final plans for entertaining a large party of Dayton friends over the week-end who are coming especially to attend Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin's "Pooch ball" at the Bal Tabarin on Oct. 7. The party, of course, is for the benefit of Orphans of the Storm, and from advance news of it it would seem that it will be one of the gayest and smartest parties of the early season.

Dorothy Marshall Nuptials Today.

This afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the studio of her father, Benjamin H. Marshall, in Wilmette, Dorothy, the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, will be married to Richard Wright Simmons, son of Mrs. George W. Simmons of St. Louis. Miss Marshall made her debut in the same unusual setting last November. The wedding is to be a very simple and small one with the bride attended only by her sister, Mrs. Richard Hill Fleming, and the bridegroom by James Pope, the friend with whom he has shared quarters on the Onwentsia this summer.

The service this afternoon will be read by the Rev. E. Ashley Gerhard of Christ church, Winnetka. Mr. Simmons and his bride will be at home after Oct. 15 in an apartment on East Walton place.

The Italy-America society is to give the first function for Marchese and Marchesa Marconi during their busy three day visit to Chicago a luncheon tomorrow at 1 o'clock at the Casino. The society always gives delightful affairs, so it is safe to assume that tomorrow's luncheon will be one of the nicest parties given for the Marconis during their stay in Chicago.

Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy is giving a luncheon Monday at the Casino club for Mrs. Mabel T. Boardman of Washington, D. C., secretary of the American National Red Cross and chairman of the national committee on volunteer service. Mrs. Boardman is arriving in Chicago today and will remain here a few days to see the Fair and the exhibit at the Art institute.

Virginia Thatcher to Bow at Tea.

The G. William Thatchers of East Delaware place have decided to give a luncheon instead of a tea dance at the Blackstone to present their daughter, Virginia, formally to society, and the date has been set as Nov. 29. They had reserved the Blackstone ballroom for Dec. 23 for the tea dance.

Miss Thatcher went to Sarah Lawrence last year after having finished at Mount Vernon the year before and she plans to return to Sarah Lawrence next year, but this winter she will stay at home to enjoy to the fullest her first year "out."

The Longmeadow hounds have been hunting regularly three times a week since mid-August, but the first formal hunt of the season will be held this afternoon. [Any riding habit does for informal hunts but pink coats are in order when a hunt is formal, you know.] The field will assemble at 3 o'clock at the new kennels on Wagner road just north of Lake avenue. Immediately after the run the master of the hunt, Clark J. Lawrence, will give a hunt tea at his home in Hubbard Woods for the members.

Mr. and Mrs. William Warren Case and Miss Emily Case have gone east for the wedding this evening of their son and brother, Winthrop Warren Case, to Miss Helen Siewers, daughter of Mrs. William Albert Siewers of Starsdale, N. Y. The wedding is to take place at 8:30 this evening at the Siewers' residence, 3 Claremont road, Scarsdale, and will be followed by a reception. Mr. Case and his bride will make their home in New York City.

Mrs. Goodspeed Returns to City.

Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed and Miss Alice Roullier arrived at home even sooner than they were expected, for instead of waiting until today or tomorrow to come home they arrived yesterday. They landed in New York from France early in the week.

The popular "Squirrel" Ashcraft [Edwin M. III] is receiving many slaps on the back and heartiest congratulations because a baby daughter was born yesterday morning to him and his attractive wife, the former Jane Cochran of Williamsport, Pa., at the Passavant hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank won't be spending this Saturday night in Lake Geneva, where they usually spend week-ends at this time of year, for they will be in town to hear their daughter, Janet, sing the exacting rôle of Zerlina in the Operatic Art Theater's production of Mozart's "Don Giovanni" in the Goodman theater.

This production marks the opening of a series of intimate opera performances under the direction of Edoardo Sacerdote. "Don Giovanni" is to be repeated Monday night and again next Saturday night. Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Graham, and Mr. and Mrs. Archibald E. Freer are others who have signified their intention of being present tonight.

Ernestine Beebower to Be Bride Today.

Miss Ernestine Grace Beebower, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Arthur Beebower of Cleveland Heights, O., is to be married today in the Church of the Saviour in Cleveland Heights to John Oliver Innes, son of Mrs. Alexander J. Innes and the late Mr. Innes of Oak Park. After Oct. 15 Mr. Innes and his bride will be at home at the Scoville Manor, Oak Park.

A north shore wedding today will be that of Miss Louise Farson Clabaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hinton C. Clabaugh of Hubbard Woods, to Milton Stuart Emrich, son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Emrich of Glencoe, which will take place at 8:30 tonight at the Christ Episcopal church in Winnetka, the Rev. E. Ashley Gerhard officiating. Miss Virginia Evers will be Miss Clabaugh's attendant and Fred Schmidt will be best man. The bride was graduated from Smith col-

SUNDAY TRIBUNE

Alliance Francaise Showers Marjorie Goodman

Mlle. Odile Weiller and Miss Barbara Bullard (pouring) were among those who showered green kitchen presents on Miss Marjorie Goodman yesterday at the party given for her by the Alliance Francaise.

But it was the attractive gift—a funnel filled with flowers from which hung streamers tied to miniature kitchenware—made by Miss Ellen Truax, that the bride of Oct. 5 carried home with her.

Miss Goodman, whose wedding next Thursday to Charles S. Dewey Jr. will be one of the most brilliant of the season, looked exceptionally smart in a black wool tunic dress, with which she wore a black beret with a feather and a black and green scarf. She was accompanied by two of her bridesmaids, Miss Carol Crocker of Boston and Miss Anne Clark of Princeton. Another bridesmaid, Miss Louise Dewey, the bridegroom's sister, also was there, as was her mother, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, in black, who gave the waffle iron. Miss Goodman's mother, Mrs. James M. Hopkins, was there to drink a cup of tea and show delight over the presents.

Mrs. Ralph T. Winston, in black and white, was telling a friend about the annual meeting and luncheon of the Lake Shore League of Women Voters, of which Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter is president, which will take place at the Churchill hotel a week from Monday. Mrs. Winston, Mrs. William Ennis, and Miss Nettie Baumann are vice presidents, and with Mrs. Carpenter they are retiring officers.

Mme. René Weiller, wife of the French consul general, and her daughter, Mlle. Odile Weiller, were also among those at the tea, as was Miss Barbara Bullard, the Sellar Bullards, attractive and vivacious middle daughter. She is staying at home this winter to study French and interior decoration at Northwestern university.

Front Views and Profiles

IT'S Phil Baker's story. A Jewish lad took his bride to the Catskills for a honeymoon trip and was rapturous and a little proprietary about the beauties of nature as he pointed them out to her.

"Just hev a look at those blossoms, darlink," he said. "And hev a look at those over there," he enthused, pointing out the wild flowers that grew in profusion. "And look over there—at the peenk ones."

"Vat kind are the peenk ones, Isidore?" the bride inquired.

"How should I know?" snapped Isidore. "Do you t'ink I'm in the millinery bizness?"

A PLUMP and pompous woman came out the Chestnut street side of an avenue store the other day and stood waiting for a cab. There was one parked across the street and the doorman whistled to him. "Hey! Want this load?" he called.

IF you saw a handsome man in topcoat and felt hat standing in the middle of Michigan avenue in front of the Art institute directing traffic in the pouring rain the other afternoon at about 5 o'clock, it was, believe it or not, Mr. Chauncey McCormick. Nor was it due to whimsy on his part. It happened that Mrs. Herbert Hoover, who had been touring the galleries of the institute with a friend, came out to find the downpour and cabs at a premium. Mr. McCormick ran out to the traffic officer and persuaded him to find a cab while Mr. McCormick directed traffic.

THAT same rainy afternoon a lad of about 19, his clothes soaking wet, was in front of the public library getting taxis for people, helping them in and shutting the doors after them. When asked who was paying him for this service he replied that nobody was. He just liked to be out in the rain and help people, he added cheerily.

THE following tale was first told us last summer by Bernard F. Rogers Jr., a week later by Pierpont Morgan Hamilton when he was in town from New York, and shortly thereafter by Mrs. Ernst von Ammon. Since then it has been repeated by several persons, all of whom think it is the funniest story of the year. We don't agree, but have finally decided to print it in case some of you have not heard it, and because it bids fair to become a perennial, like the tale of the dog in the suitcase.

It concerns the head of Henry street settlement in New York, who was giving a handsome dinner party to which a number of celebrities and socialites had been bidden. One of the dishes served was of mushrooms, and the mushrooms had been given her by a little Italian boy. She had warned the cook to try out the mushrooms first, as she wasn't sure where they came from, and the cook said she already had fed some to the dog, which had not been made ill. Accordingly the mushrooms were served.

Dinner progressed and was nearly over when the butler stooped to whisper into the hostess' ear.

"Madam, the dog is dead," he said.

The hostess excused herself from the table, went to the telephone and put in a hurry call for physicians and stomach pumps. She returned to the table, explained to her guests her fear that the mushrooms were poisonous, begged their sufferance, but insisted that all of them should submit to having their stomachs pumped immediately.

After assuring the safety of the last guest, she went to the kitchen and said she wanted to see the dog.

"I don't think you ought, madam," said the cook. "He's still lying out in the driveway, but the truck that hit him ran right over him."

Two Outsiders Make Success in 'Lohengrin'

"LOHENGRIN."

THE CAST.

Henry the Fowler.....Harald Kravitt
Lohengrin.....Dimitri Onofrei
Elsa of Brabant.....Alma Peterson
Frederick of Telramund..Chief Caupolican
Ortrud, his wife.....Marion Selee
The King's Herald.....Howard Preston
Conductor, Carlo Peroni.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Having presented some highly successful essays in Italian and French operas, likewise one of German opera in English, the San Carlo company last night made its first presentation of German opera in German.

In the light of the last twelve days it would hardly be correct to say that it was a surprisingly good performance, because the only surprise would be if this eager and enterprising organization gave a bad performance. But it is entirely in the scheme of things to record that a highly cosmopolitan cast sang some uncommonly good German.

Better than good German, it was good Wagner, conceived in the perfected Wagnerian tradition of line, tempo, and expression. There were two outsiders in the cast, Miss Peterson as Elsa, Mr. Preston as the herald, and they were just as much in the spirit of the performance as their able associates who are regular members of the company.

Miss Peterson made a fine impression as soon as she stepped upon the stage. Her Elsa is dignified and gentle at the same time, a matter of both voice and demeanor. She has a good voice and she has been well trained in the rôle, and her initial success continued throughout the evening. Mr. Preston's energetic and sonorous performance of the herald won him much when the old Civic Opera company used to present "Lohengrin." He has lost nothing in the interval. In fact he would seem to have gained something of assurance and certainty.

Of the regular San Carlo members, one feels like extending an extra compliment to Mr. Onofrei. His easy, unforced singing was exactly designed for a rôle of this sort. He was thoroughly in the picture and in the music.

Of all the baritones who have sung Telramund, I remember none who so clearly defined the character in a few measures of song as Caupolican. Malign ambition was in every tone of his voice, which did not in the least stop it from being fine singing. More than that, there was no despair when he was beaten. He went down fighting. It was a vivid and striking performance.

Mr. Kravitt was a little youthful in appearance as King Henry, but he sang the part beautifully. Miss Selee, on the other hand, made Ortrud quite a bit older than most, but her care-ridden expression was plausible, and her voice more so. Chorus and orchestra were at their best.

Jacques Samossoud will conduct the "Faust" performance this afternoon, thereby giving the hard working Carlo Peroni the first layoff he has had since the company opened here. The Marguerite will be Thalia Sabanieeva, who in private life is Mrs. Samossoud, a fact that may have some bearing on the situation. In the evening's "Aida," Ina Bourskaya and not the previously announced Marie Von Essen will sing the part of Amneris.

Turning from the San Carlo to the Chicago Grand Opera company, there would seem to be a good chance that if plans and organization go through as hoped, the season will be given at the Civic Opera house instead of the Auditorium. It is understood that such low terms have been offered by directors of the Civic Opera house that they will figure materially in the costs of the undertaking.

Puckery Sleeves Enhance Girl's Dress for Fall

JUNIOR GIRL'S DRESS.

Here is a dress that will be fine for fall days without a coat. It has the new sleeves, and is altogether chic. Make it of a bright red rabbit's hair woolen or a tartan plaided woolen, wool jersey, or faille silk crêpe.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Quilts are "going modern" in an effort to keep up with the modern artists, decorators and interiors. Each block of this quilt may be pieced of a different print or color, using those colors that are natural to the flower. The "Modernistic Pansy," in spite of its seeming intricacies, is an easy block to piece, and well worth the effort.

For a quilt pattern of this design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

Youngest Set Goes Out in Adult Styles

BY RHEA SEEGER.

For sheer dash and daring you can't equal the new dressup coats just unpacked for the very youngest set . . . short, almost microscopic scraps of baby pink broadcloth trimmed with soft brown fur.

They are the most adorable bits of color you can find to wrap around your cherubs. Small, very small femininity, this winter are going romantic just as devastatingly as their elders, for wee little girls from 1 to 3 are going to be bundled in these pale pink coats by lots of adoring parents and aunts.

They are short and scant, but all the newest fashion details that mark the grownup clothes are present, from fetching epaulet shoulder effects in perfect miniature to sharp, small, padded shoulder, fur festooned on the shoulder seams, and small, short capes that will swing beguilingly during the afternoon stroll.

Matching poke bonnets, bonnets with clever double brims, with coy little fur bows, or some with fuzzy white angora edges, will stop traffic. All in all they are the most breath taking baby things you can discover.

For more grownup fashionables of 3 to 6 there are some fascinating high colored coats that will make the most hardened shopper gasp . . . engaging number of wood violet wool trimmed with bands of soft gray krimmer, lovely pale green creations made with short shoulder capes banded in nutria;

Good Morning!

The country doctor cycle is with us. More power to it, if it keeps swinging our way films like "One Man's Journey"!

Step into this hospital room, please! See the girl on the bed? She's had an operation and great specialists have given her up. They know their medicine. They know their instruments. They know that Letty SHOULD live. She's not going to—and, baffled, they watch her sink.

But Dr. Eli Watt, who has known and loved her from childhood, views her with keen, tender old eyes that see the truth.

It's just a human, unclinical thing he does to turn the tide, but Letty lives—and at a great banquet a famous surgeon [he'd HAVE to be a mighty big man to do what he does that evening!] honors the elderly sticks practitioner and speaks words that are true as truth. He says, in effect:

"Where we doctors of today fall down is in our neglect of the psyche. We keep up on everything else, but devote scant attention to the human soul and its needs which have a direct bearing on the condition of the body. . . ."

Most of the story is staged in a country town. The "journey" is the life of Dr. Eli Watt, and its episodes that journey's way stations. The narrative is in the nature of a eulogy and is, throughout, a true and touching chronicle.

Lionel Barrymore gives a shrewd and sympathetic portrayal of Watt and he has excellent cast support. The director knew his business.

No doubt about it—this homely tale will go straight to the heart of the average movie fan.

BLOOD MONEY

SYNOPSIS.

Uncas Cresap and his Chinese servant are found dead in the upper room of Cresap's boathouse on Kettle pond, near the eastern end of Long Island. Gilbert Jonathan Redd, Cresap's stepbrother, keeps a written private account of developments in the case. A blow on the forehead from a slender, sharp edged implement killed Cresap. The cause of Wong Gee's death is not apparent. Capt. Bray, a special investigator, is an old friend of Redd's. Redd is a former police reporter. Florence Dane, Cresap's niece and an orphan, lived with him. Redd was fond of Florence's mother. He bought a home near Cresap's in order to protect Florence. Cresap made his fortune in the far east. Redd freely admits to Bray his hatred of Cresap, who was a drunkard and a débauché. There seemed to be some secret bond between Cresap and two of his servants, the Chinaman and a dwarf, Sabino. Cresap disapproved of Florence's moneyless sweetheart, Gregory Thorpe. Thorpe disappears. He is found in a hospital, victim of a hitch hiker, before Cresap's death, which exonerates him. Florence takes a room in the hospital. She leaves there and can't be found. Sabino also disappears. Bray believes that they are seeking a common rendezvous. Florence is found and brought back to fetters to jail in Riverhead, Long Island. Bray threatens to persecute Florence and to have her indicted for murder in the first degree. Redd promises to produce Sabino if Bray will wait until morning. Redd returns home and writes a full confession to the murders of Cresap, Wong Gee and Sabino.

INSTALLMENT XLVIII.

A PLANTED PLOT.

Before midnight of that fateful night, being filled with a serenity so unabridged and so self-satisfying as to be akin to exultation, I had slipped my car back into its garage, and I was in my museum hard at it, catching up and tucking in the last remaining loose strands of my structure of defense.

I fastened the tomahawk in a small vise and with a file and an emery wheel I tore down its brass until the cutting edge of the blade had been reduced in length by fully half an inch and in its thickness through by a material fraction of an inch. After that I treated the transformed head with an acid solution which, as I knew by former experience, at once would create a film of seeming corrosion over it, not to be distinguished except by chemical analysis from true verdigris. Then I restored the tag which labeled it specimen 578 and then, before restoring it to the glass case of war clubs, war axes and calumet pipes and ceremonial wands where it belonged, I wiped it off so thoroughly that no finger prints could remain, and when it had slipped from the flannel rag to rest in its proper place, I sifted over it a fine, almost impalpable coat of dust particles so that it would be as one again with its untouched mates.

And after that I tidied up the room, removing from sight all evidences of my labors there.

And after that I went to bed and, though some may think it strange, I don't think it strange that I slept until Mrs. Bevil called me for breakfast. She told me I was sleeping so soundly she had to call my name several times before I roused up.

Until this moment when I cast my mind backward on the week which began with the two killings, it never occurred to me how like unto the nursery rhyme biography of "Solomon Grundy" was the historical windup of the late Manuel Sabino's career on this earth.

Observe, please, the resemblance—or is it merely that here I am letting my fancy run away with me?

On Monday, while he lies drunk, the removal of his chief is carried out. On Tuesday, he turns informer and sets Bray upon Florence. On Wednesday, he attends the inquest and for reasons shortly to be made plain, bargains with the coroner's stenographer for a copy of that portion of Dr. Finch's testimony which relates to the measurements of the wound. That same night—Wednesday night—he confers his first domiciliary visit on this snug cottage. On Thursday, in the evening, he comes prowling again as was proven by his tracks in the powdered ashes on my porch and the scratches on my windows. On Friday night, there is a storm and he does not return, and besides, that is the evening on which he pays his disturbing call upon Florence at the hospital. Saturday is perhaps his busiest day, for on Saturday in the forenoon he tries to telephone through to Florence, and failing there, in the afternoon sends her that fatal telegram and makes his telltale inquiries about railroad connections. And to complete the cycle, on Sunday morning he, being then properly deceased, is buried; and in the twilight of the evening, the faked miracle of his seeming resurrection is simply but satisfactorily accomplished when old Verity thinks he sees Sabino scuffling alongside Pharoah's lane.

He thinks it is Sabino that he sees and calls out to. But who he really sees is me—me, wearing Sabino's flop-brimmed sombrero, me, hobbling just ahead of him—and if you don't believe it is hard work and painful work to scuffle along for fifty yards through a weed grown ditch and you down upon your knees, with another man's shoes strapped, sole downward, over the joint of either knee and your toes held out stiffly behind you so they will not scrape and mar the trail you are intent on leaving, please take a dying man's word for it, that it is exceedingly hard and quite painful.

I can't tell you now of which of two things I was gladder—the realization of how completely old Verity had been befooled, or the coming of the moment when it was safe enough for me to scramble up upon my feet and lose myself behind the trees on the small comb of dry land bordering that little swamp and rub the cramp out of my tortured legs, while the doubly deceived Verity balloed from the side of the road.

For reasons which I hope may be perfectly plain to the reader when he has read on a little farther, it had seemed essential to my scheme of self-preservation that by the evidence presented before the eyes of some credible witness, Sabino, although dead and underground, should be regarded as one alive and well. This done, and successfully done, and by just so much would the contingent danger that Bray might couple Sabino's vanishment with a certain other circumstance he diminished, and by just so much would my own fine prospects of getting off scot free be enhanced. In other words, Sabino must apparently not have disappeared until hours and hours after he actually had disappeared. I hope my language is not getting too involved?

At any rate, that was why I bethought me to keep Sabino's hat and Sabino's shoes after I disposed of Sabino's limp body. That was why, on Sunday afternoon I drove over to Cresap's and asked Verity to tell Sabino, when next he saw him, that I craved words with him—an integral part of the planted plot, that was. And haply, that was why Verity, being on the lookout for Sabino, was all the more easily deluded when I bobbed up in the gloaming from where I had been crouched at the roadside awaiting his coming, and scuttled on ahead of him, creating an illusion which left him absolutely convinced of its authenticity.

Having told this, it seems to me now that with all save two of Sunday's concluding steps the observant reader should be quite familiar. Suffer me then, as briskly as may be—for I myself grow weary with the telling—to set down for him these final descriptions:

As may be remembered, it was at somewhere around ten o'clock on Saturday night when I shot the old dog Peggy, and it was getting on toward midnight when, having written an entry to that effect in this narrative, I went to bed.

I slept, as it turned out, upwards of three hours. Then I found myself sitting up in bed, eyes wide open, and ears listening. What awakened me, I can't tell you, but what I can tell you is that so soon as I did awaken, there came upon me a fixed purpose to make the rounds of the house and to do it very, very quietly. Yet I could hear nothing.

I made no light. I was barefooted, bareheaded, too, for that matter. From my bedroom I entered the dining room—all dark and all quiet there. I went on into the study and it was filled with emptiness and with blackness. But as I turned toward the door communicating with the museum, I stiffened to a halt, rather like a bird dog on point, I imagine.

Between the bottom breadth of the door and the worn saddle of the door frame, was a little crack like a long, very narrow slot, and through this minute crevice came a trickle of light, playing dimly upon the floor in front of me.

I crept to that door. Very, very gently I turned the knob, luckily it was not one of those knobs having a rusty shank in a rusty socket, which cry out when you turn them. Very, very slowly I pushed the door ajar.

Sabino was in that next room. On beyond, an opened window told how he had entered. Almost behind him something else was open too—my large, flat cabinet, the one where, among other things, I keep my tomahawks and my war clubs. Its glass lid was raised and propped back and for proof that it had been ransacked, some of its contents were scattered over the trestle upon which the case rested.

Second Child Should Never Dethrone First

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Sharing the coming of the second baby with the first born and how well many mothers manage it was yesterday's subject. Today let us go on from where we left off, that is, from the time when the new baby is ensconced.

The practical point is that she actually hasn't the hours to devote to her older child as she did before. This is quite normal and as it should be. The fact remains, however, that a new second baby means new adjustments for the first child and it is the business of both mother and father to keep this in mind in their relation to the older youngster.

Many people who do not dig below surfaces will discount the fact that anything radical happens to the first when a second baby is born.

Definite kinds of behavior have been noticed to appear when the second baby comes along. Two very marked ones are a reversion in toilet habits, and mealtime difficulties. What these two changes in his actions obtain for a first child are attention—the center of the stage which he held undisputed for so long.

No one likes to be dethroned. So the parents of a new baby must very consciously contrive to keep their first child from feeling so. This is not done by protestations or show of affection, but by a sustained interest in the doings and personality of the first child, by a closer companionableness, and by planning for some time very specially for and alone with the first born. Also I think it important not to allow visitors and relatives who have formerly been quite devoted to the first little son or daughter to ignore her in the superlative enthusiasms that a new baby arouses in the average truly feminine breast.

BY MARY MEADE.

Saturday again and the cookery clinic opens with a recipe for shirred eggs which is in Monday's breakfast menu and which many of our readers have requested.

SHIRRED EGGS.

Butter small baking dishes or custard cups and line the bottom and sides with fine bread or cracker crumbs. Break an egg into a cup and carefully slip one into each of the lined dishes. Cover with seasoned, buttered crumbs and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until the white is firm and the crumbs brown.

Mrs. D. M. has requested instructions for drying corn in the oven, using cream and sugar. We have been unable to find directions for this process and wonder if any of you readers are familiar with it. If you are, send the recipe in and we'll be glad to pass it on to Mrs. M.

Mrs. M. M. writes: "Will you please tell me why the omelets I make will not stay folded?" We would suggest, Mrs. M., that you cut two half inch slits across from each other in the edge of the omelet. Then fold from slit to slit and if the omelet is not too high for the pan you've cooked it in it should stay contentedly folded.

Next comes a request for a recipe for mint jelly from Mrs. K. W., who has a great deal of mint growing in her garden:

MINT JELLY.

1½ cups water
1 cup mint leaves
6½ cups sugar
1 cup vinegar
1 cup liquid pectin
Green coloring

Mix the water, vinegar, and coloring, and add the mint leaves and sugar. Bring to the boiling point. Add the liquid pectin and boil for one minute. Remove from the fire, let stand one minute, and skim off the mint leaves. Fill glasses and seal with melted paraffin while hot.

Expect Quarrels in Wedded Life, but Be Advised

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Several of the wives were called upon to talk. One old dear set the theater in an uproar by declaring if any couple that had lived together for fifty years or more said their lives were without quarrels, they were telling a whopper, or words to that effect.

We talked yesterday with a man who has been married thirty years. He voiced the same sentiment.

"'Quarrels?' we've had plenty of 'em," he said. "But why shouldn't we? How could two blooming egotists live together and not run amuck every so often?"

"But," he added, "we knew when we got married we were going to have quarrels. We had them when we were going around together before marriage. We just expected every so often there'd be a storm. But that didn't stop us from getting on pretty well these thirty years."

The trouble with most young couples, further volunteered this marriage experienced one, is that they know darn well they have differences of opinions, differing tastes, but they foolishly expect marriage to make them one in everything.

[Rayhuff-Richter Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Lubliner of 4743 Drexel boulevard announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Muriel, to Jack Alfred Winter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Winter of Milwaukee, on Monday at the home of the bride's parents. Miss Lubliner attended National Park seminary, Washington, D. C., and Mr. Winter is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin.

Art of Makeup Now Important to Photography

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Photography, so far as women are concerned, has a pretty close tieup with beauty. At least, no one ever heard of the feminine sex being photographed with the hope of looking ugly.

Inspired by the photography that comes out of Hollywood, no doubt, some of our local photographers are applying makeup artistry to their compositions. In fact, some of them have a tieup with beauty salons, whose operators are called in before the picture is "shot."

Paul Stone, Chicago photographer, claims it was Ina Claire who taught him the importance of special makeup for the camera years ago. He finds the average woman isn't nearly so interested in having her character featured as in having her "bad points" blotted out or in getting the most beauty possible for her photographic money.

One of his makeup applications consists of the use of a grease paint foundation in flesh tint, then a powdering with a sunburn powder generously mixed with white. The grease paint covers up skin imperfections. Where there are no obvious blemishes a good nontheatrical foundation will do, and then the powder. The idea is to get the skin creamy looking or let the suntan powder supply a health glow.

No cheek rouge is used; it makes hollows. But eye makeup is something else again in photography. Eye shadow is applied more heavily than would be worn in other occasion wear and it goes higher toward the brow. Eyebrows often need tapering. Eye shadow in the camera conceals fine lines, Mr. Stone says.

Persons of every age, he contends, should be photographed with mouth corners up. It's a healthy and youthful arch of the lip. If a lower lip needs remodeling it is done with the grease paint stick. It's tricky to get just the right color and amount of lipstick. Too much makes the mouth a big blot. A certain desirable sheen on lips is secured with a thin, translucent coating of a greasy lipstick.

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Neil N. Campbell of Washington Circle, Lake Forest, announce the marriage of their daughter, Dorothy, to Charles F. McIntosh, which took place Sept. 18 at 5 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church of Lake Forest, the Rev. George Roberts officiating. Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh will be at home shortly at 12 Holden Green, Cambridge, Mass.

Mrs. Talbott Hostess to 96 Fair Visitors

lege in 1931 and the bridegroom was graduated from Dartmouth in 1930.

Miss Catherine Eisenstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Eisenstein, will become the bride of Henry Leonard Glidden of Highland Park this afternoon in the Holy Name cathedral. The service will be read by Father Hayes in the presence of the bride's parents and her brothers, Louis A. Jr. and Frederick, and a few of Mr. Glidden's most intimate friends, including Theodore C. Butz of Highland Park, Mr. and Mrs. Albert T. Perrson, Norvert Kierney and Fred C. Barkman. Mr. Glidden and his bride will leave immediately after the ceremony for New York where they will spend the winter.

Mr. Glidden's daughter, Peggy, was married to John Roderick Rogers of Ausable Falls, N. Y., on Sept. 16.

Ann McKeown Is Engaged.

Mr. and Mrs. John Crawford McKeown of Hubbard Woods today are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Ann Winifred, to William S. Miles Jr., son of Mrs. William S. Miles of Peoria.

Miss McKeown was graduated from the North Shore Country Day school and spent a year at Les Fougeres, Switzerland, before making her debut at Christmas time, 1929. The following year she entered the Leland Powers School of the Theater in Boston, where she was graduated last spring.

Mr. Miles is a graduate of Princeton university and the Harvard school of business administration.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Edmund Smith of Forest avenue, Evanston, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Florence Eleanor, to Claude Bowman Davis Jr., son of Claude Bowman Davis of Farwell avenue, Chicago. Miss Smith is a graduate of the Latin School for Girls and of Wellesley college. Mr. Davis was graduated from the University of Illinois. The wedding will take place early in November.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

CLASS DAY.

"I'm taking a plane to Chicago in about an hour—haven't yet seen A Century of Progress, and as we're almost through for the day I'm going to give you fellows an easy one," said Prof. Fordney to his class in criminology.

"Some of you didn't like that 'courier' problem," he continued. "I don't 'trick' you fellows more than twice during the year and then only to see just what your reactions are. My answer to the 'courier' problem, well—I'll tell you it when I return; I'll also tell you about the World's Fair. Now, here we are. Say, you and Keen cut out that fooling," he called to two chaps in the back of the classroom, who were apparently paying little attention to him.

"Wilbur B. Simpson of Providence, R. I., one of America's most famous automobile drivers, was making some tests. He drove one car around a circular track at the rate of ten miles an hour. Then, he took out another and drove it over the same course at a speed of fifty miles an hour. He examined both cars carefully and found that on one a hub cap had come loose. After fixing that he noticed on the other car that a spring leaf had been broken."

The professor smiled and continued: "What I want you fellows to tell me is the average rate of speed per hour Simpson made over the course for the two laps.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

HOW close the past! Reading "Poor Splendid Wings," Frances Winwar's careful weaving of the strange tapestry of the Rossetti circle, the characters all seem as remote as one's parents' babyhood . . . (inconceivable that they should ever have been held helpless in any one's arms) . . . inconceivable that those flaming spirits whose pens and brushes autographed an era should still be tangible to us.

And yet, as one wanders through the amazingly beautiful A Century of Progress exhibition at the Art institute, here before one's very eyes is Dante Gabriel Rossetti's "Beata Beatrix," the paint vivid almost with the brush strokes of that passionate but terrified love that put Elizabeth Siddal immortally on canvas there and immortality on paper in "The Blessed Damozel," but could not, for so many tense and wearing years, take her to his mortal heart as wife.

And then, still under the spell of the nearness, the reality of that canvas, to find in the loop of Chicago the very sonnets which, in his desperation at her death, Rossetti buried between her cheek and hair! On exhibit at Marshall Field & Co.'s book section are seven of the sonnets, the actual sheets of paper which were dramatically disinterred when Rossetti's genius triumphed over his tragically dramatic sorrow.

No "Dead Authors," Declares Speaker.

Ethel M. Colson Brazelton said on Wednesday evening at the meeting at the Illinois Host house, held in honor of a century of Illinois literature, that some one had said that she was to pay tribute to the state's dead authors, and with vigor she wanted to declare "there ARE no dead authors." The youth of today may look upon Rossetti's poems and those of his sister, Christina, the diatribes of Ruskin, the bombasts of Carlyle, the creations of the whole fiery, passionate group as "old-fashioned" and consign them to the only death that any work of creative art can know—the death of silence. But suddenly, through the publication of the work of some one to whom they are still terribly alive, and through the chance of that publication's winning a coveted prize, the thunders of silence have given place to the thunders of talk . . . they all come vividly alive.

Wednesday evening was impressive in its dedication to literature—three or four hundred people as a creative audience listening to the sonorous voice of Carl Sandburg reading an unpublished poem, "Moonlight and Maggots," which tore the audience up by their roots and lifted them into heights of poetry in which most of us would have declared our wings could never bear our weight.

Lew Sarett read two of his animal poems and a longer one concerning courage in the face of death. And many of us thought of Ring Lardner even before his name was mentioned by Vincent Starrett who, as president of the Society of Midland Authors, had charge of the evening. We knew that it was with high courage, even in that slow untying of the knot which bound him to life in those long months with their inevitable end which might have crushed the laugh from his lips, those owl-like eyes of his never lost their spark, nor his lips their smile.

Mr. Lardner wrote some of the bitterest satire that has been written in America, but he did it with a laugh, not a snarl. And he did it with such consummate art that I venture to predict that when a hundred years from now the "dead" authors are exhumed of a day which will seem as quaint to the youth of that day as the pre-Raphaelites do to the youth of this, Ring Lardner will take his rightful place among the few really great writers of his period.

Puts Hervey Allen Among Immortals.

Already, only a few weeks after the publication of "Anthony Adverse" Hervey Allen is being docketed for inclusion in that list. He has been on my docket ever since he wrote "Israfel," the supreme life of Edgar Allan Poe. A brilliant lawyer I know, who was once an ambassador and previously a colonel in the great war, a man whose delightful and subtle mind is overshadowed by his personal charm, declares that Hervey Allen's "Toward the Flame" is the best, but honestly the best, book written by an American about the great war. Biographer, fictional historian, poet is Hervey Allen, and "Anthony Adverse" is being talked about more than any book of the moment. But unlike many books which are talked about, and despite its 1,242 pages, it is being read. And minutely. Charles Collins, our distinguished drama critic, called my attention the other day to some of the source material which Hervey Allen had used [he gathered it the way a bee does pollen at whatever source proved richest]. "You remember a book called 'Adventures of an African Slaver' that came out about 1928?" said Charlie. [I remembered it perfectly—an authentic record of the trips made by a Capt. Theodore Canot in the early nineteenth century and dug up by some bibliophile and reprinted for modern consumption.] "Allen got a lot of stuff for the African and the slave traffic chapters out of that book. Read it again," advised Charlie.

We'll ask Hervey Allen about that—if we can remember to—when he comes with his publisher, John Farrar, in a couple of weeks to see the Fair, the American Library association, Chicago, and probably get writer's cramp on Oct. 21 when he's going to be in Marshall Field's book section autographing copies of his works.

Launch Book By Chicagoans.

Great piles of "Passports for Asia" [disappearing faster than the cakes and tea as autographs were eagerly demanded] greeted the guests on Mr. Kroch's hospitable second floor yesterday afternoon. Most of them already had penetrated into the interior of Asia with the author of the book, our fellow Chicagoan, Beatrice Borland.

Miss Borland's lively record of the jaunt which she and her sister took together is illustrated by her traveling companion. Yesterday they were celebrating literally the first birthday of the book—published Sept. 28 by Frederick A. Stokes company.

Meetings and Lectures

The Chicago Foundation for Literature announces a series of lectures on literature, classical and contemporary, to be given twice a month on Tuesday evenings in the lecture hall of the Real Estate Board building. Fourteen lectures have been scheduled, Oct. 10, Oct. 24, and every first and third Tuesday after that until April.

The Pen and Pencil club announces a series of twenty lectures to be given by Frank Kern Levin beginning next Tuesday and continuing every Tuesday evening at the Knickerbocker hotel at 8 o'clock. The title of the series will be "Methods and Appreciations in Creative Writing."

Under the auspices of the education studio of Central Branch Y. W. C. A. at 59 East Monroe street a course in short story writing will be given by John T. Frederick. This course started last evening at 6 o'clock and will continue weekly through the fall.

Edgar Rice Burroughs will give a short talk and autograph copies of his books in the book section of Marshall Field & Co. this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Norah Hoult's New Novel in Lighter Tone

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—While those writers whose home is in London have in the last two months found it better to leave the town and find relaxation in sea and mountain, other writers, who usually live far away, have been here. Miss Norah Hoult, for instance, who has been spending several months in Ireland, has been visiting us. She came in order to finish her new novel, "Youth Can't Be Served," and now that the book is done she is returning to Ireland for the winter.

"Youth Can't Be Served" is lighter in tone than Miss Hoult's last novel, and her publishers are delighted with it. They expect it to be very popular. Having finished the book, Miss Hoult has been seeing something of London's literary society [at least, that part of it which is not in foreign parts] without in the least being spoiled by her experience of sophisticated conversation.

A writer who is now leaving London in order to obtain quiet for the writing of a new book—the first he has been able to write for some time owing to ill health—is Richard Church. Mr. Church is literary adviser to the firm of Dent, and he is an active and admirable journalist as well as novelist and poet; but he, as others have done, finds the London atmosphere unfriendly to creative work.

He has obtained a cottage in the country, and he is retiring to it for the sake of uncomplicated literary activity. The result will be seen in good time. The book is well begun and the winter should see its completion.

Meanwhile there will be much excitement in the scholastic world over the new novel by Miss G. E. Trevelyan. This is the second novel of a highly educated young woman whose "Applus and Virginia" showed her to be very original in a rather frigid way. It is called "Hot House," and the hothouse of the title is none other than a famous woman's college at Oxford university.

SATURDAY REVIEW...

Gets Out a Special Fashion-News Edition

Frocks are making necklines important this year. Much of the fashion excitement is under the chin (note the illustrations), and then the rest of the frock, from neck to hem, devotes itself to achieving the new very feminine silhouette—small waistlines, more rounding curves.

Coats are making it a point to please everybody! They give you a wide choice of furs—beaver, mink, caracul, Persian, fox, squirrel, Kolinsky, and so on—and they have most "original" ways of using it—ascots, square shawl collars, small circular collars, sleeves (half or full), deep borders. As for line—take yours straight or princess—you can't go wrong if you choose here.

Suits—fashion interest centers in the length of the coat. Some coats end mid-way between fingertip and knee; some are the new two-thirds length; and on down they go to the definitely "long coat"—like the one in the illustration here.

Velveteen Is the Very Latest Word in Blouses, $3.50

The metal-button style is adapted from Lyolene—the wide shoulder style from Lucille Paray. Both are to be had in black, brown, red 32 to 38.

Blouses, Fourth Floor.

A Suit

Long coat! That's the distinctive feature of this rough woolen suit. In black with caracul collar; Rhumba, green, or brown with Jap weasel or squirrel. Sizes 14 to 44.

$59.75

Suits, Fourth Floor.

"17" Frocks

Whose velvet bow—a great big smashing one—provides the "under-the-chin" interest. It is of faille. Black, green, rum, brown. 11 to 17.

"17," Fifth Floor.

Lingerie

Fagoting on shell-pink vests, panties and bloomers of glove silk and rayon. A thin elastic in the back of the belt. Priced each

$1.15

Frock

Tucked yoke makes an interesting neckline in this frock of pure rabbits' hair woolen. Cruise blue, red, brown, coral, navy blue. 14 to 20.

The New 'Coat Hats'

Allow for Big Fur Collars

The Chin-Chin—of fine fur felt—fits so close it feels like part of you—and has loads of important fashion details packed into its small self. Note how the interest rises to the top. Hat sketched directly below.

The Coat (Right)

Large beaver collar and deep beaver cuffs have a young and flattering way with a rough woolen coat! Note the elbow detail. In black, brown, dark green, eel gray. 36 to 44.

$79.75

Moderate Price Coats, Fourth Floor.

Striped foulard lapels and bow show that this silk frock is neck-conscious. Black, brown, rust, green. 12 to 20.

$15

Moderate Price Frocks, Fourth Floor.

A Perfect Beret—

Bag

Handbags, First Floor.

Renaud's "Parfum Jewels"—straight from Paris to you. Even quite hard-to-please ladies are going to be thrilled by this new perfume. It's making its appearance at Carson's in dainty crystal-like bottles. A generous supply, and so inexpensive that you can try all six odeurs before you decide on your favorite. Make this the occasion to see the new and much larger Toilet Articles Section!

Our Bag Section, in its new quarters, is simply brimming over with stunning new styles. Copies made from originals under our own supervision. Lines and details, which made the original stand out, carefully reproduced. Perfect fabrics for new fall costumes—woolens, satins, velvets, velveteens, corduroys, suede, calfskin, and grained leathers, too! Sophisticated 1933 trimmings—mirror clasps or ornaments, metal trimmings.

Mandrucca Shoes for every "younger set" wardrobe which says, "I need a pair of broguish looking shoes that wear!" These Mandrucca shoes fill the bill to a "T". They're comfortable as can be. Thanks to the moulded inner sole, they require no breaking in.

Silk Hosiery Sale—and our hosiery section is famous for its sales. Here's another coming to a close—one day more! Sheer chiffon silk hosiery at a price we do not believe we could possibly duplicate today. Examine the fine quality—see for yourself what a great value this is.

FONSECA SIGNS TO MANAGE SOX ONE MORE YEAR

Plans Wholesale Shakeup.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Lew Fonseca, manager of the White Sox in 1932 and 1933, will keep on managing Mr. Comiskey's outfit in 1934—and with assurances that the lads will do much better come next summer. President Comiskey signed his skipper to a new one year contract yesterday after coming to Chicago from his country estate, near Eagle River, Wis.

LEW FONSECA.

To manage the Sox for three years is a distinction few have attained and a task none has attempted since the late Kid Gleason's régime came to a close at the end of the 1923 season. Two years—has been tops since Gleason went away.

It Was No Surprise.

The reappointment of Fonseca was not a surprise to persons familiar with the activities of the south side ball club. Fonseca had been consulted in moves made toward strengthening the team for next year, a consideration not in accordance with the Comiskey bouncing technique. It long has been the policy to give a slipping manager what is known as "the old chill." When the cold blast was not turned on Fonseca it was taken for granted he would be given further chances to do something toward improving the sad state in which the Sox have been continuously since 1920.

The reappointment of Fonseca probably was bad news to no fewer than eight of the present White Sox roster. Fonseca has made it clear that certain changes must be made and his reappointment obviously is interpreted as an O. K. on his revamping plans.

Some May Survive.

Some of those slated for the ax may redeem themselves in the impending city series to the extent of being taken to spring training. But there is sure to be much action regardless of the outcome of the city series. The pitching department will receive Fonseca's attention first, it is said. But it will not stop there. Fonseca is known to be dissatisfied with his catching lineup and he wants to add two or three hitters to the roster who can be either outfielders or infielders.

Reappointment of Fonseca was made in no jubilant mood over the showing of the Sox this season. The Sox moved up from seventh to sixth, but sixth is a long way from the first division berth that had been anticipated last September, when Mr. Comiskey purchased Al Simmons, Jimmy Dykes, and Mule Haas from the Philadelphia Athletics.

After the rehiring of the musical San Francisco magician Mr. Comiskey explained that he had not blamed Fonseca for the foldup of the team after midseason. Though he did not say as much, it is suspected that Mr. Comiskey was amazed that Fonseca was able to keep the team up in the race as long as he did.

Deals in Offing.

At the conference yesterday Fonseca reported on conferences he had had with officials of other American league teams and what players he believes are available if the proper kind of deals can be arranged.

Mr. Comiskey and Fonseca both are noncommittal in discussing possibilities, but it has been rumored in New York, Cleveland, and Philadelphia that the Sox have been dickering with the American league clubs in those cities.

Columbus Wins Third in Row Over Bisons, 11-5

Columbus, O., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Columbus made it three in a row from Buffalo tonight by winning the fourth game of the little world series, 11 to 5. The series will be resumed in Buffalo tomorrow night. Clarence Heise and Bill Lee kept Buffalo's 10 hits well scattered except in the sixth inning, when the Bisons bunched four for four runs.

SOX AND CUBS GO BACK TO WORK; PREP FOR SERIES

Hose Play Browns Here; Bruins Tackle Cards.

Veeck in Hospital

WILLIAM L. VEECK, president of the Chicago Cubs, was removed from his home at Hinsdale yesterday to St. Luke's hospital for observation. Mr. Veeck has been ill of influenza for the last week and when he showed no improvement his physician ordered him to the hospital for examination.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs and White Sox, who have been hanging around for several afternoons waiting to officially close the 1933 season, will have their chances today and tomorrow. The Cubs will show up in St. Louis for games today and tomorrow with the Cardinals. Meanwhile the Sox will be at home entertaining Rogers Hornsby's Browns and any cash customers who might happen to stray into the premises.

Incidentally both the Cubs and Sox will be trying more than to collect a couple of victories as a fitting conclusion to a summer that has been more or less of a disappointment. They'll be trying to get themselves primed for their city series, which will be taken up next Wednesday afternoon at Wrigley field.

English to Return.

The Cubs' appearance at St. Louis probably will be featured by the return of Woody English, the mysterious invalid, to duty at third base. At least, Manager Charley Grimm has promised to make this move on the basis that English no longer is suffering from whatever it was that ailed him for the last several months. The employment of the infielding expert should set at rest the various hunches that English's ailments were a poor explanation for some sort of team dissension. English, if he remains in sound health, also will perform in the city series.

Today or tomorrow Guy Bush will handle the Cubs' pitching, this being a plan with two objectives. For one thing, Grimm regards Bush as his best bet to make sure that the Cubs are not dislodged from third place. And Bush, who has 19 victories to his credit, is ambitious to complete the season with 20. His best previous record was 19 victories. The Cubs will have to look at Tex Carleton and Dizzy Dean, which is not pleasant to anticipate.

Sox Have Field Day.

The Sox activities today and tomorrow will be garnished by side shows. The women fans will be admitted free this afternoon and also any sons who show up with their fathers. Tomorrow the althetes possessing skill along such lines as throwing, running, and fungo hitting will take part in a field day program prior to the game. This competition will start at 2:30 p. m.

Some of the Sox rookies imported since the last appearance at home also wil lbe paraded before the patrons in the two remaining games.

GEHRIG MARRIES CHICAGO GIRL IN NEW ROCHELLE

New Rochelle, N. Y., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Lou Gehrig, New York Yankees first baseman, and Eleanor Grace Twitchell of 6718 Merrill avenue, Chicago, were married at the home of Gehrig's mother today. Walter G. Otto, mayor of New Rochelle, performed the ceremony.

They applied for a license this morning, but announcement was withheld by City Clerk Eugene M. Heiney until after the ceremony. Because Gehrig wanted to make the announcement at the Yankee-Washington game at Yankee stadium this afternoon, Mayor Otto said he had been pledged to secrecy.

Gehrig plans to finish the season, which ends Sunday, and then take a honeymoon trip.

He met his wife at a party four years ago. Since then she has been a daily spectator at the White Sox games whenever the Yankees were in town.

THE MELANCHOLY, GHOST WRITING DAYS ARE COME

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 29.—The citizens are confronted once more with the annual outbreak of mock literature produced in the names of the world series athletes and their next of kin and by the coaches of the leading football teams. As the citizens should know by this time, 99 per cent of this journalism is absolute phoney, in the perpetration of which the authors in question play no part beyond the acceptance of bribes for the use of their names.

The rest of it, though genuine, is invariably so terrible that the offense of the athlete or coach who insists on rolling his own is even a little bit worse than that of the cheerful liar who permits himself to be named as the author of pieces which he may never even take the trouble to read. The ghosted essays are produced by journeymen, anyway, which means that they will come out at least readable, though never literary.

It's Hard Work Making Them Stupid Enough.

If the ghost does happen to be a fairly good newspaper writer, he is likely to remember, or to be reminded by the copy desk, that, after all, he isn't writing in his own name nor for an intelligent class of readers, but in the name of some distinguished faker who consists almost entirely of necks, ears, feet, hair, and meat, and that any one who is dumb enough to read such matter at all must be too dumb to understand intelligent language.

The football coaches engaged in this sort of fraud are somewhat more contemptible than the world series types, because these football phoneys assume a pose of virtue before the wide-eyed adolescents, many of them education-proof, who come under their care for physical, moral, and spiritual guidance. It is by no means uncommon for a football coach to preach fair play, honesty, honor, and the square deal to his charges, as the varsity athletes sometimes are called, while some mischievous hack in a newspaper or syndicate plant is grinding out journalism under his name for which he will collect pay that otherwise might have gone to a reporter in need of a job.

The practice always has been considered to be pretty disreputable, even where the party concerned actually performed the writing in his own round, schoolboy hand. It was obvious in all such cases that he wasn't selling writing or ideas, but just the use of his name in unfair competition with the members of the writing trade. The practice has had the sanction of some very noted Americans under the present national administration, but to say that it is any less phoney or unfair on that account would be saying altogether too much.

The New Deal Hasn't Improved Situation.

The noted Americans of the present national administration, who have become such prolific and prosperous journalists since the election returns were counted last November, cannot go back beyond that date to show that they were journalists all the time. They are all world series athletes and football coaches under the skin.

Of course, the chief responsibility for such fakery rests with the press itself. It takes a lot of gall in a publisher to denounce politicians for their undeniably mean or dishonest operations if he flies the Blue Eagle at his masthead in the same edition that carries fake stories purporting to have been written by people who had nothing whatever to do with their composition in space which could be devoted to the work of legitimate unemployed members of the craft.

I read, on the death of Ring Lardner, that he originated the skeptical or cynical school of sport reporting, and I suppose that is actually so. But this spirit, once he kindled it, certainly has been fanned by the players and coaches themselves, who have shown themselves up as venal and mean and greedy enough, with all their pay and pickings, to cut in for a few more dollars on the pay of the men who made them famous in the first place.

EQUIPOISE ENDS RACING CAREER AT HAVRE TODAY

Rules 7 to 5 Favorite in $10,000 Handicap.

Havre de Grace, Md., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Equipoise, C. V. Whitney's turf champion, rated as one of the greatest horses on American tracks, will make the last start of his career in the $10,000 Havre de Grace handicap tomorrow.

Ten outstanding thoroughbreds will compete against Equipoise.

Equipoise has won seven of the eight races in which he ran this season. He will carry the top weight of 132 pounds in the one and one-eighth mile race. The field will include Dark Secret, which defeated Equipoise in the Jockey Club Gold Cup; Mate, Watch Him, Okapi, Dark Hope, Tambour, Indian Runner, Sun Archer, Osculator, and Inlander.

Equipoise Is 7 to 5 Favorite.

He was the 7 to 5 favorite. Dark Secret, which beat him in the Jockey Club Gold Cup, was at 2 to 1. There was backing for Indian Runner also and for Tambour, Mate and Watch Him, the latter owned by Mrs. John Hertz of Chicago.

In the Arlington handicap Equipoise carried 135 pounds and beat Watch Him by a length and a half. Watch Him carried 106 pounds in that race, and will be asked to pack only 104 pounds in tomorrow's tussle.

Dark Secret Carries 125 Pounds.

This will be the first time this year that Indian Runner has hooked up with Equipoise. Indian Runner carries 119 pounds. His chances were not considered very bright. Dark Secret must pick up 125 pounds, the same package he carried when he defeated Equipoise in the long route of the Jockey Club Gold Cup.

Equipoise has won $320,970 in his brilliant turf career. If he can win the Havre de Grace handicap tomorrow he will pick up an additional $8,500, which will send him into third place among the high money winning horses of the world.

Workman Predicts Victory.

Sonny Workman will be in the saddle on Equipoise. Workman declared tonight that Equipoise would win, that he would start running about the three-eighths pole, and that he will win by at least two lengths. Trainer Tom Healey was just as confident. Equipoise drew the No. 1 post position, but Workman says he will leave the barrier flying.

CROWD RIOTS AS CHOCOLATE WINS ON K. O.

PARIS, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Kid Chocolate, world's featherweight champion, scored a technical knockout over Nick Bensa in the final round of a ten round match tonight that precipitated a riot.

Referee Rene Schemann stopped the fight after Bensa had been floored for a nine count, and the judges concurred in Schemann's decision. The crowd resented the action, and in the midst of the roar of protest deluged the ring with missiles. The timekeeper was hit by a chair, but not badly hurt. Police reinforcements quieted the crowd.

MICHIGAN STATE FACES GRINNELL ELEVEN TODAY

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—A record breaking crowd for an opening game at Michigan State college is expected tomorrow when the first Spartan team coached by Charles Bachman meets Grinnell college. Tomorrow is children's day and thousands of school youngsters and Boy Scouts will be admitted free.

This fact and the known strength of the Grinnell eleven are expected to fill the East Lansing stadium. Bachman expects to have eight letter men in the starting lineup.

Illini Enlist New Back for Drake Game

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Announcement that Les Lindberg, sophomore half back from Lockport, was eligible to play against Drake tomorrow was welcome news at Illinois today. He will be at left half back in place of Frank Froschauer, who will be laid up a week with a strained tendon.

Lindberg, who stands 6 feet 2 and weighs 170 pounds, was regarded as the best freshman back last year. He is likely to be assigned considerable punting duty.

Bill Hedtke, letterman in 1931, will play center in the absence of Bob Bloom, with Capt. Walser probably destined to watch the game from the bench on account of a charley horse. Dave Cook will start at full back. Cliff Kuhn, sophomore guard, is the only inexperienced lineman.

The Illinois and Drake reserve teams will play a 30 minute curtain raiser beginning at 1:15.

ILLINOIS.		DRAKE.
Frink	L. E.	Deskin
Grasz	L. T.	Anderson
Kuhn	L. G.	Brechler

INDIANA PLAYS MIAMI.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 29—[Special.]—Indiana university's football squad ended training for the Miami university game here tomorrow with a signal drill today.

Two sophomores, Walker, full back, and Antonini, end, are scheduled to start. The rest of the team is composed of veterans.

TEMPLE WINS ITS FIRST GAME FOR POP WARNER, 26-6

Scores Four Touchdowns on South Carolina.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 29.—(AP)—A well-balanced Temple university football team, making its first start under Glenn [Pop] Warner's régime, scored four touchdowns on South Carolina for a 26 to 6 triumph in Temple stadium tonight.

SO. METHODIST WINS, 14 TO 0.

Lubbock, Tex., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Southern Methodist university's Mustangs won, 14 to 0, over Texas Tech tonight. Robert Wilson, 150 pound half back, and J. R. (Jackrabbit) Smith, quarter back, made the touchdowns, both on short dashes. Capt. Ray Fuqua kicked the goals.

BRADLEY LOSES, 6-0.

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Ripon college battered its way to a 6 to 0 victory over Bradley Tech tonight in the first game of the local football season. After threatening to score three times in the first half the invaders started a strong offensive midway in the third quarter to push the ball to the one yard line, from where Full Back Harold Duac plunged over.

Aubrey Powell, Ripon half back, bore the brunt of the attack and was the principal force which carried Ripon to twelve first downs, as compared to Bradley's two.

ILLINOIS COLLEGE WINS.

Jacksonville, Ill., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Scoring a touchdown in the last minute of play, Illinois college tonight won its opening game of the Little Nineteen conference season from Shurtleff, 6 to 0. A pass from Pacotti to Sweeney started the victory drive and the latter carried the ball over from the 3 yard line. Illinois made ten first downs to four for Shurtleff.

AUGUSTANA WINS, 35-0.

Rock Island, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Augustana won its ninth consecutive game tonight, defeating Carthage, 35 to 0, in its opening Little Nineteen conference game. Bob Marack, Chicago sophomore, made two touchdowns and four points after touchdowns to lead Augustana's attack.

DETROIT BEATS NORMAL.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 29.—(AP)—University of Detroit's football team, with a veteran back field but an untried line, defeated Michigan State Normal, 31 to 0, tonight in the first game of season for both schools.

Two complete Detroit teams were used interchangeably. Earl McCracken, half back, got two of the touchdowns, one on a 31 yard run. The other touchdowns were made by Nott, Storrie, on a long pass from Nott, and Pete Rajkovich.

COE BEATS LUTHER.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Coe college defeated Luther college of Decorah, Ia., tonight, 12 to 3. Augie of Luther, drop-kicked from the 27 yard line to score against the Coe reserves in the second quarter. The Coe regulars, led by Freddie Hild, midget half back, played the second half and the Kohawks scored twice, Hild and Saccaro carrying the ball over for the touchdowns.

DUQUESNE, 19; W. V. U., 7.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Duquesne university football team defeated West Virginia university, 19 to 7. It was the Dukes' second triumph over their rivals in two years and almost a personal one for Art Strutt, right half back. Twice he intercepted mountaineer passes and his passing to Zaninelli was the Dukes' principal offensive weapons.

BUCKNELL WINS, 34 TO 0.

Lewisburg, Pa., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Three Bucknell elevens defeated Lebanon Valley tonight, 34 to 0, displaying a powerful running attack in every period except the first. Meyers scored the first touchdown early in the second period on a 34 yard run.

W-G-N Will Broadcast Northwestern-Iowa Game

W-G-N, the CHICAGO TRIBUNE station, will broadcast the Northwestern-Iowa game from Soldiers' field this afternoon starting at 1:45 o'clock. Gov. Horner of Illinois, Gov. Herring of Iowa, and the national commander of the American Legion, Louis A. Johnson, will speak between halves.

GRIM HAWKEYE ELEVEN TESTS POTENT PURPLE

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.

Northwestern university's Wildcats will show their 1933 claws this afternoon at Soldiers' field before an expected crowd of 35,000 Purple sympathizers, Hawkeye partisans here for Iowa day at A Century of Progress, advance guard of visiting Legionnaires and public officials from state, city, and afar.

GOV. HENRY HORNER.

With no intention of being unduly clawed on this occasion the University of Iowa eleven arrived yesterday afternoon, an aggregation heralded at Iowa City as the beginning of a gridiron renaissance. A big husky outfit, it gave no suspicion of inferiority complex as Coach Ossie Solem in his second year of tutelage sent the squad through brief limbering up formations on the fresh sodded gridiron shortly after arrival.

Three Governors Attend.

To view this unusual feature of a championship contest, affecting Big Ten standing, in the very first game of the season will be an array of notables which theoretically should spur on the rivals. The game, originally scheduled for Oct. 7, was advanced one week to coincide with Iowa day at the Fair.

In the boxes will be Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois, Gov. Clyde L. Herring of Iowa, and Gov. Paul McNutt of Indiana, past general commander of the American Legion, who will make their way to the field after a luncheon at the University club. President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university will have as guests Mayor and Mrs. Edward J. Kelly of Chicago, Mayor and Mrs. Charles H. Bartlett of Evanston, University Trustee Melvin Traylor and Mrs. Traylor.

Other dignitaries present will include President Rufus Dawes of A Century of Progress, Admiral Wat T. Cluverius of Great Lakes, Maj. Gen. Frank E. Parker of the Sixth corps area, Gen. Milton Foreman, Maj. Gen. George Leach, Department Commander Charles C. Kapschull of the American Legion, Department Commander Leo Duster of the Iowa Legion.

Prestige to Uphold.

All these imposing names will sink into oblivion at 2 o'clock when the referee's whistle sends 22 eager young men into action. On the one side, Northwestern, from which much is expected this fall, wants to prove some of the kind things said about its prowess and of the newcomers to its ranks.

On the other side is grim determination on the part of Iowa. The Hawkeyes have not won a scheduled conference game since 1929. During this period reigned, in effect, discouragement and deflation following temporary suspension from the Big Ten. To remedy this situation and to bring Iowa to its rightful place and one time athletic position in the Big Ten, Coach Solem was lured from his position at Drake university.

Solem, popular chap and efficient coach, almost at once welded together discordant elements among Iowa alumni and set about building for the future. It was too great a task his first season, and the Hawkeyes, except in spirit and morale, were not greatly different.

Sophomores Add Power.

The reason was physical. Football material, which normally would have enrolled at Iowa City, went elsewhere during the confusion period. Iowa's greatest weakness last year was its lack of consistent offense. It could not keep the ball, and obviously a team cannot score unless it has the ball. Its back field was too light to crash and too light to hold opponents when backing up the line. Just one example, Page, about 160 pounds, since transferred to end, was at full back.

To give more power, five sophomores will be in the starting lineup this afternoon. Hoover and Crayne, sophomores, with Fisher, a former reserve, and Joe Laws, veteran, at the pilot's post, are in the back field. Crayne is a crashing driver who reminds some optimistic Hawkeyes of Gordon Locke of the one time Iowa champions.

BY FRENCH LANE.

A $35,000 turf beauty, purchased in England by the Chappell brothers of Rockford, Ill., more than three years ago, bloomed in all its glory at Washington Park yesterday afternoon.

The beauty's name is Sherab, a son of Tetratema-Sherry II., which represents nearly all the royal thoroughbred blood in England. He raced as a 2 year old over there and showed much promise. Then the Chappell brothers, seeking a sire for the thoroughbred nursery they have established near Rockford, paid a price which was reported to have been $35,000 for him.

They didn't want to put such a young horse into the stud, so they decided to race him for two or three seasons.

First Victory in Chicago.

Accustomed to running the opposite direction and over turf in England, it took Sherab a long time to acquaint himself with racing conditions in America. For three years he has been running around the tracks in Chicago, and this was the first time he ever had been able to reach the winning post.

It was his twelfth start this year. He started ten times last year and he started nearly a dozen times this year before.

The Chappell brothers evidently are most persistent young fellows. They came to the conclusion that Sherab would have to win a race for them in America before he could become the sultan in their thoroughbred harem.

They must have lost heart many times, for he was not only beaten all the time but was down around the eighth pole when the battle ended. He didn't seem to be able to learn our racing methods.

In the Kensington purse yesterday, which engaged horses of all ages at six furlongs, he was a different horse. Class stood out all over him.

Loses Lead; Regains It.

He stepped right out with the leaders when Starter Morrissey gave them the word. He hesitated on the turn into the home stretch, where Baby Stare took the lead for an instant.

Jockey Melvin Lewis squirmed him to the outside after this happened and again drove him on toward the leaders. He came in fine stride, mowed down horse after horse and was going away from his rivals to win by a nose as the struggle ended.

Not many in the crowd of 6,500 were willing to bet on Sherab after his numerous failures. As a result, he paid $23.36 when he pushed his big gray head in front. He was at $11.80 to place and $7.80 to show. Baby Stare paid $7.78 to place and $6.16 to show. Chauvenet, which finished third, paid $7.06 to show.

RICHARDS AND HUNTER REACH DOUBLES FINALS

Rye, N. Y., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Vincent Richards and Frank Hunter, seeded No. 1 and 2, respectively, in the singles, won their way into the final round of the doubles play in the national professional tennis tournament at the Westchester Country club today.

Richards paired with Charles Wood of Bernardsville, N. J., to defeat George Agutter and Robert Murray of New York in straight sets, 6-1, 6-4, 6-1. Hunter, with Ted Rericha of New York as his partner, won two matches. They defeated Herman Peterson, Larchmont, N. Y., and Arthur Randolph, Hartford, Conn., in the quarter finals, 6-3, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, and then turned back Paul Heston of Washington, D. C., and Edwin Faulkner of Drexel Hall, Pa., to enter the final round. The scores were 6-3, 6-4, 6-1.

The semi-finals of the singles, with Richards, Hunter, Heston, and Murray competing, will

SOUTH DAKOTA THINKS IT CAN WHIP GOPHERS

Jackrabbits Will Rely on Passes in Opener.

Minneapolis, M n., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—A confident South Dakota State college football team reached Minneapolis today threatening to defeat the University of Minnesota in the opening game of the season tomorrow.

The Jackrabbits went direct to Memorial stadium and ran through a spirited workout. Apparently, Coach Cy Kasper, using the same style of play as Purdue, will take to the air tomorrow. The team displayed passes mostly in its practice. Inasmuch as it is not nearly as rugged as the Gophers, an aerial attack appears to be their chief hope.

Coach Zierman was told today that he probably would not be able to use his No. 1 quarter back, Babe Levoir. Levoir has been doing hospital duty the last few days and, though he was discharged today, Bierman was slow about using him. If Levoir does not start his place will be filled by Glen Seidel, another sophomore.

BRAUN WILL RECOVER.

Everett Braun, University of Chicago freshman football player, who was taken to Billings hospital Thursday with a neck injury sustained during practice scrimmage, suffered no fracture of the vertebrae, X-rays revealed yesterday. The injury was described as a concussion of the spinal cord. While the boy's condition is not critical, some weeks will be required for complete recovery.

The injury resulted from a collision between Braun and one of his freshman teammates. Tall and slim of figure, Braun had had little football experience and planned to go out for basketball. He was a star basketball man at Inglewood, Cal., where he attended high school. With a scholastic rank of second in a high school class of 103, he was awarded a two year scholarship at Chicago.

Seven hours of drill on plays and fundamentals yesterday concluded the twice a day practice program of the Chicago varsity team. Following the regular session this morning the Maroons will attend the Northwestern-Iowa game at Soldiers' field in a body.

MICHIGAN MEETS FROSH.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 29.—[Special.] — Michigan's varsity will meet the freshmen at the stadium tomorrow afternoon. Petoskey and Ward will start at end, Wistert and Austin at tackles, Savage and Kowalik at guard, Bemard at center, Capt. Fay at quarter back, Everhardus and Heston at half backs, and Regeczi at full back. Most of the promising new men will get into the game.

Among the outstanding freshmen, that is, men who have been picked to demonstrate the Michigan State style of play to the regulars are three former Chicago high school stars, Chester Stabovitz, Oscar Swartz, and Stan Shuman.

BADGERS SCRIMMAGE.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 29.—[Special.] Practically settled on his varsity lineup, Coach Clarence Spears gave the Badgers a long drill on offense today and sent them against the reserves in scrimmage.

Bobby Schiller played impressively at left half back. The other half back position rests between Tommy Fontaine and Kenny Kundert. Kundert is the better runner, but Fontaine is superior as a passer and kicker. Lyn Jordan, Des Plaines, Ill., sophomore, led in passing.

Four sophomores, Bill Millar at quarter back, Leonard Lovshin, end; John Ferguson at tackle, and John Golemgeske at guard apparently have cinched regular varsity jobs.

PURDUE LINEMEN HURT.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 29.—[Special.] —Purdue's line problem, instead of nearing a solution, becomes more of a worry as practice progresses. The problem was aggravated today when Ed Skoronski, promising sophomore center, reported with a bruised shoulder that will keep him from scrimmage for several days.

Two other casualties were listed in the center of the line. George Dennis and Wayne Sandefur, sophomore guards, collided, and suffered cuts on the head severe enough to necessitate stitches.

PICK NOTRE DAME SENIORS.

Tony Mazziotti, quarter back, who has been a sensation as a blocker in early drills, is the only sophomore listed, although at least half a dozen others are gunning for varsity jobs, with tomorrow's game one of the most important early season tests.

Police Teams in Title Game Today at Wrigley Field

The Chicago police department baseball championship will be decided at Wrigley field this afternoon when the north side and south side teams meet in the third and final game of the title series. The north siders won the opening game at Comiskey park two weeks ago and the south side tied the series by winning last Sunday.

Eddie Dennis will pitch for the south division and Mike Delaney of the traffic division will hurl for the north siders. Gold watches will be awarded to the winners of circling the bases and fungo hitting contests. A silver trophy will be awarded the title winning team.

The entire proceeds of the series goes to the fund for widows and orphans of policemen killed in the line of duty. The game will start at 2:15 o'clock.

Plays that made Football History

BY WILFRID SMITH.

A touchdown on the opening kickoff scarcely can be called an unusual play, for each season brings a crop of such scoring runs. But it was a touchdown by Duth Bergman on the opening kickoff of the Notre Dame-Nebraska game at Lincoln, Neb., in 1919 which gave the Irish the margin for their 14 to 9 victory, that otherwise would have ruined what turned out to be an undefeated campaign.

Notre Dame's opening lineup that October afternoon was studded with the names of many who since have continued as successful coaches. There was Hunk Anderson, at left guard, now Knute Rockne's successor at Notre Dame; Dr. Eddie Anderson who this year has returned to coaching at Holy Cross after service at Columbia college and De Paul; Ed [Slip] Madigan, head coach at St. Mary's; Clipper Smith, the first of the "watch charm" guards, whose Santa Clara team defeated California last week. And George Gipp, the incomparable, was at left half back, with Dutch Bergman, now head coach at Catholic university, Washington, D. C., who could run like a jack rabbit, at right half.

Gipp Was Not the Man to Watch.

Link Lyman, now playing professional football with the Bears, was a member of that giant Nebraska line. Two of the Munn boys, later famous as wrestlers, were at guards.

Gipp's fame had preceded him to the Cornhusker camp. "Stop Gipp," was the battle cry. Thus when the opening kickoff sailed far down the field to where Gipp waited, the Nebraska team closed in intent on him, too intent as the play developed. For Gipp, running forward and to his right, crossed the path of Bergman, and, as directed by Rockne, passed the ball to Dutch.

The pass, an old play even at that time, succeeded and Bergman, practically uncovered, raced down the left side of the field. Madigan had gone straight down center and it was he who knocked down the Nebraska safety man, the last opponent in Bergman's path.

Capt. Bahan scored later for Notre Dame and Wright equalized that touchdown for Nebraska, which with a field goal by Dobson, Nebraska's right half, made the final score: Notre Dame, 14; Nebraska, 9.

Kirk	L. E.	Swanson
Coughlin	L. T.	Lyman
H. Anderson	L. G.	M. Munn
Madigan	C.	Day
Smith	R. G.	W. Munn

E. Anderson	R. E.	Kellogg
Bahan	Q. B.	McGlasson
Gipp	L. H.	Wright
Bergman	R. H.	Dobson

Northwestern Battles Iowa; Big 10 Opener

Opposed to the visitors seeking a place in the sun is a Purple team also in quest of more sunlight than 1932 awarded to Northwestern. Here, too, much is expected of new men. Hajek and Tangora in the line, Cruice in the back field, are making their college debuts. Hajek is a center from Morton High of Cicero. Tangora is junior who was ineligible last season. Cruice hails from Milwaukee. Aside from his southpaw passing he has been a promising ball carrier in practice at Pug Rentner's old position at left half back.

More Back Field Threats.

Rentner is gone from service as a player, but he's assisting in the coaching. Rivals last year said, "Stop Rentner and Northwestern is stopped." Coach Dick Hanley hopes to have several threats this season in Cruice, the fiery Jakie Sullivan, Olson with his kicking and passing, and in reserve, Harry Leeper, a hard hitting, compact running back; Chilly Sutton, reserve for Olson, and Stanul to relieve Cruice.

Iowa expects no such score as last year. Neither does Northwestern for that matter. The Purple will be satisfied with a two touchdown margin. Probably the rank and file Hawkeye partisans do not expect victory. The team itself concedes nothing to its rivals. Instead appears that grim determination on the part of the players — harbinger of the new football spirit at Iowa City. The contest will be a good contest for so early in the season, so far as one may judge in advance.

SENATORS BEAT YANKS, 8-5; GET FIVE RUNS IN 4TH

New York, Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The Washington Senators beat the New York Yankees, 8 to 5, today, for their first victory since they clinched the American league pennant last week.

AMATEUR NINES PLAY TOMORROW FOR U. S. TITLE

The amateur baseball championship of the United States will be at stake tomorrow afternoon when St. Adrian's, champions of the C. Y. O. national Catholic baseball tournament, play the National Tea Post, winner of the American Legion junior world series, at Wrigley field.

National Tea Post, with a record of 28 victories, two losses and one tie, will face a St. Adrian's team that boasts a record of 26 victories and two losses in the last two years.

Weaver May Steal Show from Senators' Big Three

Three pitchers will do all the starting for the Washington Senators in the world series games, according to the dope of some of the best guessers. And then there are those who say that the opener will be started by an artist not listed in the big three.

On the season's records Alvin Crowder, Earl Whitehill and Walter Stewart are generally accepted as Manager Joe Cronin's big three. But there are many who are confident that Monte Weaver will play a surprise rôle after the fashion of Howard Ehmke in the 1929 series.

Crowder, however, seems the logical choice for the heaviest duty in the series, whether or not he starts the opening game. Alvin, in addition to winning 24 games, has worked in more contests than any other pitcher in the American league and his total of innings pitched, 299, is second only to that of the former Senator, Bump Hadley, now with St. Louis, who has worked 310 innings.

If Crowder was needed in 299 Senator innings, his usefulness is not liable to shrink much proportionately in the series.

Crowder never has been afraid of work. Last year, for instance, he worked 327 innings in 50 games, while winning 26 and losing 13. Since the first two years he was in the American league Al never has worked in fewer than 40 games, nor won fewer than 17. Prior to his return to Washington after more than two years banishment in St. Louis, his best record showed 21 victories and five losses. He did that for the Browns in 1928.

Crowder is credited with having hypnotic eyes—sharp orbs not unlike those of Rog Hornsby. He cannot employ his hypnotic powers over the distance from the mound to the plate, of course, but is said to be effective at close range. For this reason, it is said, Manager Terry has instructed his lads not to engage in conversation with any one they suspect of being Crowder.

The Washington ace was born in Winston-Salem, N. C., which still is his official place of residence, Jan. 11, 1901. He went into professional baseball after completing a three year hitch in the army. The Senators purchased him from Birmingham in 1926 and during the 1927 season traded him to St. Louis for Tom Zachary. He was with St. Louis until June 13, 1930, when he was traded, with Heinie Manush, for Goose Goslin.

A strange feature of Crowder's record last year was that in addition to pitching the most innings and winning the most games, he also allowed the most hits of any American league pitcher. In the latter part of last year he launched a winning streak which mounted to 16 straight before the Red Sox knocked him off April 17 this season.

Whitehill Has Many Backers.

Earl Whitehill, Cedar Rapids' own Earl, by many in Washington is hailed as more of a hero than Crowder, possibly because he did so much better than he ever had done in his 11 years of major league activity. For ten years only a shade better than a .500 pitcher with the Detroit Tigers, with 17 victories in 1930 representing his best year, Whitehill's entry in the latest official records shows 22 victories and eight defeats. This is four victories more than he ever accumulated and one defeat under his best red mark. Earl won 17 and lost nine his first full year with the Tigers, in 1924, and never since, until this year, has had fewer than 11 setbacks.

Whitehill was born in Cedar Rapids, Ia., Feb. 7, 1900, and, like Crowder, got the best of his minor league seasoning in Birmingham. Earl continues to make Cedar Rapids his home.

Wally Stewart, like his lefty colleague, Whitehill, also is completing his freshman year on the Senators, and, like Crowder and Whitehill, did some of his prepping at Birmingham, though he got his real major league start with the St. Louis Browns in 1927 after three rather sensational years with Toronto. [He worked nine innings in five games in 1921, but didn't draw a decision.]

Stewart's latest official 1933 record shows 14 victories and six defeats, which is good, though the victory entry looks a little pale as compared with Crowder's 24 and Whitehill's 22.

Stewart went to the Senators last Dec. 14 with Goslin and Schulte for West, Reynolds and Brown and $20,000. Stewart was born in Sparta, Tenn., Sept. 23, 1900.

Weaver Is Just a Young Squirt.

Monte Weaver is the only member of the Senators' first line pitchers not in his 30s. He was born in Hilton, N. C., June 15, 1906. He holds a bachelor of science degree from Emery and Henry college and a master's degree from the University of Virginia.

His record so far this year shows nine victories and five losses, most of the triumphs having been scored after he quit worrying about his health in midseason.

Last season his first full year in the majors, he won 22 games while losing 10 after getting off to a bad start by losing four of his first five games. One of his five losses this year was registered by the lowly White Sox in their last trip east. Although he allowed the Sox only three hits, Sam Jones beat him, 1 to 0.

150 COMPETE IN BALLYHOO GOLF AT BROOKWOOD

W. H. Brown had low gross for the day with 81—82—163. Lester McAllister, 86—86—172, was second, while J. M. Noble, 89—84—173; H. R. Hamilton Jr., 84—91—175; T. I. Foster, 84—91—175, and W. F. Pilgrim, 85—93—173, had to content themselves with third, fourth, fifth, and sixth respectively.

First low net in class A went to E. J. Kelly, 175—76—159; H. R. Hamilton Jr., 175—10—165, and L. C. Towle, 189—22—167, were second and third.

A foursome composed of Henry Eickelberg, T. I. Foster, Lester McAllister, and C. E. Freeto captured the low gross foursome award with 720. The low net winning foursome was composed of C. A. Dunkel, C. E. Wheeler, J. B. Shay, and H. M. Coate, who had an aggregate of 649.

CLASS C—R. E. Wheeler, 191—36—155; G. A. Morency, 206—40—166; R. H. Kadow, 206—40—166.

Barney Ross to Play with Jewish Ball Team

Barney Ross, world's lightweight boxing champion, will play on the all-Jewish team against the all-Italian team in a softball game Sunday morning at Logan Square Ball park, Kedzie and Elston avenues.

DE PAUL ELEVEN OPENS SEASON AGAINST OMAHA

De Paul lost only one game last year and Omaha was included in its list of victims. The Nebraskans are reported stronger than a year ago. Hoover, quarter back, and Leon Fouts, full back, are the best offensive threats of the Omaha eleven.

Lineup:

DE PAUL.		OMAHA.

Lake Forest Eleven Meets Northwestern College

225 SWIMMERS READY FOR LAKE RACE TOMORROW

A two day swimming carnival, climaxed tomorrow by a $10,000 race for professionals over a distance of 15 miles, will open this morning in the north lagoon of A Century of Progress. Today's events with preliminaries in the morning and finals in the afternoon will be given over to a field of more than 400 amateurs.

While the men and women amateur contestants are racing for trophies, the 225 professionals entered in tomorrow's 15 mile race, which will start at Navy pier and follow a course through the lake to the finish point in the north lagoon, will be putting the finishing touches on preparations for the largest money prize ever offered distance swimmers in Chicago. A check for $5,000 will be awarded the man or woman who finishes first. Other prizes bring the total for the race up to $10,000.

Nine Races Today.

Nine short distance races will be held today and two amateur one mile races, one for men and the other for women, tomorrow. The latter two will be staged while the marathon field is splashing its way to the Fair grounds, where the last eight and one-half miles of the swim will be contested in north and south lagoons.

The marathon field of 225, which includes international marathon stars, probably will be reduced when examinations are made before the race begins at 8:30 tomorrow morning. Louis A. Johnson, commander of the American Legion, will be one of the starters.

Myrtle Has Confidence.

Among the marathon entrants is Myrtle Huddleston, leading woman endurance swimmer from New York, who has attempted several English channel swims. She is not satisfied with being one of the favorites for the prize of $1,000 to the first woman to cross the finish line, for she announced yesterday that the capital award of $5,000 that goes to the victor was as good as hers.

Preliminaries today will begin at 9:30 and finals at 2:30 o'clock.

Halas Checks Injuries and Then Sends Kawal S O S

BY WILFRID SMITH.

George Halas called the roll of his centers yesterday morning as the Bears drilled at Logan Square ball park for their game tomorrow at Soldiers' field with the Boston Redskins. Then he sent an S O S to Ed Kawal, who had been released before the Packers' game last week.

Bert Pearson, numer one center, injured his knee at Green Bay. He's just been released from the hospital and he won't even be in uniform tomorrow. Ookie Miller, once of Purdue, the No. 2 center, received a crack on the leg during practice this week. He'll start tomorrow, but one blow might send him to the side lines. Halas had Jules Carlson, regular guard, working with one of the teams at center yesterday.

A Center Is Important.

"We must have a capable center in reserve against Boston," Halas said in discussing tomorrow's game. "We were forced to drop Kawal by the 25 player limit imposed for the first league game, but with Pearson out Kawal will be eligible. If Kawal isn't signed," Halas continued, "we may call on George Trafton for utility service. Trafton at least could pass the ball back for the kicker, and that might be the difference between a punt of 50 yards and a blocked kick."

Joe Zeller also can be counted on to help out. If Carlson goes to center on offense, Zeller will pair with Kopcha at guards. Then on defense Zeller will play center and Carlson move over to his regular guard position.

Bronko Nagurski, who broke his nose in the Green Bay game, will be ready tomorrow. He expects to wear a special headguard fitted with a mask to protect his nose. Jack Manders probably will start at full back, however.

Hold Secret Drill.

The Bears held secret practice yesterday morning. The boys went through their array of passes, plunges and runs. In addition, they spent an hour on defensive tactics calculated to stop the Warner system which Lone Star Dietz has taught the Boston eleven. This afternoon the Bears will see Northwestern play Iowa, and they will watch the wing back attack as employed by the Wildcats.

The Bears have a healthy regard for Boston. From reports of the Boston game with the Packers, scouted by Halas and Trafton, the linemen know that they will be busy all afternoon. Boston's forwards, led by Jack Riley, former Northwestern university tackle, are rugged and aggressive. With Battles, Musick and Pinckert to carry the ball Boston will have an excellent running attack.

ST. LOUIS AND CHICAGO GOLF TEAMS CLASH

The sixth annual intercity series between Chicago and St. Louis amateur golfers will open today at Ridgemoor Country club at 1 p. m., and will be concluded tomorrow. Today's program, which is being conducted under the auspices of the Chicago District Golf association, will consist of ten singles matches at 18 holes. Tomorrow five best ball foursomes will be played over 36 holes.

Liston Beats Hedquist in Windup at Fronton

Frank Ketter beat Verne Trickle [4].

GARY ELEVEN DEFEATED.

Spring Valley, Ill., Sept. 29.—[Special.]—Hall Township High football eleven of Spring Valley defeated Roosevelt High of Gary, Ind., at Spring Valley tonight, 12 to 7.

SURFACE LINES TO BUY TWO NEW "SILENT" CARS

Will Be Placed in Test Service Soon.

BY HAL FOUST.

Two street cars of radically new design—quiet, flexible, and economical in operation—will be placed in service within a few weeks by the Chicago Surface Lines. Federal Judge Wilkerson yesterday authorized receivers for the company to make the purchases.

The designs of these vehicles are the result of four years of study and research by a group of engineers headed by Prof. C. H. Hirschfeld of New York, working at the direction of a conference committee of presidents of the larger electric railway companies and car manufacturers of America.

Both cars are nearing completion under specifications developed by this research. One is being manufactured by the Pullman Car and Manufacturing corporation of Chicago and the other by the J. G. Brill company of Philadelphia.

Rubber Reduces Noise.

An outstanding innovation of the new vehicles is the suppression of noises now associated with street car operation. E. J. McIlraith, engineer for the Chicago Surface Lines, said they should be as quiet as a good automobile. Rubber insulation is applied in the trucks of the cars and rubber is also used between the steel treads and the axles of the wheels.

Motors and brakes are a departure from present and past practices, expediting acceleration and stopping. This will improve the service for patrons and it is also counted upon to relieve traffic congestion.

The Brill car is streamlined according to a design by O. Kuhler of New York, who served as consultant artist. The Pullman car is built of aluminum alloys to obtain a maximum of strength with a minimum of weight.

New Cars Cost Less.

The cars are lighter in weight than the carriers now in service, and their cost, $20,000, is less. The reduction in weight and the improved engineering will cut operating and maintenance costs.

"If the cars live up to expectations," said Guy Richardson, president of the Chicago Surface Lines, "they will make the present rolling stock obsolete just as 1933 automobiles made 1923 models obsolete.

"When will noisy cars be removed? Your guess is as good as mine. The changes will be made when it is demonstrated that it is the economical thing to do and when it is demanded by the stock and bond holders and by the public."

GRAIN BROKERS ATTEND JACKSON FUNERAL TODAY

Peter B. Carey, president of the Board of Trade, yesterday appointed a committee of 17 members to attend funeral services for Arthur Stanley Jackson, senior partner of Jackson Brothers & Boesel, New York and Chicago brokerage firm, which will be held at 1 o'clock this afternoon at Oakwoods cemetery. Mr. Jackson had been a member of the Board of Trade 28 years. He died Wednesday in New York City, a few days after his return from a trip to Europe. He was 63 years old and lived at 70 Scott street. He is survived by his widow, Louise Burkhardt Jackson, and one son, A. Stanley Jackson. Mr. Jackson was a member of the Chicago Athletic association, the Chicago club, and the Attic club.

Harry W. Sparks Is Dead; Former Libby Sales Chief

Harry W. Sparks, 65 years old, died yesterday in his apartment at the Plaisance hotel, 1545 East 60th street. Until his retirement two years ago, Mr. Sparks was general sales manager for the Illinois and Iowa district of the Libby, McNeil & Libby company. He had served the concern for 41 years. Mr. Sparks is survived by his widow, Ida. Funeral services will be held Monday in the chapel at 63d street and Harvard avenue, with burial in Rose Hill cemetery.

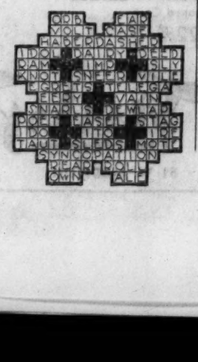
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



J. H. WILLIAMS, FORMER KANE CO. JUDGE, IS DEAD

John H. Williams, 77 years old, who for twenty years was Probate judge of Kane county, died yesterday in his home at 627 Douglas avenue, Elgin.

He was elected Probate judge in 1902, when the office was created in Kane county, and with the exception of one two year term served continuously until 1922. During that period he also sat frequently as a judge in the County court of Cook county. Before his election to the bench he had been an alderman and city treasurer in Elgin.

We was born in Waushara county, Wis., a son of the Rev. Richard Williams, a Welsh minister who held several pastorates in Chicago and Kane county. He was graduated from the University of Iowa in 1880 and began the practive of law in Elgin two years later.

His widow, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Foss Williams; two sons, Howard C. and Clarence F. Williams of Cleveland, and two daughters, Mrs. Walter H. Bosworth and Miss Grace E. Williams of Elgin, survive. Funeral services are to be arranged later.

CLAIMS PARIS MAN HAS MUMMIFIED HEAD OF HENRY IV.

PARIS, Sept. 29.—(AP)—A mummified head which is claimed to be that of Henry IV. is now in the possession of a Montmartre photographer named Bourdais, the novelist, Paul Reboux, writes in the current issue of Vu, a review.

The photographer bought it at an auction in 1919 for three francs. The general cast of the countenance, a mole, and other marks, Reboux writes, have convinced the owner that it is really that of the king, who was assassinated May 14, 1610.

Since the desecration of the royal tombs during the French revolution the head has not been accounted for.

N. PIOTROWSKI'S WIDOW IS DEAD; FUNERAL TODAY

Mrs. Theresa Piotrowski, widow of Nicholas Piotrowski, who was city attorney in the Harrison administration from 1911 to 1915, died yesterday at her home, 190 East Chestnut street. She was 64 years old.

Mrs. Piotrowski is survived by a daughter, Mrs. E. C. Lang, and four grandchildren. Her husband, who was one of Chicago's Polish leaders and active in Democratic politics, died in February of last year.

Private funeral services for Mrs. Piotrowski will be held at the home this morning and burial will be in St. Adalbert's cemetery.

Sani-Flush

SANI-FLUSH saves work. It removes stains, rust and smudges from the toilet bowl without any labor on your part. Just follow directions on the can.

Sani-Flush does more than keep the bowl white and sparkling. It cleans and purifies the hidden trap which all other methods fail to reach. Keeps the closet bowl pure and safe.

Do not confuse Sani-Flush with ordinary cleansers. It is scientifically prepared to clean toilets. Also, Sani-Flush is effective for cleaning automobile radiators. For sale at grocery, drug, and hardware stores, 25c. The Hygienic Products Co., Canton, Ohio.

GLOVE MAKER IS NAMED LONDON'S NEW LORD MAYOR

LONDON, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Charles Henry Collett, identified in a time honored ceremony at London's ancient Guildhall as "Knight Alderman and Glove Maker," today was elected lord mayor.

Wearing a plumed hat and sword and carrying a bouquet in his hand, Collett was the central figure in a colorful pageant. Dignitaries in gold and black three cornered hats, lawyers in black gowns and gray wigs and officials in scarlet robes with lace ruffs and wearing gold chains accompanied him in the procession over a red carpet strewn with sweet herbs. Mrs. Collett and the retiring lord mayor, Sir Percy Greenway, watched from a balcony.

As is customary, liverymen, who represent various companies in old London, a vestige of the ancient guild system, are the electors. The lord mayor's so-called domain now is only a small section in London. His duties are mostly ceremonial, although he presides over a police court district known as "the city." Liverymen select mayors annually from among the aldermen. They usually reach a friendly agreement beforehand.

HOOVER GREETED BY 1,500 AT HIS MISSOURI FARM

Maryville, Mo., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover and Mrs. Hoover were greeted by 1,500 persons when they arrived at their 80 acre farm near Graham, Mo., today to inspect it for the first time.

Mr. Hoover responded to the welcome with a short talk, which was interrupted by the breaking of a joist under the porch on which the crowd had gathered. No one was injured.

The former President was accompanied by a number of Missouri Republican leaders, including Arthur M. Hyde, former secretary of agriculture. Most of the time was taken up in shaking hands with several hundred school children from surrounding towns. He told them their reception pleased and surprised him.

"I lent a friend $10,000 thirty-three years ago," said Mr. Hoover. "He deeded me this farm. It has never paid any dividends, and I took it over only five years ago when my friend's mother died."

MISS BANKHEAD'S 7TH MARRIAGE IS CALLED OFF

LONDON, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The recently announced engagement of Eugenia Bankhead, sister of the actress, Tallulah Bankhead, and daughter of the former American congressman, to Kennedy McConnell, son of a retired Scottish coal magnate, was canceled today. The reason was not stated.

The wedding would have been her seventh, and McConnell, who is 28, her fifth husband. She was married three times to Morton Hoyt, a Washington millionaire.

MRS. TALMADGE, MOTHER OF THREE FILM STARS, DIES

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Mrs. Margaret "Peg" Talmadge, mother of the three Talmadge sisters of the screen—Norma, Constance and Natalie—died at a hospital today of pneumonia.

Charlie Chaplin liked to test her reaction to his "gags," Frances Marion sought her comment on scenarios, and Richard Barthelmess and many other movie stars turned to her at times for advice.

U. S. WILL LEND ON GOOD ASSETS TO OPEN BANKS

Roosevelt Tells Plan to Free Deposits.

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 29.—(AP)—President Roosevelt will announce shortly the plan for opening closed banks and it will provide immediate payments proportional to the liquid assets of these institutions.

Naturally not all closed banks are to be reopened and particular attention will be paid to those institutions forced to lock their vaults after the historic March 5 banking holiday.

What Mr. Roosevelt has in mind is federal financial support to those institutions which have good assets to offer. In other words, the government stands ready, through the Reconstruction Finance corporation, to back up the fair assets and permit payments on these to the depositors in proportion to the amount of good assets held by the institutions.

This is a part of the President's general program to support the banking structure in the confidence that it will circulate the billions of idle cash now needed for credit in the recovery drive.

May Aid Nonmember Banks.

Another part of this program is the Roosevelt offer for the government to buy capital stock in those banks outside of the federal reserve system which require this support to meet the terms of the deposit insurance law, which becomes effective Jan. 1.

Two questions are involved in making state banks outside the federal reserve system eligible for the deposit insurance protection, solvency and liquidity. If a bank is solvent the President is ready to make sure that there is no question about liquidity. He wants all sound institutions—and he thinks the great majority of banks now open are beyond question in this category—to be included in the deposit insurance act. This program has been turned over to the treasury for formulation and the President is expecting a report on it shortly.

Approve Plans for 375 Banks.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Carrying out the administration's program, the treasury announced today it had approved plans for reorganizing 375 banks in 37 states, but said their opening depends upon fulfillment of the programs submitted by the various institutions.

In most cases these institutions, all closed national banks, must sell additional preferred stock to rehabilitate their capital structure. The administration has said that it will do all in its power to prevent the permanent closing of any bank not hopelessly insolvent. But it stipulated that the people of the community affected by a closed bank must first do their share in subscribing to a new issue of preferred stock.

No inference was to be drawn, it was said at the treasury, from the list published today that banks not contained in it would be prohibited from opening.

Over 2,000 Banks Unlicensed.

The last report of the general banking situation showed 13,080 banks of all kinds were operating Sept. 22 on an unrestricted basis with deposits of $31,930,275,000. At that time 2,575 banks with deposits of $1,765,669,000 still were unlicensed.

The number of unlicensed banks with approved plans for reorganization, by states, were: Alabama, 1; Arkansas, 1; California, 5; Colorado, 4; Delaware, 1; Florida, 1; Georgia, 1; Idaho, 2; Illinois, 33; Indiana, 13; Iowa, 22; Kansas, 3; Kentucky, 7; Maine, 5; Maryland, 9; Massachusetts, 7; Michigan, 23; Minnesota, 5; Montana, 1; Nebraska, 4; New Hampshire, 4; New Jersey, 22; New Mexico, 1; New York, 44; North Carolina, 2; North Dakota, 2; Ohio, 27; Oklahoma, 3; Oregon, 3; Pennsylvania, 76; Tennessee, 1; Texas, 4; Vermont, 7; Virginia, 5; Washington, 7; West Virginia, 10, and Wisconsin, 9.

Illinois Banks on List.

Aurora National, Aurora; First National, Canton; Canton National, Canton; National Trust bank, Charleston; City National, Dixon; First National, East Peoria; Woodford County National, El Paso; First National, Granville; First National, La Grange; Lincoln National, Lincoln; First National, Monticello; Cumberland County National, Neoga; National Bank of Niles Center; First National, Paxton; States National, Peru; National Bank of Pontiac; City National, Ridge Farm; First National, Savanna; First National, Sterling; First National, Urbana; American National, Woodstock; First National, Allendale; First National, Altamont; First National, Breese; First National, Bunker Hill; First National, Columbia; First National, East St. Louis; First National, Madison; First National, Mascoutah; First National, Newton; First National, Pinckneyville, First National, St. Elmo; First National, Worden.

AFFECTS NO CHICAGO BANKS

No Chicago banks were affected by the Washington order yesterday. All the national banks in Chicago which closed with the national moratorium have been reopened since that time. There are several state banks, however, which have not been licensed, some of which are attempting to reorganize as national institutions.

There are only 15 state banks throughout Illinois which are still in suspension. Of the 704 which closed at the beginning of the holiday, 628 have resumed business; 41 have been placed in receivership; 20 have been liquidated or merged without loss to depositors, and no definite action has been taken on the remaining 15.

As the administration policy is interpreted here, it is not believed that the banks now in receivership or those which closed prior to the moratorium will be generally affected by the government plans for "unfreezing" bank deposits.

The status of the 15 state banks still in suspension is not clear. Some of these that have applied for national charters will be benefited by the government's plan, it is asserted. State banks in Illinois, however, are barred from issuing preferred stock and cannot expect aid from the RFC in this manner.

Wheat Export Pact Hits Only U. S., Canada

BY HOWARD WOOD.

While Australians are celebrating their victory they achieved in the recent world wheat exporting conference in London American farmers are discovering that the London agreement has opened no foreign markets to them and promises little in the way of cutting down the American carryovers.

According to a news dispatch from Sydney Australian wheat raisers are jubilant because of the discovery that the amount of wheat that they are permitted to export during the coming year under the London agreement is almost the amount of their exportable surplus. For Australia, therefore, the limitations imposed by the London conferees are no limitations at all.

Broomhall, the leading British authority on wheat, recently estimated the current Australian crop at 152 million bushels. Since then the condition of the crop has improved slightly and it may run a few million bushels above that figure.

Even if the Australians produce as much as 160 million bushels, however, they will be able to export practically all the wheat they don't need for home consumption. According to estimates Australia needs about 50 million bushels for domestic use. Out of a total production of 160 million bushels, therefore, that nation would have an exportable surplus of 110 million bushels. Under the London agreement Australia is permitted to export 105 million bushels during the 1934 crop year.

Argentina, the other big southern hemisphere wheat exporting nation, likewise is expected to find the London agreement no drawback. Argentina's crop this year is estimated at 200 million bushels. Deducting an estimated 95 million bushels for home consumption would leave an exportable surplus of 105 million bushels. By the terms of the London agreement, Argentina is permitted to export 110 million bushels during the coming year.

The 50 million bushels allotted the Danubian countries at London is believed by wheat experts to be a liberal allowance as is the tentative 37 millions the Russians were permitted to export. Besides, the Russians have recently given indication that they regard the agreement lightly.

This leaves the United States and Canada as the only two important wheat exporting nations that may be affected seriously by the London agreement. Both countries have abnormally heavy carryovers hanging over them and both need an expansion of their foreign markets to get rid of their excess carryover. In the southern hemisphere carryovers are more nearly normal and present no problem.

For the United States government figures show a carryover of 382 million bushels, compared with a prefarm board average of 125 to 150 million bushels. This year's production is estimated roughly at 500 million bushels.

Deducting an estimated 650 million bushels for home consumption would leave 232 million bushels for export and carryover. This means that the United States could retain a normal carryover this year and still export about 100 million bushels. By the terms of the London agreement, however, the United States is permitted to export not more than 47 million bushels during the coming year.

* *

Estimates for Canada show a carryover of 220 million bushels and a crop of 280 million bushels, a total of 500 million bushels. Deducting 125 million bushels for domestic requirements would leave Canada with an exportable surplus of about 300 million bushels after allowing for a normal carryover of 75 million bushels. The London agreement restricts Canadian exports for the year to 200 million bushels, which would leave the nation with an excess of 100 million bushels of blocked wheat.

Weakness in wheat prices in Winnipeg during the last week has been attributed by some market observers to this unassimilable surplus overhanging the Canadian markets. This weakness in Winnipeg is believed to have had a bearish effect on prices in Chicago.

American wheat prices being above the world levels have made exportation of wheat from this country increasingly difficult, but the London conference, by favoring nations of the southern hemisphere has not helped the situation.

RAILS IN ILLINOIS PROTEST TAX; ASK VALUATION CUT

Representatives of 178 railroads operating in Illinois started arguments yesterday before the Illinois tax commission for reduced valuations. All railroads have petitioned for a hearing in protest of the assessments to be levied against them for 1933 and each road will be given an opportunity to suggest its own idea of a fair valuation.

Commissioner Barnet Hodes said the roads had presented a depressing picture, claiming that their financial conditions are such that they are unable to pay taxes.

"This is the first time in the history of the commission that it has given the railroads an opportunity to present their side of the case," the commissioner stated. "We will hear a representative of each road. There is no opposite side—no representative of the state objecting to the evidence of the railroads. The commission represents the public and it is up to us to decide what is fair and just."

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Chicago's position as the economic capital of the nation is being tremendously enhanced by the policy of economic nationalism to which the federal administration has committed itself, James R. Bancroft, Boston economist and president of the American Institute of Finance, declared here yesterday.

"If we could assume that the present isolationist policy would be continued, I believe it certain that Chicago would pass New York in population in the next 25 years," the eastern economist asserted.

America's inability to grasp the significance of its position as a creditor nation and the political expediency of playing such a rôle in the international field appears to insure a perpetuation of the present nationalism for an indefinite period, he declared.

Cites Effects of Nationalism.

"Our present viewpoint is wholly nationalistic at the present time," he declared. "New York is certain to suffer from the furtherence of this policy and Chicago and the middle west will gain."

Mr. Bancroft made it plain that he did not believe in the economic soundness of nationalism, but is convinced that the present tide in that direction cannot be stemmed in the near future.

Early stabilization of the dollar in the international money markets is not probable. Such a move must await an agreement between the principal nations, which is difficult because of the strong nationalistic spirit prevailing, he said.

The economist predicted further recovery in this country during 1934, but expressed the opinion that lasting prosperity will not come until international trade has been stabilized.

Believes Dollar Too Low.

While every stabilization seems unlikely, there is every reason to believe that the dollar devaluation will be moderate, he said.

"I am one of those people who believe that the dollar is seling at a ridiculously low figure in foreign exchange," he declared. "When we consider that the United States is the strongest nation in the world economically and that we, a creditor nation, although we refuse to play the part, it is unreasonable to believe that devaluation can exceed 35 per cent."

Aside from the uncertain course of the dollar, the principal factor holding up recovery now is the federal securities act, Mr. Bancroft said. It is discouraging capital expanditures, which are absolutely essential to any substantial recovery, he asserted.

Urges Securities Act Change.

"Nobody buys capital goods out of current earnings," he explained. "In previous depressions the ability of industry to float long term obligations at low interest rates has been a tremendous factor in pushing recovery. The act must be amended before industry will attempt any important public financing."

He said that it was extremely difficult to criticize the NRA, which he characterized a "mixture of good and evil." Its immediate effects are deflationary in some respects and its real benefits will come over a period of years. The principal benefits to be expected are the elimination of sweatshops and extremely low wages, he said.

Bethlehem Steel Gets $2,358,150 Casting Order

Bethlehem Steel corporation has received orders for 48,500 tons of cast iron segments and special castings and 3,300 tons of cast steel segments for the Mid-Town Hudson tunnel, it was announced yesterday. These contracts involve $2,358,150 and are the first to be placed in connection with the tunnel project.

$6,666,700 of Earmarked Gold Shipped to France

The New York Federal Reserve bank yesterday reported shipments of $6,666,700 in gold to France and $274,800 to England, all taken from stocks earmarked for foreign account. A total of 24,331 ounces of fine gold recovered from natural deposits was also reported as an export.

AIR CONDITIONED CARS BRING UPPER BERTH BACK TO POPULARITY

BY H. A. LAIRD.

[Traffic Manager Chicago Tribune.]

"Nothing but uppers left" was a dreaded pronouncement to travelers a couple of decades ago. Notwithstanding the assertion of the carriers that the beds were better and the space more airy, the average patron disliked the upper, and this aversion finally reduced their use to a point where abandonment was suggested. Competition demanded that lowers be available, so that when the lowers were filled a car was added to the train at all principal terminals.

A price reduction was next offered, but this produced little demand for the unpopular space. Finally, in a desperate effort to get some revenue, the railways offered special rates for the whole section for single occupancy.

Air conditioning appears to have unexpectedly restored the upper to favor. The Baltimore and Ohio has sold more upper berths in and out of Chicago during the present season than any other line. The reasons assigned are three in number. First, that a traveler prefers to ride an upper in an air conditioned train rather than a lower in a hot train; second, a few seek the berths for economy, and, third, the antipathy toward the space largely disappears if the car is comfortable.

Fares collected for the upper berths are velvet to the railway. Moreover, equipment is saved. If such increased sales of uppers make a good showing for the present year the improvement of air conditioning, originally only intended to make railway travel more attractive, will prove to be self-liquidating.

ENGLAND FEARS BREAKDOWN OF TARIFF TRUCE

LONDON, Sept. 29—Sweden's denunciation of the tariff truce has aroused gravest doubts here whether the "economic armistice" so laboriously won by Norman Davis last spring can endure much longer.

The British government has no intention of following Sweden and Holland just yet in shaking loose from the truce and regaining what protectionists call their "liberty of action." The fear here is that wholesale repudiation of the tariff truce by the great powers will be followed by the wholesale erection of new tariff barriers throughout Europe.

In the same way officials here argue the collapse of the existing precarious truce on armaments will be followed inevitably by wholesale increases in armaments everywhere. The British, therefore, hope to preserve the tariff truce, even though it is ineffective, for fear something worse will supplant it.

As a matter of fact, the truce is admitted here to be dead in all but name. Recognition of its hollowness is believed to have been behind the action of the Swedes and Dutch in cutting adrift from it.

"OLD ROSE" FIRM PLANS CHICAGO LIQUOR STORES

The Old Rose Distilling company, successor to its namesake, incorporated in 1889, received its charter yesterday from the secretary of state at Springfield. The company will operate 21 package liquor stores wholesale and retail in Chicago.

A few minutes after receiving word that the charter had been issued, President Maurice L. Ross telephoned his acceptance of warehouse certificates for 4,000 cases of Walker's Canadian Club and Walker's American bourbon to Hiram Walker-Gooderham & Worts, Ltd., of Walkerville, Ont.

Of the authorized capital stock of the company, consisting of 80,000 preferred shares of a par value of $100 and 250,000 common shares of no par value, none will be offered to the public. L. Rosensweig is chairman of the board and P. Livingston is secretary and treasurer.

Trade Trend More Settled, Says Review

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 29.—Trends in business are becoming more definitely established, September closing better than it opened, with the industrial recovery accelerated and consumer buying pursued with more vigor, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., declared today, reviewing trade conditions for the week.

There are now fewer jagged peaks in the outline of trade movements, as the weaker units are being elevated, and as activity becomes more stabilized, the agency reported.

"The desire to build inventories in advance of rising markets virtually has come to an end, giving a steadier tone to buying movements and a firmer base on which to plan future operations," the review explained.

Trade Performance Smoother.

"With the constructive program of the NRA being performed from week to week, there has been a comforting diminution of the unavoidable controversies and impatience arising from too sanguine expectations from the immediate application of the various codes."

Following the easement in retail demand for nearly two weeks, fall buying is moving forward with more surety as needs are too pressing to permit further postponement.

"While dollar volume of retail sales in some districts is the largest for any fall in three years, and in others is running 25 per cent above that of last September, the average is only slightly above that of a year ago," the review stated.

Closed Banks Handicap.

"The comparatively large number of banks which still are closed or operating under restrictions continue a perpetual handicap of no mean proportions in many districts, while plans for expansion are being held in abeyance by the higher collateral requirements for loans, pending clarification of the entire banking situation.

"Volume of chain specialty stores was about the same as for the week preceding, but sales of chain grocers were lower. While some of the department stores noted the usual let down of the fall season in the sales totals of some items, the extent of the decline was less marked than at this time a year ago."

DOLLAR OIL BACK IN MIDDLE WEST; OUTPUT REDUCED

The Stanolind Crude Oil Purchasing company, subsidiary of Standard Oil Company of Indiana, yesterday announced advanced prices for crude oil in Oklahoma and Kansas, ranging from 84 cents a barrel for gravity below 29 to $1.08 for 40 gravity and above, with an even dollar for 36 gravity crude—the average gravity of the Oklahoma and Kansas fields.

The new prices represent an advance of 11 cents a barrel from the previous ones. In north and north central Texas the new price range is from 79 cents to $1.03, also representing an 11 cent increase. The new flat price of a dollar per barrel in east Texas represents a 10 cent increase.

Output Cut; Prices Raised.

Tulsa, Okla., Sept. 29.—(AP)—The reward that midcontinent oil men were promised for further reduction in production of crude oil materialized today when virtually all of the purchasers of Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, and New Mexico put into effect a 10 to 11 cents a barrel advance in prices.

SO. PACIFIC WILL BUY 25,000 TONS OF STEEL RAILS

New York, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The Southern Pacific company announced today that it would buy 25,000 tons of steel rails in connection with the government's effort to revive railroad purchasing power.

No bids have been asked as yet and no decision reached in regard to distribution of the order, said Paul Shoup, vice chairman of the company. He said it would be the first rail buying by Southern Pacific in a year or more. The road is currently taking delivery of some 2,000 tons of rails, the remaining part of the last order placed.

FREIGHT HOLDS STEADY; STRIKES PREVENT GAINS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—Freight car loadings leveled off to a bare increase of 653 cars in the week ended Sept. 23, according to the weekly report issued today by the American Railway association.

The loading of revenue freight for the week totaled 652,669 cars, and although the increase over the preceding week was slight, the total represented an increase over the corresponding week of 1932 by 57,064 cars. In 1931 the car loadings during that week were greater than this year by 85,367.

The smallness of the current gain was attributed to extensive coal strikes in the east, which cut down fuel loadings. On the other hand, miscellaneous and less than carload merchandise freight together set a new peak for this year.

Miscellaneous Freight Rises.

Miscellaneous freight loading for the week of Sept. 23 totaled 236,083 cars, an increase of 4,641 cars above the preceding week, and 19,316 cars above the corresponding week in 1932, but a decrease of 38,207 cars under the corresponding week in 1931.

Loading of merchandise less than carload lot freight totaled 174,443 cars, an increase of 2,072 cars above the preceding week, but 4,210 cars below the corresponding week last year, and 42,368 cars below the same week two years ago.

Grain and grain products totaled 33,697 cars, an increase of 2,240 cars above the preceding week, but 2,349 cars below the corresponding week last year and 3,281 cars below the same week in 1931. In the western districts alone, grain and grain products loadings for the week ended Sept. 23 totaled 22,930 cars, a decrease of1,472 cars below the same week last year.

Four Groups Show Decrease.

Forest products loadings totaled 25,079 cars, 140 cars below the preceding week, but 6,502 cars above the same week in 1932. It was, however, a decrease of 446 cars below the same week in 1931.

Ore loadings amounted to 35,689 cars, a decrease of 4,392 cars below the preceding week, but 30,090 cars above the corresponding week in 1932, and 9,883 cars above the same week in 1931.

Coal loading amounted to 119,412 cars, a decrease of 5,393 cars below the preceding week, but 6,265 cars above the corresponding week in 1932. It was, however, a decrease of 9,303 cars below the same week in 1931.

Coke loadings amounted to 6,567 cars, four cars below the preceding week, but 2,867 cars above the same week last year, and 1,852 cars above the same week two years ago.

Live Stock Shipments Gain.

Live stock loading amounted to 21,694 cars, an increase of 1,629 cars above the preceding week, but 1,416 cars below the same week last year and 3,497 cars below the same week two years ago. In the western districts alone, loading of live stock for the week ended Sept. 23 totaled 17,130 cars, a decrease of 1,195 cars, compared with the same week last year.

All districts, except the central western and southwestern which showed small reductions, reported increases in the total loading of all commodities compared with the same week in 1932, but all districts reported decreases compared with the corresponding week in 1931, except the Pocahontas, which showed an increase.

Surcharge on Freight Ends After Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—Freight charges on many commodities will be reduced after tomorrow night due to the fact that surcharges authorized by the interstate commerce commission will then be eliminated.

The surcharges, which it is estimated have yielded the railroads in excess of 100 million dollars since they became effective in January, 1932, were allowed by the commission after the railroads had petitioned for a general 15 per cent increase in freight rates.

Emergency Charge Approved.

Denying the petition for increased rates the commission authorized the railroads to assess emergency surcharges that ranged from six cents a ton to two cents a hundred pounds. Agricultural products were generally excepted from the increases.

The Railroad Credit corporation was organized by the railroads to use the money accruing from the surcharges for loans to railroads, the money collected by each carrier to be returned to it eventually. Loans aggregating $73,691,000 were made to needy railroads by the corporation.

Since last March, however, when the commission allowed the surcharges to remain for another six months, the railroads have retained the accruals from the surcharge and the corporation has been liquidating its affairs.

Credit Problem Unsolved.

In refusing to permit imposition of the surcharges beyond Sept. 30, the commission said it was evident that the surcharge plan, as a temporary emergency measure, although productive of some net increase in revenue, failed far short of solving the problems of credit which confronted the railroads generally.

Continuance of the surcharges would be equivalent to a general increase in rates, the commission held, and this would not be justified. It added that the problems of the railroads could not be solved by general increases in rates.

DOLLAR AGAIN TURNS DOWN TO 65.24 CENTS GOLD

New York, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The American dollar, fairly firm in early foreign exchange trading today, turned heavy in the late hours and finished with substantial losses in terms of leading European currencies.

In terms of the French gold franc the dollar closed with a value of 65.24 cents, compared with 65.95 cents yesterday.

The sudden reversal of the dollar trend was somewhat mystifying to dealers. They reported that the market here was unusually thin, however, and that a renewal of rumors concerning a "free" gold market in the United States may have prompted continental speculators to take on fresh short commitments.

The British pound sterling, off around a cent at one time, ended with a gain of 3¼ cents at a cable rate of $4.75⅝. French francs closed around their highest level of the week at 6.00½ cents, up .06½ of a cent.

Today's newly mined gold price was announced by the treasury as $31.33, an increase of 28 cents an ounce as compared with yesterday's quotation.

ILLINOIS MINES SAY RAIL RATES FAVOR INDIANA

Southern Illinois coal producers yesterday complained that rates given by the railroads to Indiana mine owners unduly favor the latter. The protest was made before Examiner R. N. Trezise of the interstate commerce commission at the Hotel Sherman.

Experts for the Illinois Coal Traffic bureau, composed of the larger producers of southern Illinois coal, asserted that the railroads' practice in allowing Indiana shippers a discount in weight is unfair. They asserted that the Indiana shippers wash their coal before shipping. The coal thus gains weight so that theoretically it dries out and loses weight by the time it reaches its destination.

The experts said there would be no complaint if the coal dried out during the shipment. They asserted that actually the coal is dried before it is weighed for shipping. Thus, they said, the railroads are subtracting weight on coal that wasn't there when it was shipped. The greater part of Illinois coal is not washed, they said.

Socony-Vacuum Corp. Will Restore 10 Pct. Salary Cut

New York, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The Socony-Vacuum corporation, effective Oct. 1, will restore the 10 per cent reduction in the pay of salaried workers which took effect around June 1, last, it was learned today. Beyond admitting the company's purpose to raise the salaries to their former levels, officials would not comment.

ROOSEVELT AIDS TO DRAFT STOCK EXCHANGE CURB

Washington, D. C., Sept. 29.—(AP)—A special advisory committee is being planned by the Roosevelt administration to work out legislation by which it hopes to put a curb upon violent price fluctuations on the New York Stock exchange.

Plans for establishing the committee were being formulated quietly today by Roosevelt aids in several federal agencies. They said that congressional action would be necessary for the step.

Control of the exchange was described by several administration key men as necessary to prevent speculative excesses which, they said, wrought havoc with commodity values and shattered public confidence.

Purpose to Draft Bill.

Under the tentative proposals the committee would study stock market practices and work out a legislative remedy for presentation to the next congress.

No names have been chosen for the committee as yet, it was said, but thought was being given to the selection of a group representative of the government, business and finance, and investors.

The recent threat of the New York Stock exchange to move from New York into New Jersey was cited by the experts in support of the contention that the exchange's transactions were not local but interstate.

Based on Interstate Control.

Several administration legal experts said a bill to control the exchange could be based upon the government's power over interstate commerce. This authority, they said, was clear cut and could be exercised through control of communication systems, the mails, and the contention that money and stocks flowed over state lines and were not centered in New York City.

They emphasized that the basic aim of regulation would be to prevent wild fluctuations and to guard against market rigging and pool trading.

Call Regulation Necessary.

"The money at work in the exchange comes from all over the country. What goes on there affects the state of Washington, Phoenix, Ariz.; Dallas, Tex., and Omaha just about as much as it does New York City at the moment, and more seriously in the long run.

"I don't think any one would want to put any severe curb on the speculative element in business. But that element should not be allowed to destroy those who cannot protect themselves from wide fluctuations resulting purely from fictitious valuation by market operations."

Brokers Think Probe Fading.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 29.—While it is expected that there will be a revival of the demand for regulating the security exchanges of the country and possibly of Wall street generally, the impression among bankers and brokers is that the congressional committees have made their widest explorations already. The stock exchange, however, has been anticipating some further requests for information.

The functioning of the securities act passed by the last congress and the regulation adopted by the stock exchange to increase margin requirements and restrict short selling are considered in the financial community sufficient to protect the public and to avert the need of any further federal regulation.

ST. JOSEPH LEAD WORKING TIME IS NEARLY DOUBLED

Bonne Terre, Mo., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Clinton H. Crane of New York, president of the St. Joseph Lead company, announced here tonight at a meeting of general foremen that, effective Monday, all employés of the company, its affiliates and subsidiaries will be put on half time employment, almost doubling the earnings of approximately 4,000 men.

Crane said conditions of the lead market, especially in view of the large supply above the ground, "hardly warranted" the action, but that it was decided to "take a chance of business increasing." Until two weeks ago, employés worked only eight days a month, but it was increased to nine days at that time.

New York, Sept. 29.—The listed bond market moved higher today in fairly active dealings, except United States government bonds which sold off 2-32ds to 10-32ds point. Of the latter, only one issue closed higher, the treasury 4¼s, up 2-32ds, and one, the fourth Liberty 4¼s, held unchanged.

Domestic utility, railroad and industrial bonds averaged higher in the order named, with a representative list of active issues rallying 1 to more than 3 points. A few issues did even better. The Alleghany Corporation 5s, due 1950, rallied 3⅝ points in heavy dealings. The corporation's 5s, due 1944, and 5s, due 1949, closed up a point and unchanged, respectively. Among the strongest rails were Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Union Pacific, and the Wabash.

New York Transits Up.

New York Rapid Transit bonds were active and higher. The Interborough issues rose half a point to a point, Manhattan Railway first 4s ¼ point, and Brooklyn Manhattan Transit 6s, ⅛ point.

A burst of strength in French government 7½s and 7s carried these issues to further new highs on gains of 5⅛ and 3⅛ points, respectively. Likewise City of Bordeaux 6s jumped 6 points to a new peak, while other French municipal loans came close to scoring highs on advances of 2¾ to 6¼ points.

Other Foreign Bonds Rise.

Swiss government 5½s moved up 1¾ and fractional gains accrued to United Kingdom loans. German issues scored further recoveries in fairly active dealings. South American issues pointed higher under the leadership of the Argentine government loans.

Advances and declines in domestic bonds on the Curb exchange were about evenly balanced and at no time during the day was the trend clearly defined. Foreign loans, however, were distinctly firm, particularly German issues.

Bendix Aviation.

Investors' Guide: Please send me a report on Bendix Aviation.—Mrs. A. D. B.

Answer: Bendix Aviation corporation is a holding company organized in April, 1929, to consolidate the activities of Bendix corporation, Stromberg Carburetor Company of America, Inc., and other units engaged in the manufacture of automobile accessories and similar products.

It supplies about 80 per cent of the starting drives used in automobile manufacture, 30 per cent of the brakes and 12 per cent of the carburetors. It also is an important factor in supplying some aviation equipment and manufactures ventilators and industrial safety devices. Automobile equipment, however, constitutes the bulk of output.

Earnings fluctuate with the degree of activity in the automobile manufacturing industry. During the first quarter of this year, when automobile production was at its low ebb, the company operated at a loss of $267,000. During the second quarter automobile output rose sharply and the company reported net profit of $817,000, or 39 cents per share. This was sufficient to wipe out the first quarter loss and resulted in net profit of $549,000, or 26 cents per share, for the first six months, as compared with loss of $52,000 for the first half of 1932.

Loss in 1932 was $1,601,000. This compared with net income of $1,555,000, or 74 cents per share, for 1931; $1,184,000 for 1930 and $7,416,000 for 1929.

At the close of 1932 cash assets of about $3,500,000 compared with current liabilities of $1,340,000. Current assets totaled $7,947,000.

Real estate mortgages outstanding, the only long term debt, aggregate $432,000. Equity is represented solely by 2,097,663 shares of $5 par stock. Nothing has been paid on the shares since the 15 cent payment on April 1, 1932.

Represented on the directorate are General Motors corporation, Curtiss-Wright corporation, Westinghouse Air Brake and Electric, and Auto-Lite company.

Arkansas Power and Light.

Investors' Guide: Will Arkansas Power and Light company pay the preferred dividends due to be paid some time next week?—D. S. A.

Answer: A dividend of 58 cents per share of $7 preferred and 50 cents per share of $6 preferred stock of Arkansas Power and Light company is payable on Oct. 2 to stock of record Sept. 15. These amounts are at one-third the stipulated rates.

LOGAN & BRYAN SETTLEMENT ON LEASE APPROVED

Master in Chancery Julius H. Miner yesterday approved the settlement between Logan & Bryan, former stock brokerage house, and the Bankers' building, whereby the brokers have paid $100,000 in cash to settle their liability on a lease for the entire fourth

NEW CREDIT PLAN LIFTS STOCKS, BUT THEY DROP LATER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 29.—Stocks were put "through the mill" today as speculative sentiment blew hot and cold on the nearby outlook for the administration's recovery plans. Official word that a new project was being worked out for expanding credit as a means of lifting prices anew and giving business a new forward push prompted considerable short covering in the forenoon dealings and quotations rose 1 to 4 points over a wide range. Traders committed to the bull side began to indulge visions of a substantial extension of the "creeping" advance which got under way yesterday.

By mid-afternoon, however, the rank and file were feeling low spirited again and operations once more veered heavily to the selling side. The closing gong found the early gains displaced with an irregular array of losses running in the net from a fraction to around 2 points. In isolated instances the damage was much worse.

Metals Group Strong.

The selling wave showed little discrimination, and one group resisted no better than another on the whole. A conspicuous exception was the metals group, in which most issues managed to retain a small percentage of their early gains in spite of the mussy turn of affairs toward the last.

Pressure on American Telephone and other utilities in the last hour had much to do with the poor showing of the market as a whole. Telephone was sold in heavy blocks and was carried down from its forenoon high of 122⅛ to 117⅛, a loss of 4¼ points on the day. Consolidated Gas was battered down nearly 2 points to a new low for the move and within a small fraction of its minimum for the year. Peoples Gas came in for further selling and receded to 31½, which is less than 3 points above its 1933 low.

The boost in the mid-continent crude prices gave the oils a rise at the outset, but interest in them simmered down when the general list began to waver. The group was no better than irregular at the close.

Some Specialties Firm.

Specialties like Celanese and Johns-Manville were firm after splurging on the upward move. In the motors division Chrysler and General Motors came in for a round of buying, but both wilted. Farm issues followed the course of the general list and paid little attention to movements in grain and cotton.

United States Steel eased more than 3 points from its early high, closing at a net loss of 2¼. Estimates that the big corporation's third quarter earnings would not bear out the promise given by the summer upturn were responsible.

MARSHALL FIELD, WHOLESALE, PICKS SALES MANAGERS

Marshall Field & Co., wholesale, yesterday announced the appointment of sales managers to head important territories of the company, bringing to completion the sales reorganization plan launched some months ago.

Appointments follow: Porter J. Case to the western division, comprising California, Washington, Oregon, Utah, Montana, Colorado, Wyoming, New Mexico, Nevada, Arizona and Idaho; J. D. J. P. Boland, for the last two years head of the rayon and knit underwear department, has been named general sales and merchandise manager of the New York territory, comprising the Atlantic seaboard states and New England.

MINIMUM PRICE ON THREE STEEL CLASSES RAISED

Minimum prices on steel plates, floor plates and structural shapes have been increased $2 a ton under the NRA code of fair competition, according to an announcement made yesterday.

Floor plates—Chicago, $3.25, effective Oct. 2; Pittsburgh, $3.20, effective Sept. 30.

Structural shapes—Chicago, $1.75, and Pittsburgh, $1.70, effective Oct. 5; Buffalo and Bethlehem, Pa., $1.80, effective Sept. 30; Birmingham, Ala., $1.85, effective Oct. 5; standard sections only, gulf ports, $2.10, effective Oct. 1. Wide flange—Gulf ports, $2.20, and Pacific coast ports, $2.35, both effective Oct. 1.

New minimum prices on bars have not yet been changed, although some of the makers have made advances of $3 a ton on this product.

INSURANCE MEN DECRY TINKERING WITH CURRENCY

Pass Resolution Against Money Debasement.

Holding that tinkering with the currency would work to the disadvantage of life insurance policy holders, members of the National Association of Life Underwriters, in their annual convention at the Stevens hotel, yesterday passed resolutions opposing any money debasement and commending President Roosevelt for resisting inflationary measures.

The convention, which closed last night, heard a number of speakers discuss problems and subjects of moment to the 4,000 insurance producers who attended it.

Contrary to general belief, the big companies do not look with favor on $1,000,000 policy holders, according to John M. Laird, vice president of the Connecticut General Life company, Hartford. The reason for the dislike is not fear that holders of such policies are more prone to suicide than others, he said, but because it has been found the mortality rate among them is higher than with the average policy holders.

Mortality High in "Palmy" Days.

Mr. Laird said that while some attributed the high mortality rate among holders of large policies to the depression, statistics show the deaths among this class were high in the "palmy" days before the market collapse.

"Experience includes a period of generally favorable mortality and extends practically all the depression," he said. "Nevertheless, the mortality of persons insured for $1,000,000 or more was 169 per cent of the normal. Clearly, there was something wrong even before the depression."

Asking whether an applicant who passes a good medical examination and has a favorable inspection report should be allowed to secure all the insurance for which the man himself, his relatives, business associates and creditors could pay, Mr. Laird suggested that the limit should be determined by his actual financial value.

Placing Limit on Total.

"Some think that overinsurance is a product of the depression, but more than ten years ago underwriters were watching this problem and trying to form a reasonable measuring rod for determining the upper limit which might safely be granted. By 1930 more information had become available and companies were limiting 'personal' insurance to the amount which could be purchased on the ordinary life plan by 20 per cent of the man's income."

Roger B. Hull, managing director and general counsel of the association, asserted that life insurance, with its 20 billions of assets, gathered through the cooperation and out of the toil and effort of more than half the country's citizens, represented America's first defense against communism. He expressed the opinion that communism hasn't a chance in America.

COTTON SLIGHTLY LOWER; PRICE RANGE NARROW

Speculative interest in cotton is giving a great deal of attention to government operations, but the volume of business is not heavy, and price fluctuation narrow, around 20 points for the day between the high and the low.

The market met selling on bulges and support on breaks and closed 6 to 12 points net lower in Chicago, with other markets off 1 to 11 points on futures and unchanged for spots in New York, unchanged to 5 cents lower in other markets, New York being 9.90 cents, New Orleans, Galveston, and Houston, 9.65 cents.

Spinners' takings of American cotton for the week, wired to James E. Bennett & Co., from New Orleans, were 261,000 bales against 248,000 bales the previous week, and 369,000 bales last year. The into sight movement for the week is 966,000 bales, against 526,571 bales the previous week, and 700,319 bales last year. Prices:
